B.C. Ferry Strike Called Off

A threatened strike by 750 deck officers and engineers aboard B.C. Ferries for this Thursday midnight is off, union officials said today.

Peter Marshall, representative for the marine services (licensed) component of the B.C. Government Employees Union, said the BCGEU executive asked the officers to stay at work and refrain from striking.

The component executive was to have been informed at a meeting Sunday.

One union source said the BCGEU made a commitment to the government there would be no job action while the entire union is voting on a general wage increase.

Tallying of votes will not be done until Sept. 20, he said.

The officers component had said it was unaware of this commitment, he added.

The dispute began last May when B.C. Ferries announced layoffs. Officers voted for strike action and that original strike notice was to have taken effect June 1.

Marshall said that notice was cancelled when Hugh Ladner was named as industrial inquiry commissioner in the dispute, but he claimed the notice was still valid.

Marshall apparently didn't discuss the new strike threat with either the BCGEU executive or the executive of the 2,500-member unlicensed group of ferry workers.

Norm Thornber, business agent for the unlicensed group who earlier called the officers move premature, has said he has been assured there will be no more layoffs, other than the 240 announced in June.

Transport Minister Jack Davis, meanwhile, said the officers fear of massive layoffs is unfounded and that anyone with more than two years service cannot be laid off.

CLC Head Vows Work Stoppage

Times News Services

Joe Morris, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, says threats of disciplinary action will not stop workers from taking part in the Oct. 14 general work stoppage.

"The decision has been made by the delegates and it will be carried out," Morris said in a telephone interview from Toronto Sunday.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association last week urged its members to seek injunctions, sue unions for damages resulting from loss of production and take disciplinary action against individual workers.

Association president Rodrigue Bilodeau has said the planned stoppage to protest the federal anti-inflation program is an illegal strike.

But Morris said the action is not a strike but a day of protest. "And there is nothing in our laws about protesting against laws. That's what I thought democracy was all about."

Asked if the congress was aware that damage suits might be filed for losses due ot the stoppage, Morris said, "the delegates knew what they were doing."

Morris added that he has no intention of turning the protest into a children's crusade.

Morris was responding to a request by Joe Stangl, president of the Canadian School Trustees' Association, that the CLC clarify what it meant by its call for student participation in the Oct. 14 protest against federal wage controls.

Stangl said he was concerned the call might have been directed at children but Morris said it referred to post-secondary students.

72,000 Leave Homes As Volcano Threatens

Times News Services

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe — La Soufriere volcano, spewing smoke and volcanic dust, will explode in a "catastrophic" eruption in the next week to 15 days, a French scientist said today. But because of a mass evecuation no loss of life is expected.

The scientist, Charles Brousse of the University of Paris, said a warning Sunday that the eruption would occur in a matter of hours was issued to ensure that all 72,000 residents left the area around the 4,813-foot peak.

A 650-foot high cloud of fine volcanic ash rose over La Soufriere as islanders fought their way through traffic jams and highway accidents, many of them in private cars hastily loaded with household possessions and others on buses sent by Guadeloupean authorities from the sister island of Grande Terre.

The evacuation of the entire southern half of Bassse Terre was ordered Sunday.

The volcano has been active since July 8, when an explosion split open a fault on one of its slopes. One expert said the current volcanic crisis was the longest that has ever occurred in the Antilles, and predicted that the plug of rock holding lava inside La Soufriere would blow off within days if not hours.

Only ash has sifted through the plug and rained onto neighboring villages so far.

Some 200 French firemen were expected to arrive here from Paris Sunday. Authorities said they were also awaiting tents and other supplies with which to care for evacuees.

Officials reported a few stray cats and dogs were the only living creatures seen in a tour of almost a dozen towns nestled on the slopes of the cloud-enshrouded volcano.

The panicky exodus by foot, cart, horse and car clogged the narrow roads and lanes twisting away from La Soufriere.

The refugees, lugging goats, chickens and bundled possessions, crowded into homes of friends or relatives in outlying areas or took temporary shelter in vast tent camps set up by the French armed forces.

Volcano experts said the main danger was not an eruption of rocks and lava but the explosion of a cloud of burning gas that could pack the force of several atomic bombs and asphyxiate every living thing within its range.

Meanwhile, four British members of a scientific expedition to scale an active South American volcano were missing today after an eruption showered their party with molten lava and rocks as they were climbing within yards of the snowcapped summit.

NEW 'QUAKE HITS CHINA

Times News Services

A massive earthquake struck just off the southernmost coast of the Philippine Islands today, two hours after a strong tremor hit deep inside the Chinese mainland.

There were no immediate reports from the area of the larger quake, which measured 8.0 on the open-ended Richter scale of intensity. But the National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said "local damage is probable."

Israel, U.S. Blasted

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — To a trumpeting of conch shells, leaders of 85 nations representing more than half the world's population opened a summit meeting with an attack on Western financial institutions and the governments of the United States, Israel, South Africa and Rhodesia.

Keynoting the fifth summit conference of nonaligned nations, Sri Lanka Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike urged the leaders to create a "commercial bank for the Third World" so "the financial centres of the world will no longer be limited to New York, London, Zurich and Paris."

The prime minister said the bank would allow developing nations, many of which are deeply in debt to Western banks, to undertake international economic activity "which has so far remained a monopoly of a few multinational private banks in the developed nations."

Asia's first summit conference of nonaligned nations opened with pomp and pageantry. Conch shells were blown as the traditional oil lamp was lighted. Some of the Arab delegates to the four-day session were dressed in flowing robes and headdresses.

Opening Picketed

KELOWNA (CP) — Invitations to B.C. Senator Ray Perrault and Premier Bill Bennett to attend the opening of a city museum expansion Sunday were withdrawn when a picket line appeared at the building. The picket line was set up by a member of the Canadian Union of Public Employees local bargaining unit who was joined by two other CUPE officials. The invitations were withdrawn so neither official guest would have to decide about crossing the picket line, a museum spokesman said.

Alcan Talks Sett

ARVIDA, Que. TOKYO (UPI) — Former premier Kakuei Tanaka, the rags-to-riches politician who headed Japan's government from 1972 to 1974, was indicted today on a charge of accepting a $1.67 million bribe from the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. He is the first premier in Japan's history to be indicted for corruption while he was in office.

Two Rhodesian Police Die in Rocket Attack

Times News Services

SALISBURY — Mozambique gunners fired mortars and rockets across the border at a Rhodesian police post Sunday, killing two policemen, security forces said.

The communique on the attack — reported at Nyamapanda, a few hundred yards from the Mozambique frontier — was the first confirmation that regular Mozambican troops had killed Rhodesian forces.

The communique said a white 19-year-old patrolman and a black 20-year-old constable were killed. Two other policemen were wounded.

On Tuesday, Rhodesian troops launched a raid into Mozambique on a military camp and killed more than 300 black nationalist guerrillas.

Meanwhile in South Africa, black leaders warned the government Sunday that the violence of recent weeks would spread unless blacks and whites meet to talk peace and the government introduces basic policy changes.

Mxolisi Mvovo, acting president of the Black Peoples Convention, which promotes a greater political awareness among blacks, said in a newspaper interview the government had shown it could not deal with black unrest.

"Not only has the country seen extensive violence and great threat to property, life and limb in the past few weeks, it appears that the disturbances are going to be a chronic feature of the black man's resistance to subjugation and that wanton violence will increase rather than abate."

In another development the South Africa government bowed to protests and removed restrictions on blacks who want to buy or build their own homes in black townships.

PENINSULA WATER: FIRST STEP TAKEN

Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis today announced the first step towards the solution" of the chronic summer water shortage on the Saanich Peninsula.

The Deep Cove, Sidney and Brentwood water districts will be dissolved and the responsibility for water supply on the peninsula turned over to the Capital Region District, he said.

The minister said he plans to establish a peninsula water commission made up of representatives of the three municipalities and the existing water districts.

Christian Troops Open New Attack

BEIRUT (AP) — Christian forces opened a new campaign today to drive the Palestinians from the Meten area of the mountains overlooking Beirut.

"Unless the Palestinians pull out of the Meten area immediately, we will have to evict them by force," said a leader of the right-wing Phalange party, which has the largest militia on the Christian side of the Lebanese civil war.

Reports from the combatants said the Palestinians shelled Christian positions with missiles and anti-aircraft guns during the night, and that Christian militiamen backed by tanks and half-tracks assaulted Palestinian positions at the mountain village of Aintoura.

Fighting also continued in Beirut's devastated commercial sector and the neighboring Chiyah and Ein Rummaneh suburbs, the former Moslem, the latter Christian. Hospital and security sources reported that about 90 persons were killed and 135 wounded during the night.

Phalangist leaders told the commander of the Arab League peace force, Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Hassan Gheneim, that they consider Meten part of their territory in the de-facto partition of Lebanon that is taking shape.

Palestinian sources said their forces will not give up their positions unless they get concessions in return, such as a Syrian withdrawal from eastern Lebanon.

Second Cement Walkout Imminent

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of the Cement Masons Union said Sunday members of his union will be off the job Tuesday or Wednesday, shutting down the province's construction industry.

Frank Stevens had said the cement masons were prepared to walk off the job today, but said Sunday unless a miracle happens, his members will be off the job Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest.

Stevens said the union will not accept the Kinnaird report, which ended a 37-day strike-lockout a week ago.

He said his union is upset over a proposed wage discrepancy between ironworkers and cement masons.

The Kinnaird report, brought down by Jim Kinnaird, a former construction union negotiator and assocfate deputy labor minister, would see construction workers get wage increases of 11.2 per cent to 13.6 per cent on base rates ranging from $9.50 to $12.19 an hour. (See also page 2.)

Kissinger, MacEachen Try Fence Mending

Times Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Amid signs of strain between the two countries, U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Canadian External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen will attempt to smooth the relationship at meetings here this week.

The meetings were arranged suddenly, and recently, when Kissinger telephoned MacEachen to invite him to dinner on Tuesday and talks the following day.

High on the agenda for the talks will be discussion of disputed Maritime boundaries and how best the two countries can co-ordinate the implementation of their 209-mile fishing zones next year.

Another topic will be the ongoing dispute about Canadian broadcasting policies.

Probably the most public abrasive criticism of Canada came at the start of the Olympic Games in Montreal, when the Trudeau government refused to allow athletes from banner of the Republic of Taiwan to compete under the banner of the Republic of China.

Shortly after this the Canadian-American committee of business, labor and professional leaders issued a lengthy paper which described Canada-U.S. relations as "tense" and warned that if Canada tried to push too hard and too fast for perceived independence from U.S. influences, bilateral co-operation could be in jeopardy.

The Maritime boundaries issue has simmered quietly, without attracting much public attention, for a long time. There have been disputed boundary lines in several regions but the one the U.S. regards as most important is in the Gulf of Maine where jurisdiction over fisheries and mineral rights in the George's Bank area is in contention.

Canada will extend its fishing limit from 12 to 200 miles next Jan. 1, the U.S. has set March 1 as the date for its new fishing zone, whatever the outcome of negotiations at the Law of the Sea conference for an international treaty. The two countries hope to co-ordinate plans for establishing fishing rights and conservation rules within the new zones.

The broadcasting issue has aroused especially strong feelings in the U.S. Congress and among U.S. broadcasters. The dispute involves Canada's legislation wiping out tax concessions to Canadian advertisers on U.S. border television stations and the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission's orders to cable companies to delete the commercials from programs originating in the U.S.

Just two weeks ago, 19 senators sent a stiff letter to Kissinger, enclosing a draft bill which they indicated could be introduced in Congress, retaliating against the Canadian policies.

Tight Picket Rules Urged in Construction

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

The final report on the state of the B.C. construction industry recommends tight picketing restrictions for individual construction unions.

The report, by special inquiry commissioner Jim Kinnaird, outlines a possible solution for inter-industry jurisdictional disputes.

Kinnaird recommends that where an individual construction union is working on a common project and there is a dispute, picketing by the construction union be limited to that union's part of the project and not the whole operation.

"Picketing by construction employees in such multi-certification production areas should be restricted to the construction project inside a plant or to a designated work gate," Kinnaird says in his report.

The B.C. Labor Relations Board has ruled over the past few years that construction unions cannot shut down an entire project because of one small dispute, but Kinnaird recommends such rulings form concrete board policy.

"While such a restriction unquestionably carves at the right of a union to take economic action against an employer, a fundamental aspect of the free collective bargaining system, it must be recognized to be a minor picketing restriction solving an in-house problem of the labor movement," he says.

Kinnaird's report was commissioned in May, 1975, by then labor minister Bill King.

Labor Minister Allan Williams said an independent assessment of the report is being made by himself and department officials and he invited interested parties to comment on Kinnaird's recommendations.

The report recommends the labor department establish a registration system to ensure that all construction tradesmen in the province are competent and qualified.

The labor department should establish an office of the registrar for both construction employees and contractors, Kinnard, a former construction union leader, says.

Journeymen certificates should be granted only to those employees who have completed a formal apprenticeship or a registered, approved training program, the report recommends. This system is in effect in only five trades.

Kinnaird recommends no immediate changes in the area of licensing contractors in B.C., but recognizes the need for some sort of system to regulate the standards of work.

"Fly-by-night contractors operate in the province. The residential section of construction, in particular, has been plagued by irresponsible entrepeneurs and sub-standard workmanship," he says.

Kinnaird recommends that a basic system of contractor registration be established, but that the only initial requirement of registration be that contractors hire only qualified employees.

Kinnaird recommends a new basis for organizing construction employees into unions, which he calls geographical certification.

"It entails that when a union demonstrates to the Labor Relations Board that it represents the majority of employees in a designated geographical area, it is certified as the bargaining agent for all trade employees in that area."

He suggests that the geographical areas could be the Lower Mainland, Okanagan, Prince George District and Vancouver Island.

Kinnaird cites as one of his more important recommendations the revival and expansion of the Construction Industry Advisory Committee as a link between labor, management and government.

"The key to all of my recommendations is an effective advisory body. When the true importance of the construction industry is realized by government and other segments of the industrial community, then construction will assume its place in governmental priorities, with mining, fishing, forestry and the other ministries of government."

Vets to Form Rights Group

Veterans concerned about the change in medical services at Royal Jubilee Hospital have been invited to a meeting Aug. 29 when a veterans' rights association will be formed.

John Collins, chairman of the steering committee, said today the meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the War Amputees of Canada hall at 1610 Oak Bay Ave.

Collins said many veterans are upset over the phasing out of out-patients clinics at Memorial Pavilion, the former Veterans' hospital.

Victoria lawyer Peter Foy is helping the veterans committee prepare a constitution.

Foy also is preparing a critique on the administration of the Memorial Pavilion, Collins said.

Collins said the group expects the Royal Canadian Legion and other veteran organizations will give unqualified support once the facts are presented and an alternative policy offered.

Tom Harris, executive director of the Pacific Command, said the Legion can't understand the veterans' committee's position.

He said it was his understanding medical services would be extended, not reduced once the transfer had been made. He added that if the Legion felt there is anything wrong, "we would be the first to look into it."

FIRE MARSHALS OPEN MEETING

Fire marshals from across Canada are meeting in Victoria this week for the 55th annual conference of the Association of Canadian Fire Marshals and Fire Comissioners.

President Hector Fournier fire marshal for New Brunswick, said the meetings will examine safety legislation and standards as well as safety of new products.

The fire councils of the Canadian Standards Association and the Underwriter's Laboratories of Canada are holding their annual meetings at the same time.

Fournier said the 80 delegates expected to attend include representatives from the National Research Council and Insurance Advisory Organization.

The conference opened this morning where delegates were welcomed by David Vickers, deputy attorney-general, whose department is responsible for the administration of the fire marshal's office in B.C.

She was rescued from the locked loo after 10 minutes of shouting.

Barges Arrive

PRUDHOE BAY, Alaska (AP) — The first eight barges in the annual sealift of goods and equipment to the North Slope oilfields have arrived Saturday their destination. The flotilla, bearing 73,000 tons of cargo, includes 11 tugboats and 23 barges.

the weather

The weather over B.C. remains unsettled and cool under the influence of a trough of low pressure lying off the coast. A disturbance associated with this trough has brought rain into southwestern B.C. from the south. As this system moves inland and weakens this weather will taper off to some showers later today. Over the Interior a few showers or thundershowers are forecast today tapering off tonight. On Tuesday over coastal regions cloudy skies with a few afternoon showers are forecast except over northern portions where sunny periods will prevail while in the Interior a few afternoon showers with isolated thundershowers are expected. Temperatures will continue cool.

HOW TO TEST DRIVE CANADA'S BEST-SELLING* SMALL CAR.

1. Go directly to a Honda Civic dealer. There's bound to be one nearby.
2. Let a salesman lead you to a Honda Civic. Get in, stretch out your legs and buckle up. Twist the key to start and let 'er rip.
3. Don't be afraid to tromp down on the accelerator. (But please stay under the speed limit.) Honda Civic's engine has plenty of pick-up in spite of its generous gasoline mileage.
4. Find a place to put a Honda Civic through a turn. There's usually one on every corner. Notice how precisely the rack and pinion steering steers. How independent suspension on all four wheels cushions and grips. How a low centre of gravity keeps you on line.
5. Hit the brakes. Honda Civic's front disc brakes are power-assisted for sure stopping. And diagonally linked, for safety, to the rear drum brakes. Don't worry about the salesman. He's belted in, too.
6. Scout for a ridiculously small parking space, and achieve the impossible. Honda Civic tucks right in there. And tucks right out again.
7. Head back to the dealer's. Get a price on the Honda Civic model you want—Sedan, Hatchback, Station Wagon or CVCC. You should be sold on one of the Honda Civics by now. If not, repeat until convinced.

Bounced Men Sought After Fatal Fire

EDMONTON (CP) — Police were searching today for two men for questioning about a fire in a discotheque early Sunday in which two firefighters died.

Police said two men had trouble with bouncers at the JJ and Friends Discotheque and were seen leaving the 101st Street club minutes before the fire broke out shortly after midnigght Saturday night.

Ralph Hopp, a father of two, and Murray Clark were killed in the fire. The two, both 28, joined the fire department in 1973. A third fireman, Paul Wyndham, 25, is in hospital suffering from severe burns to his hands, neck and groin. He was reported in stable condition Sunday night.

The men were caught in a sudden explosion of flames caused by an intense buildup of heat inside the two-storey building. All three were scheduled to take six days off following their shift Sunday.

They were pulled from the flames and give artificial respiration and treatment with a respirator. Hopp and Clark were prounounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

None of the patrons or staff of the club were injured.

When Fire Chief L. C. Day told Dianne Hopp that her husband was dead, her first reaction was: "I knew it."

She told the chief she was always afraid when her husband left for work he would not return.

The deaths were the first for the department since a firefighter was killed in 1951.

Damage to the discotheque was estimated at $50,000. The club caters to pool players and dancers. There were 85 patrons in the club when the fire broke out.

ON HER WAY to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., today, Julie Freeman of 3975 Maria will undergo open heart surgery. A community drive to raise an additional $4,000 needed to pay her expenses went over the top today with a $300 donation from the Naval Chiefs and Petty Officers Association.

CHURCH-BOUND GIRL, 12, KILLED

BELFAST (Reuter) — Irish republican guerrillas are accusing British troops of killing a 12-year-old girl in one of the bitterest disputes Northern Ireland has seen lately.

The British army, which has 14,000 troops in Northern Ireland, is remaining silent on the tragedy, saying it is being investigated by police.

But the death on Saturday of Majella O'Hare, a Roman Catholic, as she walked to confession in the village of Balymoyer, comes amid passions enflamed by the deaths of three other children last Tuesday.

All three belonged to the same family and their deaths under the wheels of a guerrilla getaway car in Belfast have brought thousands of women to the streets, denouncing gunmen and calling for an end to the seven years of street battles.

The IRA said Sunday night the O'Hare girl was shot by a British patrol and her death should not be allowed to give a boost to an allegedly British-inspired propaganda campaign against the guerrillas, which started with the earlier child deaths.

Police have said an autopsy has shown that bullets taken from the child's body probably came from British army weapons. The army says its patrol was returning fire from gunmen.

Majella's father, John O'Hare, said Sunday night that he saw and heard only one shot fired.

Gangs Beat, Rob Concert Audience

DETROIT (UPI) — Gangs of black youths terrorized rock fans in downtown Detroit Sunday night, forcing their way into a concert at Cobo Hall and beating and robbing members of the audience.

At least 21 youths, six of them juveniles, were arrested and jailed on charges ranging from larceny to armed robbery.

Sixty members of Detroit's layoff-plagued police department were held on overtime to quell the disturbance.

The trouble began at about 9 p.m. when about 200 youths stromed the doors at Cobo Hall and forced their way into the concert by the "Kool and the Gang" and the "Average White Band."

The youths, identified by witnesses as members of black East Side gangs known as the Black Killers and Errol Flynns, beat people in the audience with chairs and robbed them.

Officers did not intervene until the violence spilled onto the streets, a police spokesman said, because Cobo Hall's security detail did not ask for their assistance.

Meanwhile in New York, youths barred from a "disco party" went on a spree of robberies and vandalism in midtown Manhattan Sunday, assaulting pedestrians and smashing windows. Ten persons were arrested.

Police said more than 20 robberies were reported and several windows were smashed by bands of youths roaming the area from Manhattan centre, two blocks from the site of the recent Democratic National Convention, to Times Square. The youths had been denied admittance to the centre, police said.

Four teen-agers were arrested by city police and charged with robbery, assault and disorderly conduct. Transit Authority officials arrested another six on charges of looting concessions in the subways.

Egypt-Libya Tensions Rise

CAIRO (UPI) — Egypt today accused Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy of allocating $1 million to stage an armed coup against President Anwar Sadat, sending relations between the two neighbors to a new low.

Egyptian officials made the accusation one day after Sadat blamed Khadafy for a bomb blast in Cairo that killed eight people and vowed that the Libyan strongman would not "escape from my hands for his crimes."

"Khadafy allocated $1 million to finance an armed coup against the Egyptian political leadership," assistant interior minister Maj. Gen. Hassan Abu Basha said in an interview in the newspaper Al Ahram. "Two persons were arrested in this connection and put on trial."

The newspaper did not specifically explain how Khadafy allegedly allocated the money or give further details on the incident and jailing of the suspects.

Libya countered the Egyptian charges Sunday by demanding an emergency conference of Arab foreign ministers to discuss a buildup of Egyptian troops and armor along the border between the two countries.

But political sources said it was unlikely a majority of the 20 member states would endorse the request.

Abu Basha also charged that Libya was distributing anti-government leaflets in Cairo and sending saboteurs on bombing and assassination missions in Egypt.

A time bomb—reportedly as powerful as 10 grenades—exploded in an Alexandria train Saturday, killing eight passengers and wounding 59.

Police were hunting for the culprits among Libyans and dissident Egyptians who recently arrived from Libya.

Gray Presses Immigration Protest

OTTAWA (CP) — Herb Gray, former Liberal cabinet minister, asked the government today to explain why it helped Saudi Arabia enforce an immigration policy that requires travellers to state their religious affiliation.

Gray, former minister of consumer and corporate affairs, said in a statement that he welcomed the government's decision Friday to abandon a heavily-criticized practice under which a Canadian testifying he was not Jewish could have his signature witnessed by a Canadian consular official.

But Gray, Liberal MP for Windsor West, said he wants to know how Canada got involved in such a situation in the first place.

"It amounted, at least indirectly, to helping a foreign government discriminate against a group of Canadians on the basis of their religion or origin," said Gray.

The statemenb, released by Gray's office, said he "called on the government to explain why it appears to have gone along with Saudi Arabian immigration rules that were being applied in a more discriminatory fashion to Canadians than Americans."

Gray said he recently learned from a United States official that Saudi Arabia does not require U.S. applicants to sign certificates, witnessed by U.S. consular officials, declaring that they are not Jewish.

The external affairs department said Friday the practice has been found inappropriate and will be abandoned.

$10,300 Grants For Local Seniors

Two local senior citizens' groups have received $10,300 in grants from the department of national health and ment of national health and welfare.

The Victoria Indian Cultural Centre received $7,150 to bring elders of the four Salish tribes together for social, recreational and craft development.

Potlatches and other forms of entertainment and social gatherings will be organized by the group headed by Gabriel Bartleman of Brentwood.

Other plans include a land claim research unit, an Indian recipe book and transcription of legends and folklore into native language.

The Oak Bay Senior Citizens' Orchestra was awarded $3,150 to buy new music and stands and have instruments repaired.

The band will voluntarily assist groups of older persons involved in fund raising by providing concerts and playing for dances.

150 ARRESTED

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — More than 150 persons, about half of them juveniles, were arrested for possession of marijuana and alcohol at a rock concert Sunday featuring the group Jethro Tull.

Police said most of those arrested were charged with possession of marijuana or alcohol or with public drunkeness. A few felony arrests for drugs other than marijuana were reported before the 4 p.m. concert at the Los Angeles Coliseum, attended by about 50,000 persons.

A Little Life in Council

In its clumsy ponderous way Victoria city council has recently showed a will pointedly lacking in earlier months. First we had the emergency heritage bylaw, admittedly a stalling action to prevent development in the vacuum of city long term policies. Now acting mayor Ald. Alf Hood says a bylaw that would lift the heritage designation from a Wharf Street apartment development before its promoter has a land use contract will be tabled.

The proposed bylaw to lift the heritage designation on the Wharf Street property before the advisory planning commission had a look at the development was premature. Such actions are also indicative of the casual manner in which some aldermen view their responsibilities. Had it not been for Ald. Murray Glazier and Ald. Ron McKenzie, who insisted that proprieties be observed, the bylaw might have gone through as a matter of course with a yawn from the city fathers. Both these aldermen deserve a pat on the back for sticking to their guns on this issue.

Whatever council eventually recommends on the Wharf Street development, though, it damaged its reputation for conducting the public's business fairly and squarely by the attempt to lift the heritage designation before granting a land use contract. In the eyes of many citizens that action makes the development a fait accompli.

Perhaps this is not so, but the eagerness shown by some aldermen in going along with the proposed bylaw shows a decided lack of political savvy, not to mention an ignorance of democratic process.

Doing public business is a far cry from private business. The sooner some of our aldermen learn this fact, the better their chances for re-election next November. Council has had adequate time to get the bugs out, so to speak. Of late the aldermen appear to be at least coming to grips with their functions. But appearances can be deceiving, as shown by the clumsy bylaw to lift the heritage designation on the Wharf Street property. Meanwhile, Victorians will watch with great interest as council deals with the Wharf Street development.

A Necessary Evil

More powerful .38-calibre ammunition for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is sure to raise indignant cries among the citizenry. It should be remembered that Canadian police officers only draw their sidearms as a last resort; that is when their life and limb is threatened or other citizens are in danger. Given these extreme circumstances a police officer wants to stop his assailant. Failure to do so means the person may kill the officer or other bystanders.

A policeman with his .38-calibre service revolver is no match for a desperate person armed with an M-1 carbine, which can fire 30 shots semi-automatically. These weapons can be purchased across the counter of many firearms stores on the lower mainland and Vancouver Island. Even in the most skilled hands pistols or revolvers are not as accurate as Hollywood movies portray. Consider that an officer has only six shots in his revolver, bullets that may be fired in extreme haste. If one bullet does not stop some armed maniac, an officer may never have the time to reload.

Heavier ammunition with more "man-stopping power" is distasteful to many people. But it is better than a maniac running loose or a maimed or dead police officer who succumbed because a criminal can provide himself with more effective armament than governments give to their policemen.

Some Tax Tips from Darcy

TORONTO—It is difficult to know what to make of Ontario treasurer Darcy McKeough's proposal that all provinces agree to increase their personal income tax rates by four percentage points in order to pressure the federal government into reducing its rate by an equivalent amount.

At first blush, the idea has a certain merit to it. McKeough's argument is that provincial taxes have to go up because Ottawa has betrayed its revenue guarantee that the provinces would not suffer from the tax reforms of 1972.

If therefore the provinces jointly agree to raise their taxes and explain why the increases are necessary, the federal government might well see the political wisdom of reducing its income tax rate, so that the net effect on the taxpayer is unchanged.

That at least is McKeough's avowed objective to get a four-point increase in provincial income tax off-set by a four-point decrease in federal tax. But even the gambling Darcy McKeough is prepared to admit he doesn't know if it will all fall into place as neatly as he hopes.

One Squealed to Feds

For one thing, all-province agreement will not be easy to come by. That is clear enough from the fact that at least one province has already "squealed" to the feds. McKeough's proposal was contained in a confidential letter dated July 22 to his fellow provincial ministers of finance. Ottawa did not get a copy. But the letter was leaked to the CBC in Ottawa by the federal government, which could only have got it from a provincial government—probably one of the Liberal administrations in the maritimes—which felt that Ottawa should know about it.

All provinces, of course, do not have to agree to McKeough's proposal to make it feasible. It would still have political clout if only certain provinces—say Quebec, British Columbia, Alberta and Ontario—were to agree. But even this kind of a partial agreement is, to say the least, dicey.

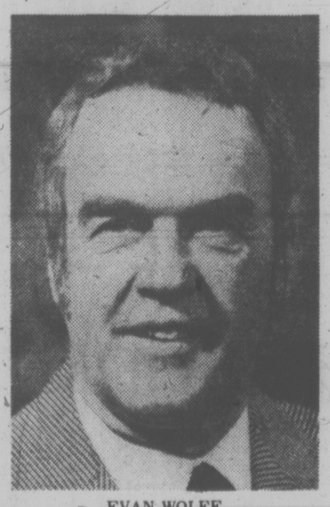
The reason is that McKeough's proposal is to be decided at this week's meeting of provincial premiers in Edmonton. That meeting has a second contentious issue on its agenda—Prime Minister Trudeau's threat of unilateral federal action to patriate the British North America Act unless federal-provincial agreement can be reached on constitutional reform.

Some provinces may support or oppose McKeough's proposal depending on how much support they receive for their views on the constitution.

Still, the initial reaction to McKeough's proposal has been favorable enough to require a meeting of finance ministers in Edmonton before the premiers convene, at which "appropriate terminology" (to quote from McKeough's letter) for the premiers' communique will be explored. One Ontario suggestion is that the proposed provincial tax increases be called "surtaxes" to remind taxpayers that they are necessary because Ottawa ratted on the 1972 revenue guarantee.

At least that is what Ontario would like the taxpayers to believe. What actually happened was rather different.

When the federal government introduced its tax reform in 1972, it said the altered tax base would not diminish provincial personal income tax revenues (which revenues are calculated on the same base and are collected by the federal government on behalf of all provinces except Quebec). The provinces disputed this, so a guarantee was written into the federal legislation.



EVAN WOLFE
. . . will he up income tax?

The guarantee was implemented by an immensely complicated formula, very difficult to administer and resulting in long backlogs of payments to the provinces. This became known as the "side by side" approach because essentially it involved calculating a province's revenues on both the pre-reform and post-reform tax bases, and making up the difference.

It was not long, therefore, before the computer experts in the Ontario treasury were suggesting a simpler and better way. They simply programmed their computer for a representative sample of taxpayers on both bases, and extrapolated the results to the taxpaying population in each province.

It was uncannily accurate and fast and this was the system which Ottawa adopted last March (without quite admitting it) when it announced it was changing the terms of the formula and would not renew the guarantee when it expired on next March 31.

Ironically, however, the simpler and better way was also cheaper. There is no question that under the old "side by side" approach, Ottawa was paying the provinces too much—about $754 million too much, including $308 million to Ontario. The Davis government and the other provinces have not, of course, noted this aspect publicly, preferring to emphasize that the federal government was arbitrarily and unilaterally changing the rules in midstream, as a result of which the provinces were out a lot of money. In fact, Ottawa only did what Ontario had, in effect, urged it to do—a fact which has not made Queen's Park too popular with some other provinces.

Nothing daunted, McKeough is now more concerned about Ottawa's determination not to renew the revenue guarantee after next March 31. It is under no commitment or obligation to do so but the fact is the provinces have got used to the money and are going to have a big hole in their budgets if it suddenly stops—a $320 million hole in Ontario next fiscal year, or the equivalent of four percentage points in the provincial income tax. Most other provinces are in the same ball park.

Higher Taxes—Maybe

McKeough said in his letter to his fellow provincial treasurers and finance ministers that he intends to recommend to Premier Davis that Ontario raise its personal income tax by four points (that is, from 30.5 to 34.5 per cent of the basic federal tax) unless Ottawa changes its position by Oct. 15—the deadline for notifying the federal government as to 1977 changes.

Once his letter became public knowledge, however, McKeough took a somewhat different line with inquiring reporters. He might be able to reduce public expenditures enough to avoid a tax increase. He might raise corporation or sales taxes, rather than income taxes. Premier Davis might not accept his "resignation—I mean, recommendation." In short, anything might happen.

Indeed yes, but a 13 per cent increase in the Ontario income tax (the equivalent of four percentage points) hardly seems a likely scenario for a minority government teetering on the brink of an election.

Such an increase would have to be legislated before the end of this year and would no doubt be the issue the opposition parties have been waiting for. McKeough simply isn't going to do it, even if he manages to con some other provinces into it.

Alternatives

According to a recent press release, B.C. Hydro is proposing to meet the power requirements on Vancouver Island by another underwater cable from the mainland. The new route would run from near Squamish to a substation near Qualicum and then by a new 500,000-volt transmission line to another substation near Victoria. It would appear that the only practical alternative to this proposal would be a nuclear power plant near the southern end of the Island.

Personally I think the people of Vancouver Island should be consulted and given an opportunity to express their preference.

A nuclear plant would produce cheaper power and if the federal government gave British Columbia the same favorable financial terms as they have already given Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick, it would be very much cheaper power. A nuclear plant on the Island would also greatly increase the security of electricity supply. Underwater cables are subject to damage by ships' anchors and other causes and their repair could entail many months of delay and power brownouts while a cable ship was being obtained to carry out repairs.

The main objection to the proposal, however, has to do with transmission. The press release stated that this new proposal would give Vancouver Island its first 500,000-volt transmission line. I can hardly imagine the residents of the Island accepting a wide swath for a 500,000-volt line running all the way from Qualicum to a point near Victoria. This, of course, would be unnecessary if a nuclear plant were located near the electric load centre — somewhere near the coast on the southern part of the Island.

I feel that those interested in the subject should make their own personal investigations and I suggest one thing they might do is to take a trip to Portland, Ore. On the way they should stop at Centralia, Wash., and look at the large coal-fired, open-pit project eight miles northeast of the city. This is the sort of operation proposed for Hat Creek, which I predict will be an environmentalist's nightmare. Then proceeding on towards Portland they should turn off at Longview, Wash., and visit the Trojan nuclear plant. This plant produced approximately the same amount of power as the Centralia operation. It also has excellent facilities for visitors. A similar plant located near the coast on Vancouver Island would not require the cooling tower but otherwise would be much the same. Islanders making this trip could then decide which they would prefer — a Centralia at Hat Creek with a new "backbone" transmission line on Vancouver Island or Trojan without the line and cheaper and more secure power — Gordon M. Shrum, Dean Emeritus, U.B.C., Vancouver.

French Instruction

Your correspondent, Yvon Landry, has asked where he could obtain French language instruction in Victoria for his children. I have advised him, and would like to advise others, that French language instruction is available in two of our schools from kindergarten through grade three.

With the support of federal funds, the Greater Victoria school district offers an immersion French program at Willows elementary school, and a 50-50 bilingual program at Cloverdale elementary school.

Courses in French are taught in all the high school grades. We have no high schools in which French is the everyday language of instruction. — Bill Stavdal, Community Relations Co-ordinator, Greater Victoria School District.

Dog Laws

The following was a letter to the Toronto Star of July 30: "The city of Edmonton has just passed legislation that makes it unlawful for dog owners to let their pets use the city streets as toilets. There is no more inconsiderate person or citizen than the one who allows his or her pet to defecate on someone's property or parks in the city." — C. Franklin, 1230 Styles Street.

Ursus horribilis, or grizzly bear—he's not from the Gorbals

Scottish Bears

On page 5 of your July 29 issue you published an article by Malcolm Gray on our province's "political prisoners." In it he describes Dr. John Duffy, a psychiatrist, as "a man who looks and sounds like a rumpled bear with a Scottish accent . . ."

During my early years in the Rockies I had a nodding acquaintance with a good many bears, grizzlies, blacks and cinnamons. None that I met had a "Scottish accent." I congratulate Mr. Gray. Of course, it may be that my bears were more reticent and less willing to sit down and pass the time of day. — Howard O'Hagan, 335 St. James Street.

Olympic Winners

Yes, we have the big Olympic winner and his name is Mr. Politics himself in all his tawdriness. Mr. Trudeau has sanctioned for all time the playing of politics against an opposite ideology before, during, and after every sports competition. If you didn't know before, you know now where the PM is leading Canada, and he wants all the world to appreciate it.

All countries should be free to send bona fide athletes to any international sports competition as long as they leave their terrorists and politicians behind them. If they do not wish to attend for political or other reasons, they are free to give early notice that they are staying home and keeping their terrorists, if any, with them.

It is to be hoped that Alberta's Commonwealth Games officials will courageously and sportingly accept and invite every single member of the commonwealth including South Africa, Rhodesia, New Zealand, Australia, etc. as a matter of course for friendly competition, not propaganda. To permit themselves to be blackmailed and intimidated by politically-minded racists at home and abroad is surely not the plans for 1978. Albertans and other non-racist Canadians do not want this kind of solution to ultimatums, racism, and the political ambitions of the blacks backed by a whole world of newly independent, black elitist minority non-democratic regimes, supported by worldwide irresponsible radicals in and out of the UN who feel they hold the reins of power and blackmail.

In 1980 and after, those same two (and more) countries previously consigned to hell should be invited to join the regular angels on heavenly Olympus. We don't want to hear any whining about how the IOC or federal government or Zeus are giving us the orders. Now that Alberta is host for once, let's be masters in our own house, Canada, to some extent. Back us up, Canadians all! — N. Horn, Edmonton.

Socred Efficiency

After just seven months of "business-like" government, we are able to see the trend developing: a severely depressed economy, cutbacks in services, increased personal taxes, and a huge budgetary deficit. The financial figures released by Finance Minister Evan Wolfe prove that Social Credit "got B.C. moving," as promised, but in the wrong direction.

The decisions of the Socreds have hurt the province's economy. This is proven by Wolfe's revenue figures. B.C. will have a massive budget deficit because this government has hindered, not helped economic development. The lower Vancouver Island business community can testify as to the achievments of Social Credit in this part of the province.

Wolfe tells us that B.C. residents will face "strict measures" and must start "belt-tightening." Naturally, with this attitude, services to people in such areas as health, transportation, and pensions will be subject to further cutbacks.

But while the elderly, the infirm, and the unemployed must engage in "belt-tightening," not all are suffering from Socred policies. Brenda Mines recently announced a doubling of profits because of the Socreds' mining policies. Tax changes from Mines Minister Tom Waterland meant an additional $734,000 for Brenda in the first six months of 1976. This is only one mine, so we can imagine the benefits flowing to the entire B.C. mining community in this period of "belt-tightening."

Like the federal anti-inflation program, the B.C. Socreds demand that those "without" pay the price of an ailing economy. Those "with," like the mining corporation, are given further tax advantages and even more power in our province. So much for Socred "efficiency," Socred "freedom" and Socred "promises." — Gerry Scott, 4 - 651 Avalon Street.

Prices Not Statistics

In the Times of Aug. 11, the large headline on the front page says Dramatic Decline in Inflation Rate: Food Prices Lead Way. This was quoting Statistics Canada, who must calculate by celsius or something.

If I go for a loaf of bread which was 39 cents not so long ago, and it is now around 60 cents, that tells the story.

Perhaps in Flin Flon, or St. Polycarpe de Cuspidor there might be a decline, but not in jolly old Victoria. — Frank Hill (age 13), 330 Moss Street.

Kissinger Style Would Go

Gloria Duffy is a graduate student at Columbia University's Russian institute.

By GLORIA DUFFY

Jimmy Carter's scant statements on foreign policy have left the impression that he would depart from Kissinger diplomacy only in nuance and style, leaving its key philosophies intact. In fact, that change is one of intellectual thrust as well as personal style.

The philosophies of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are precisely what do not extend into Democratic presidential candidate Carter's foreign policy. Underneath the shotgun stands Carter has taken on specific issues during the campaign — the United States can and should withdraw its ground forces from South Korea, and United States should recognize Cuba, the United States should not engage in Angola-like covert operations —, lies a grand strategy of foreign policy which is fundamentally different from Kissinger's.

To the extent that American foreign policy during the Kissinger era has been guided by a grand vision, its key assumption has been that the United States should try to build a basis for negotiation between the particualr states involved in specific issues through direct American participation. Shuttle diplomacy in the Middle East and direct U.S.-Soviet negotiations on strategic arms limitation typify Kissingerian attempts to construct a functional consensus on specific issues.

A close reading of Carter's major foreign policy statements and an exploration of their intellectual origins reveal a different approach. Carter would attack problems not on the basis of ad hoc agreements on individual issues, but on the basis of an already-existing consensus between the advanced, non-Communist societies on what the problems are and how they should be addressed.

He seeks to deal with international issues primarily along the axis of a triangular relationship among the United States, Japan and Western Europe rather than through unilateral and direct American dealings with the Soviets and nations of the Third World. This is the key to Carter's departure from the Kissinger strategy and the change is traceable in large degree to the thinking of Zbisiniew Brzezinski.

Brzezinski is clarly the "eminence gris" of foreign policy in the Carter camp. By now foreign affairs buffs know a bit about him: Polish-born, Harvard-educated, member of the state department's policy planning staff during the Johnson years, Columbia University professor, director of the Columbia research centre, director of something called the Trilateral Commission, known to friends and colleagues as Zbig.

He is also energy-charged, the moving spirit at Columbia of a stream of events. A typical range of activities sponsored by his Research Institute on International Change will include a trip to the Strategic Air Command for colleagues and students, a conference on the future of liberalism, lunch with futurist Herman Kahn, a conference on the USSR and its external environment.

As a lecturer, he is seen at Columbia as a technician of words, capable of some spell-binding performances. Brzezinski projects himself as business-like and self-assured, with a dry sense of humor. He is a practising Catholic. Perhaps because of his religious sense, certainly because of his own emigre background and because of his years of study of social systems in the Soviet bloc, Brzezinski is deeply moral in his approach to politics, with a strong concern for human rights.

It was "de rigeur" a few years ago to seek the roots of American foreign policy in the public works of Henry Kissinger. One of the minor advantages of having positions of influence occupied by scholars with work in print is that it is relatively easy to trace the development of their ideas and to connect their ideas-in-print to their policies. There are no automatic carry-overs between academic work and policy, but the writings of Kissinger have yielded important insight into the thoughts he has had in a setting removed from political pressure.

Kissinger's Harvard senior essay on the Congress of Vienna, A World Restored, clearly shows the secretary's reverence for Metternich's personal style of diplomacy and his predilection for big-power peacekeeping arrangements. Brzezinski's grand vision of American society and the American role in world politics is contained in Between Two Ages, published in 1970.

A World Restored is a meticulous exploration of the peacekeeping measures negotiated at the Congress of Vienna and the disintegration of international order into the Napoleonic Wars. Between Two Ages is a broad work of social philosophy, an attempt to measure the implications of world-wide social change for U.S. foreign policy. The difference between the two books is, in a sense, the difference between the two men: the one careful and narrow, the other sweeping and creative. The ideas Brzezinski expressed in Between Two Ages have resurfaced in countless Brzezinski speeches and articles since 1970, in the establishment of the Trilateral Commission in 1973 and, it can be said, are the intellectual roots of the Carter foreign policy.

In Brzezinski's view, scientific and technological developments have left human society today caught between two ages, the age of national consciousness and the age of global consciousness. While revolutions in communications and dissemination of information have created the beginnings of a global community, societies are spread along a wide spectrum, from those which still take a parochial view of the means to solve their problems to those which are beginning to develop a consciousness of the truly global causes and implications of their individual problems.

The "global consciousness" of which Brzezinski writes seems to include the abandonment of ideology as social problems come to be perceived as the unintended by-products of complexity and ignorance rather than as the consequences of deliberate evil. It entails the abandonment of doctrinal solutions and the knowledge that, despite internal differences between societies, basic problems are shared and have a similar impact.

Unfortunately, Brzezinski continues in Between Two Ages, much of humanity neither shares this consciousness nor is prepared to support it. Only the advanced, non-Communist societies of Western Europe, Japan and the United States have global consciousness. These societies, which he dubs "technetronic" because of the degree to which they are pervaded by rapid developments in technology and electronics, have common problems. They also have a perception of the global nature of those problems and they share values which should enable them to co-operate effectively in addressing the global issues of Third World underdevelopment, food production, monetary arrangements and pollution.

According to Brzezinski, the possibilities for a consensus on priorities and purposes, without which global co-operation cannot occur, do not lie with the U.S. Soviet relationship. Kissinger's belief that they do depend on that relationship, Brzezinski emphasized again in the summer 1976 issue of Foreign Policy, is based upon a "fundamental misinterpretation of our era." The domestic weakness and insecurity of the Soviet leaders, Brzezinski argues, inhibits them from seeking binding forms of international co-operation.

"In the foreseeable future, he predicts, g"the Soviet Union will . . . remain too strong externally not to be a global rival to the United States but too weak internally to be its global partner." Aside from the strategic relationship, in Brzezinski's view, the opportunities for a wide-ranging settlement and co-operation between the United States and the Soviet Union are restricted. About all the United States can reasonably expect, he says, is "a gradual increase in Soviet Union are restricted. About all the United States can reasonably expect, he says, is "a gradual increase in Soviet involvement in international co-operation through such projects as joint space exploration, underseas studies and so forth."

In the Brzezinski world view, the potential for co-operation on global issues is restricted to Western Europe, Japan and the United States. Because these societies alone have maintained realtively democratic forms of government while undergoing rapid economic and social transformation, and because they are developing a global consciousness, their value systems are similar enough that a basic consensus exists among them on approaches to problems and the need to co-operate.

And because they are in the forefront of scientific and technical innovation, they will crucially affect the gradual evolution of a new international system. The United States, Brzezinski believes, has a responsibility — as the most advanced among these countries — to forge a community of the developed nations. Between Two Ages concludes with a proposal for a high-level, trilateral consultative council to discuss security concerns, educational, scientific, economic and technical co-operation, and international structures of finance and production, in order to facilitate consultation within the axis of this global triangle.

Carter supports policies which follow the contours of Brzezinski's thought. Both men are populists. And Brzezinski believes that a foreign policy which does not accord with the feelings of the American people is not only unwise, but doomed to failure. Like Brzezinski, Carter finds appealing a policy based upon the common, Western values of the developed societies. In his address before the Foreign Policy Association in New York two weeks before the Democratic convention, Carter spoke of "not a condominium of the powerful but a community of the free," and "organizing free nations to share world responsibility in collective action."

It is a sign of acceptance of the Brzezinski rather than the Kissinger assumptions that in the same speech Carter cited as examples of successful international agreements not the Test-Ban or Salt-I treaties, but the United Nations, the Marshall Plan, the Bretton Woods Agreements, NATO, the Organization of Economic Co-operation and Development and the Japanese Peace Treaty. All are examples of co-operaton betweeen countries of the Brzezinski axis and, in Carter's view, "were among the historic achievements of a foreign policy directed by courageous presidents, endorsed by bipartisan majorities in Congress and supported by the American people."

Most explicitly, Carter told his New York audience that "the time has come for us to seal a partnership between North American; Western Europe and Japan. Our three regions share economic, political and security concerns that make it logical that we should seek ever-increasing unity and understanding."

Are Raccoons Anglican?

By GARY LAUTENS
Toronto Star

Because I'm new to Toronto and big-city living, would someone, please, explain something I saw on Sunday morning?

I was near one of the busiest downtown corners — Bloor and Yonge — at 9:30 in the morning when a raccoon appeared on the sidewalk in front of me.

It crossed Bloor St., climbed a flight of steps and disappeared into St. Paul's Anglican church.

A few seconds later it reappeared in the doorway and was shushed outside by a man waving his hands. When I left, the raccoon was in a window well at the front of the church, undoubtedly sulking.

My first question: Do all raccoons in Toronto go to church Sundays? And are they all of the Anglican persuasion?

Finally, why was the raccoon ejected from the church? Does the Church of England hold special services for raccoons, and was this one early?

Forgive me for being so stupid, but I'm from the sticks where we didn't see raccoons, except on visits to the zoo. I'm not familiar with their lifestyle, especially their religious habits.

Frankly, if I had to guess, I'd have suspected raccoons leaned to the Baptist faith, both favoring total immersion and all.

Or the United Church (my own) where, in these days of dwindling attendance, all are welcomed with open arms, especially adherents rich enough to own fur coats.

But Anglican?

Obviously raccoons like a bit of the old pomp and circumstance with their worship, and an occasional musical selection from the minister, with incense background.

While you're dashing off an explanation for what I witnessed, I'd also like a paragraph or two telling me what raccoons do during the actual service.

I take it for granted they don't read the lesson, or give sermons from the pulpit, at least not during regular service.

(Have you ever read a quote from a raccoon in the religion pages of this newspaper?)

Do they, like the rest of us, slip into a back pew, look at what everyone is wearing, lower their heads now and then, drop something in the collection plate, pretend to sing the words, say a prayer, and then dash for the door?

And speaking of prayers, what does a raccoon pray for — better garbage? A raccoon overpass on Bloor to make it safer to go to church Sundays?

How about a campus craze this winter for rabbit coats?

Undoubtedly raccoons have dreams like the rest of us, and what better place to express them than in a church of their choice?

And, while they're at it, I hope they offer up thanks for all the wonderful chicken bones, gristle ends and other trash tidbits of the previous week.

In any case, what a marvellous thing to live in a city where even the raccoons attend services on Sunday morning.

I can hardly wait to tell my old pals back in Hamilton.

They thought the only thing animals from Toronto did on the Sabbath was run the option play, and fumble the football.

Concorde in Trouble Again

By ANDREW WILSON
London Observer

British airline pilots are concerned at an unexpectedly high level of cosmic radiation measured aboard supersonic Concordes flying between London and Bahrain.

According to an article in the latest issue of their association's magazine The Log, the cumulative dose rates are running at least at the level forecast for the North Atlantic, when theoretically they should be substantially lower.

Failure to ensure proper protection could have serious long term consequences, says an official of the British Airline Pilots Association (BALPA).

According to BALPA, the problem of cosmic radiation at the levels at which Concorde operates — about 50,000 feet compared with about 30,000 feet for most subsonic jets — is uncertainty and lack of information.

Uncertainty because even the accredited experts cannot agree on the extent of the hazard or the maximum permissible dosage; lack of information because the only figures available date back to 1962 when measurements were taken on subsonic flights at levels between 30,000 and 40,000 feet.

The problem does not arise with military aircraft, which fly at high altitudes only for relatively short periods.

The 1962 survey led to a deduction that subsonic aircrew on North Atlantic routes under conditions of Maximum Galactic Radiation could receive doses approaching the maximum recommended by the International Commission on Radiological Protection (ICRP) for members of the public.

An important point about this finding, according to BALPA, is that it was drawn from figures obtained at the lower latitudes, for the most part between 50 degrees and 60 degrees North, and that the figures for the Polar routes were not completed owing to a mishap to the detection equipment.

This left a serious discrepancy in the calculations — added to which there was an admitted overall inaccuracy in the results of up to plus or minus 30 per cent.

Two types of cosmic radiation are involved: galactic and solar. Galactic radiation consists of a flow of small particles in space travelling at nearly the speed of light.

The earth's magnetic field and atmosphere is a sufficiently protective shield at ground level; but at supersonic cruise altitudes the thickness of the atmosphere, and degree of protection, is reduced to about a twelfth. Penetration of the magnetic field is highest near the poles because of the pattern of the earth's magnetic field.

Solar radiation is caused by the occasional ejection of particles by the sun, and according to Concorde's makers (the British Aircraft Corporation and Aerospataile) occurs only about six times in every 10 years on present evidence.

The pilots say that solar radiation could pose the greater problem because of the greater uncertainty and lack of knowledge about it. Their association has been assured by the British Civil Aviation Authority that forecasting is reliable enough to cover any solar event that occurs.

But how reliable are current forecasting methods? In 1974 a working group of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) supersonic transport panel found that claims of 95 per cent accuracy were greatly exaggerated — and that an accuracy of only 38 per cent was found to be relevant to Red (i.e. danger) cosmic radiation forecasts.

The pilots' association says that apart from the need for further investigation of radiation dosage on supersonic flights, a case has now been established for further investigation of the dose rates on long-range subsonic flights at the higher latitudes, where, because of the longer time exposure to radiation, the cumulative cosmic radiation dose may also be running at a very high level.

"There may be no problem," says BALPA, "but until it has been shown unquestionably that hazards are non-existent, no unnecessary risks should be taken."

"Mistakes have been made in the past by the experts and the authorities alike when technological advance in one field has outstripped technical, scientific or medical understanding in another closely associated sphere."

Enigmatic Albania Shaken at Top

By JULIET PEARCE
London Observer

The "Balkan-watchers" have a new enigma. Their preoccupation with the age and succession of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito has been temporarily replaced by political shifts and purges in nearby Albania.

Despite Albania's small size and population of less than two million, the stakes could be high: a shift away from China, Albania's distant and only ally, could bring the Soviet Union into that strategically important part of the Balkans. The establishment of Soviet naval bases in the Adriatic and new pressures on Yugoslavia would be the logical consequence.

While some analysts dismiss the likelihood of Albania's return into the Soviet orbit, others are not so certain. And they point to the dramatic announcement of last May by Albania's tough, old guard leader Enver Hoxha that "revisionist plotters" were "unmasked and swept away by the Party."

"They wanted to disrupt our friendship with our sister nation China, with the party of Mao Tse-tung, and they wanted to bind our country to the Soviet revisionists," Hoxha declared.

What many analysts refused to believe was that in a tightly-controlled State such as Albania, which broke away from Russia in 1961, there was any room for opposition, criticism or plotting. Still, the facts are there. A dozen senior military commanders have been removed and reportedly executed, two ministries have changed hands and a number of lesser officials have been expelled from the Albanian Communist Party, which has held the country in an iron grip since the end of the Second World War.

Hoxha, in a determined effort to disprove reports of his ill health, made several public appearances during which he assured all and sundry that Albania continued its commitment and friendship towards Peking. But the fact that the 67-year-old Albanian leader felt compelled to make such a statement is in itself suspect.

Reports from Greek and Italian diplomatic missions in Tirana, Albania's capital, as well as stories brought back by some Yugoslav-Albanians allowed to visit the country, point to a considerable tension in the relationship between Peking and Tirana.

China, apparently, has cut down drastically its economic aid to Albania, slowing down the construction of such industrial complexes as the Fierza dam, the Elbassan steel project and of the oil refinery at Balish.

As usual in Albania's case, there is no clear-cut explanation. Some analysts feel that there is a considerable disagreement between China and Albania about the policy of rapprochment with the West. While China is steadily opening its door to the West, Albania continues to pursue a policy of almost complete isolation.

Such an attitude on the part of Albania could be partly explained by the country's traditional mistrust of anything foreign and the underlying fear of foreign penetration of its mountain bastion. China, in a way, has been a convenient ally: its distance and comparatively limited involvement do not represent a threat to Albania's rulers.

The big question is what will happen once Hoxha is no longer on the scene. There have been reports that internationally-known doctors have visited Tirana. Rumors had Hoxha suffering from thrombosis or diabetes. His closest associate and political lieutenant Prime Minister Mehmet Shehu, is also reported suffering from cancer and has apparently made several visits to France for treatment.

Needless to say, no official announcement has ever been made and the two leaders took great pains to make several public appearances in recent months.

Hoxha's room for manoeuvre without China is limited indeed. All ideas of industrialization might have to be shelved or even scrapped. If China's aid has indeed been drastically cut, Albania might revert to a primitive agricultural economy without any hope of improvement.

Whatever Hoxha is trying to do, time is running out for him. The succession struggle — and there is no doubt that there is one — has decimated party ranks. Political and administrative talent is short in Albania. The future looms murky indeed.

Uncommitteds: No Decision Until Wednesday

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — A majority of the uncommitted delegates to the Republican national convention apparently are undecided — and many say they will not disclose their preference until the first presidential ballot is taken Wednesday night.

UPI lists 96 delegates as uncommitted, including all 30 from Mississippi. Interviews with 51 of the 66 uncommitted delegates outside Mississippi Sunday showed that 28 have not even hinted at their preference.

Of the remaining 23 — 13 have given some indication they may lean to Ford, while nine show some preference for Ronald Reagan. None, however, wanted to be quoted on their leanings, and none are counted for either candidate.

H. Davison Osgood of Maine, New England's only uncommitted delegate, took the extreme move of leaving the hotel housing the other delegates. He moved into a private home, refusing to tell either Ford or Reagan forces where he was staying.

When reached by telephone he refused to say if he'd made up his mind, but said he would disclose his decision Tuesday afternoon.

Some delegates are holding back their decision, hoping Ford will reveal his running mate first, while uncommitted delegates in farm states like North Dakota and Minnesota lean toward Ford but are unhappy with his farm policy and the grain embargo.

Some frankly say they are interested in what the candidates can do for their areas if they are elected.

"I have remained uncommitted while I try to finl out what can be done for Brooklyn," said State Sen. William Conklin of New York.

Another New Yorker, Mrs. Gloria Toote, wants Ford to give "some answers which I haven't gotten yet."

"I don't know when I'll change," she said.

John Sellie, Warren Hartje and Wesley Belter are all farmers from North Dakota. Hartke and Belter say "electability" is an important factor in their decision and they share with Sdllie a farmer's concern for "a free market, no embargoes and no grain pools."

Robert Barry of St. Paul, a chemical engineer, said he philosophically agrees with both Ford and Reagan, but "I have been more in keeping with Reagan in the area of big government — it's too big and expensive."

"If I can take several months of being uncommitted, I guess I can take it for two or three more days," said Verne Long, a Pipestone, Minn., farmer.

Three uncommitted delegates in New Jersey, Eudora Fike, Andre Grubber and Joseph A. Plonski, are all viewed by leaders of the delegation as leaning to Reagan.

T. T. Metzger Jr., of Johnstown, Pa., said he was waiting to see what happened on the convention floor fight over a rules change that would force Ford to name a running mate before the presidential balloting.

Illinois has eight uncommitted and at least four of them could be swayed if Ford announced his vice-presidential choice.

Buckley Presidential Threat Sign of Split in GOP Ranks

BUCKLEY
. . . a "non-event"

KANSAS CITY (CP) — The bitterly-divided Republican party, already fighting a traumatic leadership battle, is being ripped by further upheaval as its 31st national convention gets under way today.

Senator James Buckley of New York, the ultra-conservative occasionally suggested as a possible vice-presidential running mate for President Ford, flew in Sunday, to suggest that he is flirting with a presidential bid of his own.

Not even his own state party committee believes Buckely will follow through with this threat, but it is seen here as another indication of just how badly the Republican party is split.

Richard Rosenbaum, New York committee chairman, says the Buckley move is a "non-event."

Another New York delegate says he does not believe Buckley's threat will cause deeper divisions because "I just don't think deeper divisions can exist than those that exist now."

Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller, whose decision not to run with President Ford is viewed as further evidence of Republican rift, feels that Buckley would drain delegates from challenger Ronald Reagan if he went ahead with his plans.

"The whole ploy," Rockefeller said, is to force Reagan to dump his vice-presidential nominee, Senator Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania.

NIXON TOTALLY SNUBBED

MISSION HILLS, Kan. (UPI) — Four years ago, Richard Nixon led the Republican Party to its most lopsided presidential victory in history. Today, he is "an unmentionable" at the party's national convention.

Rabbi Baruch Korff, the former president's chief confidant in his San Clemente exile, asked Republicans Sunday to end Nixon's status as a nonperson and recall his achievements for the party while rejecting his role in Watergate.

Nixon, who resigned in disgrace two years ago, was not invited to the convention; there will be no portraits of him on display, and his name was deleted from the GOP platform.

Korff, a conservative Rabbi from Rhobeth, Mass., excoriated party leaders and delegates for making Nixon "a phantom, an unmentionable. It is not enough we topple him; now we want to kill him again and again."

The rabbi, a long-time Nixon friend who has been the former president's principal confidant since his resignation, addressed about 150 persons at a reception held by the United States Citizens Congress in this mansioned suburb of Kansas City.

Washington Post

TOPEKA — The media and political pilgrimmage to Alf Landon — the Republican party's oldest, most honored living relic of a pre-Watergate World — is non-stop these days as the party prepares to toast him at its convention.

Forty years ago, Landon went down in history as the worst beaten presidential candidate, but Landon, who will be 90 next month,gently jokes about that Franklin D. Roosevelt landslide.

"Yes, it's been 40 years since Vermont and Maine," he says, referring to the only two states he carried.

Landon, twice governor of Kansas, transixes visitors with memories of an incredible past — campaigning for the Bull Mooser in 1914, fighting the infiltration of the Ku Klux Klan into 1920's Kansas politics, stumping from the back of trains in the days "before you need a wig maker and a make-up man for TV."

But this man, who finds it hard to speak ill of anyone, charms more because of his zest for living in the present. At his Tara-like eight-columned house outside Topeka, he reads eight papers daily, moves through a novel about 16th-century France, gallops at dawn on his horse, keeps up with the four radio stations he owns and his oil interestst, and thinks of the future of his country far more than the past.

He was a progressive in the Republican party before his time and says, "You might add the Democrats to that description, too."

He once said that if the Republicans did not get in step with the times, "they would go the way of the Whig party." Asked if they were in danger of that today, he said, drily, "That all depends on whom they nominate."

Landon says Ronald Reagan's foreign policies scare him. Speaking as if President Ford already has the nomination, he defends Ford for everything from his "attempts to hold down inflation" to his pardon of former president Richard Nixon and chides Democratic vice-presidential nominee Walter Mondale for his "intemperate remarks" on the pardoning.

"The press and politicians often miss the point," Landon says. "We're at such a dangerous and sensitive point in world affairs in this nuclear age that to drag a president through impeachment proceedings would have been chaotic at home and abroad. Ford did exactly the right thing for America: it had nothing to do with Nixon personally."

Landon also waves away polls showing Jimmy Carter a sure-winner in November, "I don't believe a damn thing in those polls. Give me a good precinct captain to tell me what the neighbors are talking about any day. I think it's going to go down to a very tight election."

GOV'T PUTS MORE STING INTO POLICE 'FENCING'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The phony fencing operations called "Operation Sting," have been so successful that the U.S. government is putting up $4 million to finance more of them.

Posing as hoodlums or organized gangsters, FBI and police officers have set up fake fencing rings in at least six cities. They paid cash to crooks for stolen merchandise in front of hidden TV cameras and microphones.

By paying out $154,000 in two operations in Washington, officers recovered $3.5 million in stolen property, made 300 arrests and were able to close 18,000 previosly unsolved theft and burglary cases. The first one was called PFF — Police FBI Fencing — and the second, GYA — Got Ya Again.

To the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA), which provides the cash, Sting is "cost effective." The LEAA will not reveal how much it has already paid out but announced Sunday that is making another $4 milion available.

LEAA even prepared a training film and book to help police set up Stings as well as making cash availabe for approved projecgts.

"Frankly, we've been swamped with requests," said administrator Richard Velde, "and we would like to do even more if we could get the money."

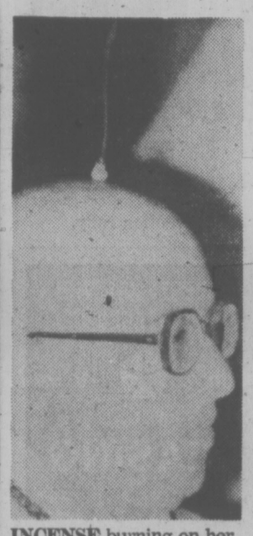
Study Challenges Estrogen Claims



INCENSE burning on her head, Sister Sarika Dharma of Los Angeles takes vows in Bodhisatva ceremony at Vietnamese Buddhist Church. It is reported to be only second time that ordination of Buddhist clergy has occurred in U.S.

WASHINGTON (WP) — A new study challenges claims made for the last 35 years that women can prevent breast cancer by regularly taking estrogen pills.

In a report to be published this week, the authors say their findings "clearly indicate that menopausal estrogen use does not protect against breast cancer."

Moreover, the report warns, the drugs actually may cause the disease, which the American Cancer Society estimates will kill 33,000 U.S. women and be newly detected in 89,000 during 1976.

While the results "do not by themselves" establish a cause-effect connection, they do make it "a definite possibility," the authors say.

They say they found no reliable correlation between the duration of estrogen use and the risk of breast cancer.

Breast cancer has a long latency period in which it is difficult to detect.

During the first 12 years or so after a woman began to take estrogen pills, the probability that breast cancer would be detected, even if present, was roughly equal to that for non-users.

But, the study found, 15 or more years after a woman starting on estrogens, the probability that breast cancer would be found was twice the normal probability — no matter how long during those 15 years she had taken estrogen.

The study was a joint project of the Harvard School of Public Health, the U.S. National Cancer Institute and the University of Lousiville School of Medicine in Kentucky.

The report — based on thorough follow-ups of 1,891 women for an average of 12 years after they had started to take estrogens — will be published Thursday by the New England Journal of Medicine. A copy was obtained from another source.

Other major findings:

— After 10 years of estrogen use, two factors credited with lowering the risk of breast cancer — having had children, and having had an ovary or ovaries surgically removed — were nullified.

— If a woman on estrogen developed a benign breast tumor, the possibility that breast cancer would follow was seven times normal.

— Daily ingestion of estrogens was less hazardous than ingestion every other day; the standard, recommended regimen, however, is ingestion each day for three weeks, and no pills in the fourth week.

—The dose given most of the women in the study, 0.3 milligrams, was less risky than large doses. In the United States, the dose most often prescribed is 1.25-mg.; in some other countries it is 2.50-mg.

The number of women in the study who normally would be expected to develop breast cancer was 39.1 — but 49, or 25 per cent more, developed it. Because the numbers are small, however, they could be misleading. For that reason, the report assigns only "borderline" statistical significance to the difference between expected and actual victims.

They'd Rather Be Home Than in Philadelphia . . .

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Thousands of tourists have cancelled plans to visit Philadelphia since a deadly malady struck after an American Legion convention. In the last two weeks, daily attendance at the Liberty Bell has dropped 25 per cent.

"People call us and ask us if we know anything new," said a motel clerk in a Philadelpha supurb. "They ask if it's contagious, and when we say we're not sure, they cancel."

Figures are not available on the number of cancellations directly attributable to fear of the disease. But a check of a dozen hotels turned up six cancelled conventions or meetings, and numerous reports of Philadelphia bound tourists who had changed their mind.

The Bellevue-Stratford was headquarters for the Legion convention July 21-24. Subsequently, 25 of about 10,000 people who had some connection with the gathering died of the illness, and 140 others were taken to hospital. Last weekend, state officals said two men who attended the 41st International Eucharist Congress here two weeks ago and stayed at the hotel also contracted the pneumonia-like illness.

The Bellevue-Stratford Hotel was where the San Francisco Giants baseball team was to have stayed. But on Thursday, when the Giants came to town to play the Phillies, they checked into a Holiday Inn.

Viking Given Biological Rest

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Viking lander's biology package rested today while project scientists prepared a control experiment on sterilized soil on Mars while Earth laboratories tried to reproduce the robot's strange findings.

Ames Research Centre, a U.S. NASA agency in Mountain View, Calif. was testing ture martian atmosphere in turee martian atmosphere in an attempt to get the same results which puzzled project biologists.

Much of the research which led to the development of the Viking biology unit was carried out at Ames under the direction of Dr. Harold Klein, the chief project biologist.

Similar experiments also were being done in Houston, matching earth and lunar soils against results sent back from the Martian surface.

A small bit of red Martian soil, distributed among the biology and other instruments, showed a surprising release of oxygen in one test, and a high radioactive curve in another.

Scientists said at first it could be early signs of some form of life, but later said the results probably were chemical and non-biological.

In another test, which looks for organic material that would indicate past life forms, no complex carbon molecules were found. On earth, such molecules are the building blocks of all life.

But a top NASA scientist said the search for Martian life "will take a while to sort out.

Chemical reactions on Mars have been different from the standard chemistry found on earth and, experts say there may be a different relationship between biological forms and soil on the red planet.

Former Air Chief Jailed as Spy

United Press International

Three persons, including the former commander of the Swiss air defence forces, were reported under arrest in Switzerland and West Germany today on suspicion of spying for the Soviet Union.

The Swiss government announced in Bern that the former commander of its air defence forces, Brig. Jean-Louis Jeanmaire, had been charged with supplying military information and documents to "members of the Soviet embassy in Bern."

It said details of when Jeanmaire was arrested and the nature of the information he gave the Russians are being withheld for the time being "in the public interest."

In Bonn, the newspaper Die Welt said two men, including a Belgian arms dealer, had been arrested on suspicion of trying to sell the construction blueprints of the NATO Tornado jet fighter to the Soviets.

The West German public prosecutor's office refused to confirm the report but said it might release a statement on the affair later today.

Die Welt called it the biggest illegal weapons deal since the Second World War.

According to the newspaper, the Belgian, identified only as Kucniak, wanted to sell the plans of the joint Italian, British and West German jet to the Soviets for $15 million.

The newspaper said West German officials arrested Kucniak July 29 in Munich and found a suitcase in his possession stuffed with microfilms of the Tornado's construction program.

Documents related to the jet came from the Messerschmitt-Boelkow Blohm Co. which will manufacture the Tornado for delivery in the 1980s, Die Welt said. West Germany has ordered 322 models, Britain 375 and Italy 100.

Die Welt said officials several days ago arrested a West German electronics engineer, identified as Knueffel, in Duesseldorf. Knueffel apparently was also involved in trying to sell plans of the jet.

Turkish Ship To Sail Again

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) — The Turkish survey ship that provoked the current war of words between Greece and Turkey has returned to port to take on provisions, but Energy Minister Selahhatin Kilic says it will go out again on Wednesday.

Kilic headed the welcoming throng at the dockside Sunday. He refused to say where the Sismik 1 will go next, but it was assumed she will continue seismic soundings for oil beneath the continental shelf of the Aegean Sea.

The Sismik's voyage into the Aegean on July 23 brought to a head the Greek-Turkish controversy over oil and mineral rights in the sea between them. Most of the islands in the sea are Greek, and some are only a few miles from the Turkish shore.

Greece for a time threatened to use force against the Sismik, but the intervention of allies of both countries in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization prevented any shooting.

But Greece appealed to the United Nations Security Council and the International Court of Justice in The Hague.

"The Aegean is not a Greek lake," Premier Suleyman Demirel said last week.

The Security Council is debating the conflict, and the International Court of Justice is awaiting submission of the Turkish case to initiate proceedings.

FLOODS HIT PAKISTAN

RAWALPINDI (UPI) — Rising flood waters have closed major rail and road links between southern and northern Pakistan and forced the evacuation of 2,000 persons from northeastern towns, a government spokesman said Sunday.

The spokesman said swift-flowing flood waters have breached the main railway line between the port of Karachi in the south and the capital city of Islambad at seven points.

It would take about 15 days to repair the lines after the waters recede, he said.

N-Centres Backed By Shah

TEHRAN (WP) — The shah of Iran apparently has dropped his opposition to a U.S. backed proposal for regional centres to reprocess nuclear fuel, according to sources familiar with the U.S.-Iranian negotiations on the sale of nuclear plants.

The reprocessing issue had been one of the last remaining hurdles to the sale of U.S. reactors to Iran. The sources here said the anticipated U.S.-Iran agreement could be a "model" for the transfer of nuclear technology to developing countries and also could allow U.S. companies to enter Iran's multi-billion-dollar nuclear power plant market.

During U.S. secretary of State Henry Kissinger's visit to Iran last week, the shah said, "It would really be silly if masses of countries will be in possession of two or three silly little bombs. So, we are agreeable, if a reprocessing plant is needed in this region, to have it on a multi-national basis."

The statement by the shah caught U.S. negotiators by surprise and raised hopes for eventual implementation of a regional centre.

U.S. nuclear suppliers in Tehran hope that a pact can be intitiated in November, when negotiations are scheduled to resume. They said that it is unlikely to be finalized until after the U.S. presidential elections.

The processing issue is at the centre of the nuclear proliferation question, since a country can get the nuclear material necessary to manufacture a bomb by reprocessing spent fuels from a nuclear power plant.

"The U.S. government would be delighted," if Iran participated in a multi-national reprocessing plant, and even more so if Pakistan could be persuaded to give up its plan to buy its own reprocessing plant from France, one U.S. nuclear source said. He indicated that Pakistani participation is unlikely since "there is no economic justification for Pakistan having a reprocessing plant now or at any time in the near future." He added it is "obvious" that Pakistan only wants its own reprocessing plant in order to be able to make atomic weapons.

Seventh Straight Crown for Bates

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

It was sort of anti-climatic the way it happened, but the result was popular enough. And, surprisingly, no big sweat.

Victoria Bate Sunday won their seventh British Columbia senior "A" men's softball championship, their sixth trip to the national finals, their fifth under manager-coach Joe Patterson, and their easiest ever.

Ridiculously so.

The final victory was an 18-0 walkover with Fraser Valley Athletics the victims for the second straight time. On Saturday night Bates had whipped the same club 16-0 in a winner's bracket game of the four-team double-knockout competition.

Bates' first win came Saturday afternoon with a 4-3 decision over Vancouver Magicians as John Green knocked in the tie-breaking run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

That was the last time anybody was close to Bates who hit, what must rank as a record, 11 home runs in the three-games and six in Sunday's finale.

Pitcher Andy Konopacki, who drew the starting assignment in the final, hit two home runs, also had two singles, batted in eight runs and pitched a one-hitter. Reg Underwood, Harvey Stevenson, Bob Burrows and Bob Holness also hit home runs Sunday. Stevenson, Burrows and Holness hit theirs in succession in the fourth inning.

Green and Underwood hit home runs in the first game Holness, Stevenson and Pete Songhurst in the second. Stevenson was robbed of another in the tournament opener by left-fielder Gordy Alderman of Magicians who made a leaping grab of the ball just as it was about to clear the fence.

Dave Ruthowsky pitched a no-hit, five-inning game against Fraser Valley Saturday night while big Stan Kern was the winner in the opener. He allowed nnine hits.

Green was named Most Valuable Player in the tournament. He had four hits in eight trips including a home run and a double, and he batted in four runs, three in the first game, including the winner. Bob Burrows was the tournament's leading hitter with seven hits in 10 trips while Konopacki won the top pitcher award.

Centre fielder Ken Bate of Bates was injured in the seventh inning of the first game when he and left-fielder Mike Taaffe collided while chasing a fly ball hit by Ken Deitcher of Magicians. Bate suffered bruised ribs and saw no further tournament action. Taaffe was not seriously hurt. The ball went for a home run.

Patterson said after the tournament that he was surprised by the ease by which Bates had won the right to defend the national championship they won for the first time last year; and also by the awesome display of long-ball power exhibited by the club.

He said this year's club compares favorably with last year's team on the whole but is definitely stronger at the plate.

Patterson plans to pick up two players for the Canadian championships which will be held in Niagara Falls, Ont.

He wouldn't say what positions he would be trying to strengthen but he did say that he didn't intend to add a pitcher. "I think we have three of the best," he said.

Bates earlier this year captured a share of the world championship in New Zealand with United States and New Zealand. The tournament was not completed because of inclement weather.

Bates also won the Pacific Coast Fastball League regular-season and playoff championships.

Before the final tournament it was expected that Vancouver Magicians would be the club to give Bates the most trouble but Magicians went out Sunday morning, being beaten 4-2 by Fraser Valley.

In other games Saturday, Magicians defeated Royal Tower Blues 2-0 and Fraser Valley edged the Blues 1-0 in 10 innings.

IT'S TOO LATE for Edmonton defensive end Ernest Kirk (56) as he thunders down on Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster, who gets away another accurate pass in Canadian Football League game Sunday at Regina. Lancaster completed 23 of 27 passes as Roughriders crushed Eskimos 40-0.

Riders Humiliate Esks

And Norm Kimball, general manager of the Eskimos, was turning down requestts for interviews after the game.

"Up until today we were progressing," said Jauch. "Today we took a step backwards."

However Jauch said "it's a long season" and anything can happen yet.

The humiliation before more than 22,000 delighted Roughrider fans put Saskatchewan in a tie with Edmonton for first place in the WFC.

The score was bad but it could have been worse.

The Riders ended the first half on the Eskimo two-yard line, missing another potential touchdown by the bell. As well, cornerback Paul Williams, who ran one punt back 108 yards for a touchdown, scampered 60 yards with another return into Eskimo goal territory. That effort, however, was called back because of a clipping penalty.

The Eskimos made it to the Saskatchewan 22 but Ken

The Eskimos made it to the Saskatchewan 22 but Ken McEachen intercepted a pass and ran it back 80 yards to set up quarterback Ron Lancaster's final touchdown, a one-yard push into the Edmonton end zone. Another drive put Edmonton on their rival's two but Williams grabbed off an interception to end that threat.

Lancaster got other majors from Steve Molnar, on a 15-yard pass, a 21-yard chuck to Tom Campana and a 30-yard pass to Rhett Dawson, who came out of the game with what appeared to be a pinched nerve in his knee.

Also injured were McEachen with a shoulder injury and Williams with a sore leg for Saskatchewan and Eskimos Bill Stevenson with a leg injury, which could be a recurrent pulled hamstring, and Dan Kepley with a smarting elbow.

Bob Macoritti converted all the touchdowns and added a 37-yard field goal and two singles. Macoritti's toe compensated for a lack of offence after Lancaster gave over to second-string quarterback Dave Syme in the third quarter.

B.C. Open Honors Go To McNamee, Leberdeff

Paul McNamee, a 21-year-old from Melbourne, Australia, scored a thrilling come-from-behind upset victory over Dick Bohrnstedt of Redmond, Calif., Sunday to capture the men's singles crown in the Labatts B.C. Open tennis championships at the Racquet Club of Victoria.

McNamee, seeded sixth, picked up $1,500 for his 4-6, 7-6, 6-3 triumph over second-seeded Bohrnstedt, who pocketed $750.

Both players were extremely fast to cut off returns for winning placements to both corners.

In the first set, services were held until the vital 10th game when Bohrnstedt came up with two strong shots to the inrushing Australian's backhand and a force error broke McNamee's service.

Bohrnstedt utilized his powerful serve and volleys in the second set to good effect and lost only four points before the critical tie-breaker when McNamee edged through, 9-7.

During the early part of the third set, both players had difficulty retaining service. In the third game, McNamee was down game-point on three occassions on six-deuce games before pulling it out with a drop shot.

Using his amazing agility at the net, McNamee broke Bohrnstedt's service in the sixth game with subtle backhand drop shots to take a 4-2 lead.

"I felt that Dick was very much on top in the first two sets," said McNamee later. "But then when I won the tie-breaker he seemed to let down a bit for me to take control.

"It was a game of serve and volley for us and I just managed to break his service once for the critical second and third sets."

McNamee advanced to the final with a 6-3, 6-7, 6-2 decision over top-seeded Peter Pearson of Redlands on Saturday while Bohrnstedt topped Dave Shebeck of California 6-3, 7-6 in the other semi-final.

PAUL McNAMEE

The young Australian now has 27 points for fifth place after four of the five tournaments comprising the American Express circuit. Bohrnstedt leads with 40, Matt Mitchell of California has 38, Pearson 34 and Steve Docherty of Australia, 30.

After the final tournament in Spokane this week, the men's singles player with the most points will meet the Eastern Circuit champion for a $5,000 purse and a chance to play in the United States Open at Forest Hills, N.Y.

In the women's final, top-seeded Ann Leberdeff, 25, of San Diego retained her title with a 7-6, 6-1 decision over unranked Pauline Elliott, 21, of Auckland, N.Z. Leberdeff won $500 and Elliott collected $300.

Each broke service and Elliott had a chance to take a 4-2 lead in the tie-breaker but double faulted and eventually lost the set.

In the second set, Elliott failed to capitalize on numerous double faults committed by Leberdeff.

On Saturday, Elliott ousted Penny Johnsoin of Long Beach, Calif., 6-2, 1-6, 6-2 to advance to the final while Leberdeff downed Isa Ortiz Figy of Tempe, Ariz., 6-1, 6-3 in the other semi-final.

In the all California men's doubles final, Tim NcNeil and Tony Graham split $400 for their 7-5, 6-3 victory over Rich Andrews and Doug Gibson, who shared $200.

Karen Kennington of Sandy, Utah, and Figy split $240 for a 7-5, 6-4 win over Jan Morton and Jan Wilton, both of Sydney, Australia, in the women's doubles final. The loser's split $140.

ANN LEBERDEFF

In the all-Vancouver junior vets singles final, Tom Jackson downed Bill Picken, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3 while Harry Corson of Washington defeated Butch Krickorians of California 6-3, 6-4 for the senior vets singles crown.

Sally Hemeon collected the lone victory for Victoria players by defeating Doris Popple of Oregon 6-3, 6-3 in the women's senior singles final.

Popple and Audrey Picken of Vancouver downed Mrs. Hemeon and Louise McMinn, also of Victoria, 6-3, 6-2 to take the senior women's doubles laurels.

CONNORS MEETS FIBAK

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Topseeded Jimmy Connors won five straight games in the second set Sunday, choking off a rally by Harold Solomon, to score a 6-2, 7-5 victory and advance to the final of the $157,000 U.S. Clay Court tennis tournament.

Tonight Connors will meet Poland's Wojtek Fibak, who registered a come-from-behind, 7-5, 7-6 victory over No. 2 Guillermo Vilas in the other semifinal match.

First-prize money for the men is $25,000.

In the women's final Sunday, 11th-seeded Kathy May of Beverly Hills, Calif., won her first major tournament with a 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 victory over South African Brigitte Cuypers. The $6,000 first-prize purse was nearly double the winner's previous earnings for the year.

The first set was unexpectedly easy for Connors. He lost the first game when Solomon sent a service ace past him, then took four straight before Solomon won again on a service break.

Connors took the first two games of the second set, but Solomon ran off five games in a row for a 5-2 advantage. Two games later, after Connors pulled to 5-4, Solomon had four set-point opportunities, but couldn't capitalize.

Connors finally won that game, broke Solomon to go ahead 6-5 in the next game, and held service in the 12th game to take the set and match.

GRAND PRIX WIN

ZELTWEG, Austria (Reuter) — John Watson of Britain shook won the Austrian Grand Prix motor race Sunday in a Penske Ford. It was the first Formula 1 victory for the Belfast-born driver.

Britain's James Hunt finished fourth in his McLaren and trimmed to 11 points the gap separating him from Niki Lauda of Austria in the world drivers' championship.

Second place Sunday went to Jacques Jafitte of France in a Ligier-Matra, who overtook third placed Gunnar Nilsson of Sweden in a Lotus with nine of the 54 laps to go.

The race was Hunt's first defeat after a string of three wins in France, Britain and West Germany.

Ontario Cyclists Dominate Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — Ontario cyclists won six of eight gold medals at the national championships at the Velodrome during the weekend, but coach Joe DeMeyer denied possessing a secret formula.

"We did so well because we have a lot of talent and potential," he said.

Jocelyn Lovell, of Toronto and Karen Strong of Niagara Falls, Ont., won three and two gold medals respectively.

"If we in Ontario had an advantage, it was because a few of our riders spent some time practising in Belgium, Holland and Germany," DeMeyer said.

Lovell, Gord Singleton of Niaara Falls, Hugh Walton of Toronto and Adrian Prosser of Hamilton, after winning berths on the Canadian team for the Olympic Games, went overseas on tours sponsored by the Canadian Cycling Association.

"I believe that gave us an edge for the nationals, although I have to admit our cyclists trained hard for this competition," DeMeyer said.

His most satisfying medals came in the men's 4,000-metre team pursuit when Ontario's A team beat defending champion British Columbia in the final and the Ontario B team whipped Quebec for the third-place bronze.

"That's the victory I really wanted, because we've been doing well in every event except that one over the years. In Vancouver in 1971, we won every gold but team pursuit."

Ontario's other victories Saturday were by Lovell in the men's individual pursuit and sprint and by Strong in the women's individual pursuit and sprint.

Ron Hayman of Vancouver won the 10-mile sprint for the second consecutive year, with Prosser second and Walton third.

In previous events, Lovell won the one-kilometre sprint for men and Sylvia Burka of Winnipeg captured the women's event.

Quebec's Pierre Harvey beat team-mate Serge Proulx by six inches Sunday in the 87-mile endurance test outdoors. Both had an official time of four hours, one minute, 44 seconds.

Harvey won in a field of 62 riders despite an early blowout and a light rain during the final laps on Mount Royal.

Strong finished almost a full second ahead of Winnipeg's Debbie Korbatiuk in the 34-mile women's race over the same course. Strong had a time of 1:49:45.

Young Albertan Sharp with Gun

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — A 14-year-old Canadian won the Trap and Field Handicap as preliminary shooting for the 77th annual Grand American trapshooting tournament closed here Sunday.

Pat Bawtinheimer of Red Deer, Alta., broke his best ever score, a 98, from 19½ yards to top a field of 990 shooters.

Another newcomer to the Grand American, Myla Johnson of Cattaroy, Wash., won the women's championship in the Dayton Homecoming as she broke 199 and then 100 more in a shootoff to defeat Susan Natrass of Calgary.

Easy Derby Triumph

EDMONTON (CP) — Laissez-Passer is blind in one eye, but the three-year old owned by Jean-Louis Levesque of Montreal saw the finish line clearly on Saturday as he scored an easy win if the 47th Canadian Derby at Northlands Park.

A triple stakes winner and son of Northern Dancer and Linden Lea, Laissez-Passer, with Roger Turcotte aboard, overtook the field with half a mile to go and opened an eight-length lead in winning the 1⅛-mile event.

The $16,000 yearling purchase had placed fourth in the Queen's Plate and second in the Manitoba Derby.

Favored at 9-5, Laissez-Passer forced the pace of Mike Kaye until they entered the backstretch the last time. Then he drew away with no competition.

The winner paid $5.60, $3.70 and $3.10 and brought in $30,000 for the Levesque stable.

Double Remy from Vancouver returned $4.30 and $2.90, while Title Victory, one of three fillies in the race, paid $3.40.

Finishing in order behind Title Victory were Wine Cave, Smooth Sifter, Mike Kaye, Terry's Double, Dynamic Mom, Apple Diamond, Devon Dancer, La Canuck and Magic Pool.

Alberta Open Win Surprises Norman

RED DEER (CP) — Moe Norman was surprised when he qualified for the three-way play-off in Sunday's Alberta open golf tournament and even more astonished when he won the playoff in sueh easy fashion.

The 46-year-old professional from Gilford, Ont., who posted his 35th professional tournament victory in a long career, checked in with a four under-par total of 212 and with 15 golfers still on the course figured one of them would break out of the pack and win.

But Scott Knapp of Belleville, Ont., and Dan Halldorson of Brandon blew chances to pick up the first-place prize of $3,000 and Norman was called from the clubhouse for the playoff with Halldorson and Tim Irwin of Moncton, N.B.

When his two young opponents got into trouble in the trees with their approach shots, Norman waltzed in for the win with a routine par on the par-five playoff hole.

"I was sitting upstairs in the clubhouse drinking and they told me to get out there for the playoff," Norman told reporters. "I thought they were kidding me.

"Then I thought I would need a birdie just to make it to the second playoff hole."

Irwin birdied four of the last five holes, including a 30-footer on the 18th that sent him into the playoff, while Halldorson recorded a brilliant five-under-par front nine before faltering with a bogey on 10 and double bogey on 12.

Knapp, who tied for second in regulation play with Dave Crowe of Portland, Ore., and John Morgan of Victoria, held the lead after 16 holes at five under par. But he landed in a trap on 17 and took a bogey and missed a short putt on 18 for another bogey. Morgan won $890.

Macs Have Troubles

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

Victoria McDonalds are hurting in more ways than one in their best-of-seven Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League semi-final series with New Westminster Salmonbellies.

They are down two games to one to the Salmonbellies following New Westminster's 18-17 victory in sudden-death overtime at Esquimalt Sports Centre Sunday night.

Roy Sinden is out of action with two broken bones in his hand;

And scoring ace and league scoring champion Kevin Alexander is only operating at 50 per cent efficiency because of an injured shoulder.

New Westminster's Pat Richardson got the winner at 4:14 of the second overtime with a backhand flip as he crossed in front of the goal to beat McDonalds Al Radley to the bottom corner of the net.

It was Richardson's second goal and it ended a thriller which neither team deserved to lose.

Until then it has just been a question of which club would get the big break in a hard-fought and cleanly-played game in contrast to the brawl which had marked the game in New Westminster Friday night.

The Bakers took a 6-5 lead in the first period but that margin was short-lived. The Salmonbellies took command in the second period and ran in eight goals to only four by the Bakers to go on top 13-10.

With the start of the final period captain Bob Cool got McDonalds back in the game at the 25-second mark but try as they might the Bakers couldn't get even until very late in the period, at 18:10 to be exact, when John Entzminger picked up a rebound from a shot by Kevin Kennedy and beat goalkeeper Jim Poelzer cleanly.

Just before that, however, the Bakers, who were trailing only 14-13, at the time blew an excellent chance to draw even when Greg Steeden drew a penalty for the Salmonbellies. But the extra man boomeranged and, before Steeden could get back on the floor, it was the Bellies who had scored, through Steve Manning and Doug Hazelwood.

Still, McDonalds showed their grit to force extra time. Doug Angrove, a pickup from Esquimalt Junior B's scored at 16:02 and Cool connected with his fifth at 15:23 to give Entzminger his chance.

In the first 10 minute overtime session, McDonalds weathered two penalties in succession and appeared to have gained the upper hand when Kenny King got his fourth goal on a power play with New Westminster Mario Govorchin in the penalty box.

King's shot beat the shooting clock by just one second, and came at 5:08.

But the Salmonbellies refused to give in and Shane Spring scored his only goal of the night with only 55 seconds to play to force sudden death.

Cool had five goals and five assists for McDonalds. King had four, Angrove three, Entzminger a pair and Gerry Cadwallader, Jim Boyd and Alexander singles.

Alexander, also had two assists but he was far from his usual self.

He has been used only sparingly in the playoff games to date and the Baker attack, particularly on power plays, has suffered because of his inability to operate at peak strength. Sunday he tried but it was obvious the effort was causing him pain.

Radley played well in goal for McDonalds and he kept them in the game especially in the first overtime period when he made 12 saves compared to five by Poelzer.

McDonalds won the first game of the series here 17-7, and New Westminster the second, 18-11, at New Westminster. Fourth game will be played at New Westminster, Tuesday, with the fifth game at Esquimalt, Thursday.

Wilson Hot For Cables

Wilson scored six goals Saturday in Richmond as Burnaby thumped the Roadrunners 17-12 and fired five goals on his home floor Sunday night in a 15-9 triumph.

Rain Policy Required

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Professional golfers raised a clamor for a firm rain policy as the 58th PGA golf championship went into overtime today with former Masters champion Charles Coody holding a two-stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus and Gil Morgan.

"I have always thought that once a guy hits a shot in a tournament, that shot should count no matter what the circumstances," insisted Coody, 39, whose two-day, rain-interrupted 67 for the third round put him in commanding position with a 207—three under par.

"I always have felt that if there was just one man left on the course the entire round should be replayed," argued Arnold Palmer. "That is the purist's view, but I have to admit that television and other things have to be taken into account."

"I am not arguing either way," said Tom Weiskopf. "All I am saying is that we should have a firm policy."

Ed Sneed, who had completed Sunday's round only to learn he had to report to the first tee and do it all over again, was distressed.

"I agree with Coody," he said. "Once a shot is made, no one should be allowed to erase it."

It is an argument that is bound to continue to boil, long after the $45,000 first prize in this tournament has been decided.

Nobody knows when that might be. More thundershowers were forecast today, and the leaders were closely bunched enough to make an 18-hole playoff appear likely.

Coody was heading for the 14th tee when a thunderstorm struck the Congressional Country Club course late Saturday.

He was one of the 24 leaders who had to get up at daybreak Sunday to complete the third round, which was washed out by a similar cloudburst.

Making an early-morning return to the course, he sank a 10-foot putt on the final hole for his 67 and a two-shot lead over Nicklaus and Morgan.

Nicklaus, the defending champion, nailed his approach shot three feet from the cup on the 18th for a 69. Morgan finished bogey-bogey for a 75.

This left Nicklaus and Morgan tied at 209 with the 46-yearold Don January alone at 210, followed by Masters winner Ray Floyd, South Africa's Gary Player, Dave Graham of Australia, Dave Stockton and Tom Kite, tied at 211.

Nicklaus had just birdied the third hole with a 20-foot putt when the newest storm hit Sunday, forcing the PGA to cancel the day's proceedings and—unlike the day before when only a few rounds remained unplayed — ordered the field to start afresh on the fourth round today.

Only 19 of the 76 survivors had posted complete rounds before the storm hit.

GOAL AVERAGE GIVES CROWN TO ONTARIO

EDMONTON — Ontario edged British Columbia on a better goal average to claim the Canadian junior girls' field hockey championship here Sunday at the University of Alberta.

The B.C. squad, which played to a scoreless deadlock with Ontario in the final game of the round-robin tourney, finished in a tie for first place with three victories and two ties. Ontario took the crown with an 18-1 goals-for-and-against record while B.C. had a 16-1 mark.

Earlier Sunday, B.C. had beaten Saskatchewan 8-0.

Cindy Bray of Victoria sparked the attack with three goals. Lynne Beecroft of Duncan and Sandy Rufnail of Burnaby scored twice each and Joan Carruthers of Victoria added a single.

Miss Bray scored the lone goal which gave B.C. a 1-0 decision over Alberta and goalie Sue Oliver of Victoria came up with her second shutout later Saturday when B.C. played to a scoreless deadlock with Manitoba.

Miss Bray (3) and Miss Tuffnail counted as B.C. topped Quebec 4-1 in the opening match Friday.

Blalock Connects With Birdie Putt

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — Jane Blalock, who sank a five-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to force the playoff, defeated Pat Bradley on the first hole of sudden-death Sunday to win the championship of the rain-delayed Wheeling Ladies' Professional Golf Association Classic.

Shooting a two-under par 70 to come from six shots behind, Bradley missed a seemingly-easy, three-foot putt on the first playoff hole to hand the title to Blalock.

Blalock, winning her first tournament of the year, two-putted from 30 feet below the cup on the par-4, 400-yard first hole for a par. Her championship netted her the first prize of $7,000 in the $50,000 classic.

With second-round leaders Laura Baugh and Sandra Post shooting themselves out of contention with five-over par 77s, it was a wild scramble to the finish. Five players held the lead at one time or another during the final round.

The final round was delayed by an early morning downpour and heavy fog which set play back to a mid-afternoon starting time. The one-hole playoff was concluded just before dark.

Both Blalock and Bradley finished the regulation 54 holes with 217, one over par.

Baugh, Post and Joyce Kazierski finished in a three-way tie for third place, another stroke behind. Sandra Haynie, closing with a par 72, finished sixth with a 219 total while defending champion Susie McAllister was next with a 221 total.

Kubiceks Collect Berth in Playoffs

Kubicek's Home Service will face Greaves Movers in the opening game of a best-of-three Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League playoff semi-final series tonight at 6:15 in Lambrick Park.

Kubiceks blanked Farmer Construction 4-0 Sunday in a sudden-death game to determine third place and the final playoff spot.

The winner of the semi-final will meet league-champion Gorge Hotel in a best-of-five final.

Gerry Lister hurled the Sunday win, striking out eight batters and allowing only one base-on-balls and six hits.

Duane Pack led Kubicek batting with two singles in four trips to the plate.

A two-base throwing error allowed Pack to score what proved to be the winning run in the third inning.

HUNTERS TRAIL CABLES

Saanich Huner Construction will be facing a 2-0 deficit while facing Burnaby Cablevision in the third game of the best-of-five British Columbia junior "B" lacrosse championship series Saturday in Burnaby.

Hunters dropped a 12-7 decision to Burnaby on Sunday at Memorial Arena after losing the opener 11-9 Saturday at Burnaby Lake Arena.

Terry Jay scored twice to spark Hunters on Sunday while single tallies were added by Joe Kolic, Steve Bowack, Dave Prette, Wayne Larsen and Eric Dawes. Kerry Lewis, Kolic and Bowack scored double tallies Saturday and singles were fired by Ed Van Dyk, Murray McLaren and Jay.

Gary Grove sparked Cables with three goals Sunday. Mike O'Reilly and Alan Kirk set the pace with three goals apiece Saturday.

Ric Bains made 46 saves in the Saanich goal Sunday and 40 Saturday while Burnaby netminder Greg Pryde blocked 46 shots Sunday and 45 Saturday.

European Rowers Lead World Finals

VILLACH, Austria (Reuter) — The St. Catharines, Ont., crew of Al Stark Andy Messer, Mike Graffi and Jim Leish gave Canada its best finish in the finals of the world lightweight and junior rowing championships Saturday.

Competing in the junior coxless fours they placed fourth a little more than 14 seconds behind the winning East German team. The Canadians clocked four minutes 52.09 seconds. The Soviet Union was second and West Germany third.

The junior eight from Brentwood College at Mill Bay placed sixth and last in their final. Tom Pankratz, Gord Langer, Brad Pettinger Marius Felix, Martin Lacey, Allan Wood, Jamie McAllister, stroke John Xerxa and cox Dale Bannerman had a time of four minutes 35.36 seconds. The Soviet Union won in four minutes 19.81 seconds. East Germany was second West Germany third followed by Italy and the United States who finished less than three seconds ahead of the Canadians.

In the junior single sculls Brian Elliot of the Ridley Boat Club in St. Catharines finished fifth in the final in a time of five minutes 31.19 seconds. Peter Kersten of East Germany won in five minutes 20.63 seconds.

Oarsmen from West Germany the United States and the Soviet Union finished second third and fourth. A Czechoslovakian was sixth.

In the lightweight eights Canada recorded another fifth-place finish in the final. The St. Catharines crew of Sean Dond, Jean-Paul Burak, David Wright, Jim Marino, Rich Lancaster, Jack Sabine, Rich Crowther, stroke John Goodwin and cox Pat Goodwin recorded a time of five minutes 13.44. West Germany won in six minutes and five seconds. Britain was second and the United States third followed by Holland, then Canada, and Sweden.

Soviets Advance

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union secured a berth Sunday in the finals of the Davis Cup European Zone A tennis tournament when Alex Metreveli defeated Hungary's Balazs Taroczy in straight sets.

Trail Takes Title

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Trail, B.C. shut out Toronto Parkdale 3-0 Saturday to take the Canadian Little League baseball championship and advance to the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa. later this month.

The winners rallied for all their runs in the fifth inning, breaking up what had been a tight pitching duel between Bob Davidson of Trail and Scott Bradburn of Toronto Parkdale.

Winning pitcher Davidson went the distance, allowing only one hit, while loser Bradburn gave up five safeties in also going the full route.

Trail will represent Canada in the world championship tournament which opens in Williamsport Aug. 24 and continues to Aug. 28.

AMISS REVIVES HOPES

LONDON (Reuter) — Dennis Amiss re-established his future as an international cricketer with a magnificent 176 not out as England battled to deny West Indies victory in the fifth and final test at the Oval Saturday.

Although his effort came too late to salvage the series — West Indies already hold a winning 2-0 lead — his big innings left England with a fair chance of saving the match.

At the close of the third day's play England were 304 for five in reply to West Indies first innings total of 687 for eight declared. They still needed 184 to save the follow-on but with Amiss going strong they are not without hope.

The satisfaction Amiss derived from helping England to survive must have been surpassed by the knowledge his innings had probably saved his future as a test cricketer. The match was considered his last chance after scores of 0, 0, 0, 4, 5, 0 and 19 against Australia last year.

B.C. Clubs Capture Intermediate Titles

SURREY (CP) — North Burnaby Cablevision edged New Westminster Salmonbellies 14-13 Sunday to win the Canadian intermediate lacrosse crown in an all-British Columbia final.

Coquitlam Hawks won the "B" division title by beating Surrey Mohawks 9-8 in another all-B.C. clash.

British Riflemen Lead

OTTAWA (CP) — British ammunition expert Ray Bramley won Canada's top shooting award Saturday, the Governor-General's Prize, by one point over his friend and team-mate Bert Whitaker.

The Church Stretton, England, native scored 310 out of a possible 325 to win the $200 and gold badge from the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association. He won the award once before, in 1973. Runner-up Whitaker, of Miltown, Mowbray, England, won $150.

Britain took four of the six top places in the final. Vern Curtis of Nelson, N.Z., was third with 317 to win $100, and Art Grundy of Windsor, Ont., was fourth with 316.

Brian Hornsey of Greasby, England, also scored 316 but dropped back to fifth place because the Canadian had a higher long-range score in the final stage.

Richard Nicholson of Epsom Downs, England, was sixth with 315, taking precedence over George Sanderson of Ottawa who had the same score but, dropped to seventh because he had the lower long-range score.

The Coates Trophy for the Interprovincial team rifle match at 400, 500 and 600 yards was won by British Columbia, scoring 1,142 out of a possible 1,200 points. Quebec was second with 1,120 and Ontario and Alberta tied for third with 1,103.

Don Gilliland of Mackay, Australia, won the Gzowski Aggregate Trophy for three matches at 1,000, 900 and 800 yards, scoring 142 out of a possible 150 points.

The runner-up was Eddie Nicholson of Knutsford, England, who scored 140.

Mrs. Libby Selton of Perth, Australia, won the Tess Spencer Trophy for the best over-all performance by a woman competitor, scoring 644 out of a possible 680 in the 13 main individual matches.

SPRINGBOKS FALL

BLOEMFONTEIN (Reuter) — The All Blacks outgunned the Springboks 15-9 in the second international here Saturday and kept alove their hopes of becoming the first New Zealand team to win a rugby union series in South Africa. The teams have won one match apiece in the four test series.

Playing with new found fire and fury, the All Blacks led 12-6 at half time and finally won by a try, a drop goal and two penalty goals against three penalty goals kicked by Springbok flyhalf Gerald Bosch.

REAGAN, SAFETY MAN HELP DECIDE RESULT

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Gordon Johncock won Sunday's rain-shortened Trenton Times 200, a race decided in part by a maker of safety equipment and in part by presidential candidate Ronald Reagan.

Bill Simpson, the safety equipment man, was faulted with erratic driving that put leader A. J. Foyt into the wall only a few laps before the rains started to fall at lap 113 of the scheduled 134-lap event and the race was stopped after 117 laps.

The race could have been completed if it had started at the scheduled 4 p.m. time, but CBS, broadcasting the race live, insisted the start be delayed so it could show Reagan at Kansas City for the Republican National Convention.

The organizers relented, although the decision was loudly booed by the paying customers.

The 22-car field, led by Foyt and Johncock, finally took the green flag at about 4:25 p.m.

The rain started a little over an hour later.

Finishing behind Johncock in a Wildcat were Al Unser in a Parnelli, Tom Sneva in a McLaren and Johncock's teammate Wally Dallenbach, all on the same lap. Mike Mosley was another lap down.

Until Foyt's exit, the race had been a struggle between Foyt, Johncock and Unser.

Foyt hit the fourth turn wall, his first crash in Indianapolis cars in several seasons, on lap 94. Johncock took over on lap 98 and led until the end.

An angry Foyt hopped out of his car and gestured vehemently at Simpson.

After the race, Johncock said he had a narrow escape with Simpson, too.

Johncock averaged 135.929 miles per hour for his second victory in eight races this season

A's 'Impossible Dream' Has Some Possibilities

By The Associated Press

Chuck Tanner has this recurring dream. Ten days ago it seemed like an impossible dream, but Tanner still claims that anything is possible.

"It's my dream to be in a World Series and I still think we're gonna do it," Oakland's optimistic manager insisted Sunday after the A's chipped away at a six-run deficit and scored two runs with two out in the ninth inning to nip the Boston Red Sox 8-7 for their ninth consecutive American League triumph.

"It was our biggest win of the season," Tanner said as the second-place A's remained seven games behind Kansas City Royals in the American League West. Ten days ago they were 12 back and fading.

The Royals, meanwhile, whipped Detroit Tigers 7-3.

In the East, New York Yankees blew a four-run lead and had their five-game winning streak clipped by Minnesota Twins 9-8. Baltimore Orioles climbed within 9½ games of New York with a 3-0 victory over Chicago White Sox.

In Sunday's other American League games, Cleveland Indians swept Texas Rangers 6-4 and 3-0 and Milwaukee Angels 5-3.

Sunday's ninth-inning rally marked the 16th time the A's have won a game in their last time at bat.

"I didn't think we had much chance when it was 6-0," said Don Baylor, whose pop fly double drove in the winning run.

Bill North's two-strike double started the winning rally. He scored the tying run on a single by Bert Campaneris, who raced home with the winner when Baylor's double eluded a desperate dive by Boston centre ffielder Fred Lynn.

Home runs by Dwight Evans and Lynn helped the Red Sox to a 6-0 lead after three innings and Rick Wise held the A's hitless until the fifth, when Joe Rudi singled and Sal Bando hit his 23rd home run to start the A's on the road back. Oakland added two runs in the sixth and two more in the eighth.

Wayne Garland notched his 14th victory with a six-hitter while Baltimore scored all its runs via the long ball—Bobby Grich's solo homer in the first inning and Lee May's two-run homer in the third.

Baltimore slugger Reggie Jackson went berserk in the second game of a Saturday doubleheader with the White Sox, touching off a 10-minute, bench-clearing brawl when he flung his bat at Clay Carroll after the Chicago reliever decked him with a pitch.

Jackson was hit by a pitch in the first game, then was knocked down before and after hitting a grand slam homer in the nightcap. He also homered in the opener.

Knowing Rules Helps Jerry Score a 'First'

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

It helps to know the rules and in seven years of campaigning stock cars at Western Speedway, Jerry Ferrie has learned most of them.

So when Bill Price and Campbell River's Tom Hamilton tangled on lap seven of Saturday night's superstock feature, causing a race stoppage, Ferrie was in the forefront of a group of drivers making sure that Price and Hamilton were put to the back of the 19-car pack.

"I've been in the same boat they were," Ferrie explained, "and I got put back. It's the same rule for everybody."

The result was that Ferrie, 26, won his first-ever superstock feature, propelling his 1964 Fairlane past leader Bill Smith halfway through the 35-lap main event and coasting home well ahead of the field.

Price, leader in the driver points standings this season, and Hamilton were battling for second place at the time of their mishap. Hamilton never did move out of the also-ran bracket after the restart, but Price worked hard over the remaining 28 laps to finish fourth.

That was enough to widen his points lead over Bob Collins, who was unable to make the starting grid for the feature because of overheating problems in his 1959 T-Bird.

Ferrie was ecstatic over his win.

"I've been right in there all year and I got a break tonight," he said in victory square. "We had a lot of tough luck with the car we had last year (a 1966 Comet) so we changed to the Fairlane because it has a shorter wheel-base. It's made a difference."

A crowd of 1,295 saw one of the wilder nights of racing. It included a four-car fender-bender in front of the grandstand during the superstock fast heat.

It began with a lap-five spinout involving Mike Grute, Ferrie and Hamilton. The rear-ender came on the restart when a mixup in signals resulted in the field suddenly getting a stop order.

Neil Moore stopped, all right, only the have Smith, Jim Caudewll and Hamilton rear-end him and each other at about five miles an hour. A slow-motion replay would have required a speedup but the body damage was extensive, particularly for Caudwell and Smith.

Four drivers — Al Miller, Rick Bennett, Wayne Johnson and Kerry Steen — were disqualified for rough driving.

Action resumes at Western Tuesday night with stop No. 2 in the International Drivers' Challenge Series for supermodified and sprint cars. Time trials are at 7 with racing at 8.

In the first leg of the challenge series Saturday at Mount Vernon, Wash., Larry Arrants of Lake Stevens started last but finished in first place.

Starting at the back of the 18-car field, Arrants took the lead on lap 22 and went on to win $1,600, including a $50 bonus for fast time.

STOCKERS WIN

Stockers North Americans defeated MacDonalds Furniture Juniors 8-3 to win the annual Billy Griffith Memorial tournament for Victoria Senior Women's Softball League teams Sunday at Hyacinth Park.

Stockers, who knocked Juniors into the losers' bracket 1-0 earlier in the day, came through the double-loss-elimination affair in unbeaten fashion.

Juniors bounced back for another crack at the tournament crown by blanking MacDonalds Furniture Seniors, 12-0.

Meralomas Roll Against Dolphins

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Meralomas moved into a three-way deadlock for second place by tripping Victoria Dolphins 41-6 in one of three B.C. Big Four Junior Football league games played Sunday in Empire Stadium.

Rick Sedola sparked the Meralomas attack with two touchdowns while Eddie Thomas kicked a 42-yard field goal, four converts and three singles.

Allan Wade, Glen Burdett and Darryl Vance scored the other majors for Lomas, who were ahead 19-0 at half time, and Bill Franklin booted one convert.

Dolphins score their first touchdown of the season in the fourth quarter when a bad Vancouver snap allowed Frank McGeachie to block a kick. Dennis Crawford snatched the ball out of the air and raced in to score from 12 yards out.

Meralomas led Dolphins in most statistics, beating the Victoria club 7-6 in first downs, 191-61 in yards rushing, 150-31 in yards passing and 341-92 in total yards.

Dolphins committed seven turnovers and Meralomas yielded four.

In other games, Burnaby Renfrew Trojans took over sole possession of first place with a 40-3 decision over previously-unbeaten Surrey Rams and North Shore Cougars edged Vancouver Blue Bombers, 8-6.

Dolphins will tackle Blue Bombers next Sunday at Victoria's Royal Athletic Park. Both teams are winless in three starts.

WORLD SWIM MARKS FALLS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jonty Skinner smashed the world record in the men's 100-meter freestyle Saturday by more than half a second with a time of 49.44 seconds at the AAU national swimming championships.

The 22-year-old Skinner, a senior at the University of Alabama, broke the old mark held by Olympic gold medal winner Jim Montgomery. Montgomery's time of 49.99 was set at the Montreal Olympics and was the first ever under 50 seconds.

Skinner turned in 23.83 seconds on the first leg of the race in the 50-metre outdoor Kelly Pool.

Foreman Stops LeDoux in Three

UTICA, N.Y. (AB) — Former world heavyweight champion George Foreman battered little-known Scott LeDoux mercilessly and knocked him out with 2:58 gone in the third round of their scheduled 10-round fight Saturday on national television.

In the third round, Big George began to pummel LeDoux with lefts and rights. LeDoux went down from a right uppercut, the first time the blond-haired LeDoux had ever been knocked from his feet.

Naran home recipe plan takes off ugly fat.

The Naran Plan can help you lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. This home recipe weight-control plan is easy to follow and costs little. Go to your drug store and ask for the Naran Reducing Plan. The whole plan is included in every package. The directions are right on the label. Susan Collects Third Straight Canadian Crown

WINNIPEG (CP) — A carefully-planned game interrupted only by infrequent trips to the front court and a second-set let-down earned Susan Stone of Vancouver her third consecutive women's title at the Rothman's Canadian tennis championships on Sunday.

The 26-year-old Stone defeated Andree Martin of Montreal 6-1, 0-6, 6-1 to capture the $800 top prize.

Jim Boyce of Toronto won the men's stingles Saturday with a surprisingly easy 6-2, 6-3 triumph over Greg Halder of Toronto. Boyce earned $1,500 and Halder collected $750.

In the under-21 championships, Lise Senn of Toronto took the women's crown with a 6-4, 6-3 win over Pam Gollish of Toronto, and the men's title went to John Picken of Vancouver, who recovered from a disastrous second set to edge Bill Rennie of Cambridge, Ont. 6-4, 0-6, 7-6.

Boyce teamed up with Dave Brown of Toronto to add the men's doubles title to his collection beating Halder and Glen Booth of Winnipeg 6-3, 7-5.

In the women's doubles, Martin combined with Nicole Marois of Quebec to beat Stone and Marjorie Blackwood of Ottawa 6-4, 6-0. For Martin it was her third straight doubles win and her fifth in the last six years.

Stone broke Martin's service five times in the first and third sets by beating Martin at her own game, baseline rallying. However, Stone got careless in the second set and, after scoring a decisive first-set victory, she lost service three times in the set as Martin completely outplayed her.

While Stone's victory was expected, Boyce's was not. The fourth seed here, Boyce had twice before lost in the finals and the third-seeded Halder was expected to make him a runner-up for the third time.

But the 25-year-old tour veteran dispelled that idea early by attacking almost constantly.

Halder never had a chance to get his game in motion. Boyce kept him deep with top-spin shots and then came to the net to put away the points almost at will.

"There's no way I was going to try to outsteady him from the baseline," Boyce said of his strategy to take away Halder's game. "So it was attack, attack, attack."

Superb Opening Half Sends Wests to 'Peg

Victoria West survived a second-half surge by Regina Concordia to win the Western Canada soccer championship 3-2 Saturday before approximately 600 fans at Royal Athletic Park.

Wests, who clearly dominated play in the first half, seemed content to protect their 3-1 half-time lead and didn't control much of the action following the intermission.

The club, which plays in the premier division of the Vancouver Island Soccer League, now advances to the Canadian championship tournament, starting Aug. 28 in Winnipeg. London Boxing Club of Victoria captured the title last year.

Just about to start a new season, Wests played superb soccer for the first 45 minutes, scoring two picture-book goals and connecting again on an error before the break.

Victoria took the lead in the first two minutes after Steve Forsland received a perfect cross from Grant McLaren. Forsland then headed the ball to Rob Williams, who made no mistake in booting it into the wide-open half of the net.

Regina bounced back to tie the count less than a minute later with a down-the-middle pass, which put speedy linkman Ken Fissel through ahead of a pair of defencemen with the Victoria goalie caught out of position.

Then McLaren connected for two goals to send the Wests to Winnipeg.

Williams and Greg Mellish set up McLaren for his first tally at about the 38-minute mark. The second, which proved to be the winner, came about two minutes later when Butch Foster passed to McLaren, who found himself alone in front of goaltender Gus Kunke.

The Vic West margin at the break could have been greater. Darryl Hooker hit the cross-bar with a header late in the half and John McGuire had a goal disallowed on an offside call.

After the intermission, Concordia seemed to dominate play and narrowly missed scoring opportunities several times in the first 10 minutes before connecting at 20 minutes, when winger Don McCaw scored on a pass from Brian Blazeiko.

Wests then ralliel for a few minutes, but the threat of overtime loomed again in the late minutes as the Regina club pressed hard for the equalizer. Only a lack of finish prevented a tying goal.

Wests, who were playing only their third match since winning the provincial title in May, lost the services of Forsland 12 minutes into the second half. He was carried off the field with an ankle injury that appeared serious at the time, but was later diagnosed as a severe bruise.

It is probably that the starry winger will be back in action in time for the national tournament, where Wests hope to add further lustre to their 80th anniversary celebration.

THREE CITY ATHLETES WIN NATIONAL TITLES

SUDBURY — Three Victoria athletes scored victories Saturday in the Canadian junior track and field championships.

Brent Fougner of Victoria Track Club won the triple jump with a leap of 14.43 metres, Debbie Scott of Esquimalt Athletics won her 1,500-metre final with a 4:24.8 minute clocking and Tom Griffin of Victoria Mercuries won the men's 1,500 metres with a time of 3:52.0.

Rutledge Breaks Brenton Record

CHEMAINUS — Jim Rutledge of Victoria fired a course record 64 Saturday for a runaway triumph in the annual Mt. Brenton juvenile golf tournament at Mt. Brenton Golf Club.

Rutledge, the reigning provincial high school champion, started his spectacular round with an eagle on the first hole and then went on to add six birdies in his six-under-par tour of the Brenton layout.

The previous course record was 65.

Gary Docherty of Cedar Hill placed second with 77 and combined with Rutledge and Rick Gibson for a victory in the team handicap competition with a net 202.

Bowling Victory

The Oak Bay trio tripped Cec Sarles, Ron Ones and Hazel Young of Lake Hill 26-9 in the final.

Castaways Miss Shot At Top Cricket Berth

Castaways lost a chance to take over the lead from o Incogs and had to settle for a three-way tie for second place by splitting two matches in the Victoria and District Cricket Association at the weekend.

On Sunday, Castaways tripped Cowichan by four wickets at Beacon Hill Park after some spectacular bowling by Jim Greaves gave Nanaimo a 43-run upset victory over visiting Castaways on Saturday.

Albion and Alcos played to a draw and Oak Bay tripped Cowichan by six wickets at Shawnigan Lake in other Saturday encounters.

Howard Martin scored 42 runs while leading Cowichan to 73 all out on Sunday while Wally Tait set the pace for Castaway bowlers by taking three wickets for the loss of only six runs. Tony Quarless toppled six for 32.

Castaways then reached 74 for six with Guy Hogg contributing 36, not out. Martin Laso set the bowling pace for Cowichan, capturing three for 15.

Greaves yielded only nine runs as he took seven wickets to help hold Castaways to 55 all out.

Nanaimo had batted first and reached 98 with Ray Telford contributing 45. Quarless took four for 18 to spark the Castaway attack.

Tony Arnold scored 25 to lead Comox to 82 and Incogs, led by Bevan Grant's 61, not out, replied with 87 for no wickets. Tom Walton dropped five Comox wickets for nine runs.

Albion declared at 162 for eight as Keith Dixon scored 47 and Brian Heaps added 41. Alcos were at 88 for four when time ran out after John Schofield had scored 29 and John Moss had contributed 28.

At Shawnigan Lake, Cowichan scored 95 all out and Oak Bay came back with 99 for four wickets.

Kendrew Scores Win at Westwood

PORT COQUITLAM — John Kendrew, driving a Mini-Cooper "S," led a strong showing by Victoria Motor Sports Club members at the International Conference of Sports Car Clubs event on the 1.8-mile Westwood road circuit Sunday.

Kendrew placed first overall in the third race and finished atop the "F" sports racing class.

In the firth race, for Formula A, B, C and Super Vee machines, John Storr of Victoria finished second over-all and second in the Formula Atlantic class in his Brabham BT-21 while clubmate Gordon Munrow with third over-all and third in the same class in the same type of vehicle. Ron Householder of Oregon finished first over-all in a Lola 260.

Bob Slater of the Victoria club was second in the "G" production sports cars during the first race of the meet, which was the 10th in a series of 13 held throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Dawn Takes Fourth Spot

SAN FRANCISCO — Dawn Oulton of Victoria rolled a 12-game gross score of 2,321 to finish fourth Saturday in the handicap division of the All-American youth tenpin bowling championships.

The Victoria High School graduate gained a berth in the event by winning the B.C. title in May and the regional title (Western U.S.A. and Canada) during July.

Kim Leonard of Butler, Mo., topped qualifying and then went on to win the championship 181-167 over Darlene Koniska of Troy, N.Y.

Schreyer Backing Controls

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Ed Schreyer told Manitoba labor leaders on the weekend he plans to continue supporting the federal policy of wage and price controls.

He said inflation must be fought and the federal program is better than nothing. The NDP government would back it until a better solution comes along.

The premier said the controls program has served to end the "cancerous disease" of unrealistic expectations that raced through Canadian society after professionals and executives won themselves giant increments.

Schreyer and 11 other NDP MLAs joined about 100 union leaders and party officials on the weekend for a policy conference aboard the motor vessel Lord Selkirk.

Labor leaders said relations between the trade union movement and the NDP are strained, and the trade unionists want a bigger voice in party affairs.

Dennis McDermot, chairman of the Canadian Labor Congress political education committee, said labor is interested in immediate, pragmatic solutions.

"The trade union movement wants a change in the social order now . . . we're not interested in pseudo-intellectual debates about who is the best socialist.

"We're just a little bit tired of being taken for granted, like the bankroll, and being just a little bit talked down to by the intellectuals."

McDermot, who is also vice-president of the United Auto Workers, said labor has realized that electing an NDP government "doesn't bring about the utopia that we first contemplated."

He said while labor was not pleased by the provincial government's support of wage and price controls, the labor movement isn't completely disenchanted with the NDP.

"We still have the affinity, the bond . . . but we are not going to sit as a silent entity from this point on."

Len Stevens, president of the Manitoba Federation of Labor, said some MLAs have lost touch with labor since the NDP came to power in Manitoba in 1969.

"We think the true labor people should be represented in the legislature as much as anyone else," he said.

Provincial Labor Minister Russ Paulley said the government has maintained an open-door policy towards labor, and has given it the best deal in Manitoba history.

Paulley listed a number of labor laws enacted in the last seven years but contended that over-legislation on employment conditions can be a disservice to labor.

"The more people get without banding themselves together in a trade union, the less inclined they are to join in a trade union," he said.

East Indians Clash

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police were called in to break up fighting between two rival groups of East Indians at a rally here Saturday.

No arrests were made as police wrestled demonstrators apart after the clash broke out in front of the courthouse in the city's downtown area.

About 50 members of the East Indian Peoples' Association of North America were demonstrating quietly in front of the courthouse when another group of 100 demonstrators, this one from the Indian Workers Movement, appeared on the scene.

The Indian Workers Movement demonstrators, carrying signs made of pieces of wood and two-by-fours, rushed the other group, swinging their signs and shouting slogans.

A number of persons were knocked to the ground during the scuffle but there were no serious injuries.

A police department spokesman said the groups are bitter rivals, with the East Indian Peoples' Association representing a right-wing point of view, while the Indian Workers Movement is left wing.

The demonstration was called by each group to publicize their views on racial discrimination in the city and on Indian politics.

Super-Pen Protest

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Mayor Muni Evers said on the weekend Solicitor-General Warren Allmand has gone back on his word over the future use of the British Columbia Penitentiary in New Westminster.

The solicitor-general said Friday night that the penitentiary will probably become a new super-maximum-security penal institution, housing very dangerous prisoners and those in segregation, in keeping with the federal government's long-term policy of having one such institution in every region.

The New Westminster mayor said Allman's statement directly contradicts the solicitor-general's comment of two years ago, when he said that the medieval and archaic penitentiary, which has sections more than 100 years old, would be phased out within a few years.

Evers said that to make the B.C. Penitentiary a super-maximum-security institution in the middle of an urban area is disappointing and a reversal of what was proposed.

The mayor said New Westminster city council will be lodging a formal protest.

BILLOWING clouds of smoke and flame are faced by Port Moody and Coquitlam firefighters after gasoline truck flipped Sunday near Imperial Oil Ltd. in Port Moody. The blaze destroyed truck, several hydro and telephone poles and started small bush fires. Nearby homes were watered down because of intense heat.

Motorcycle Gang Smashes Hotel, Takes Hostages

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said 24 members of a motorcycle gang were arrested Sunday after they wrecked a hotel and held the owner's wife and daughters hostage near Papineauville, 70 miles west of Montreal.

A police spokesman said 25 members of the Quebec Provincial Police riot squad were called in from Montreal to assist 20 other officers in stopping the vandalism.

The spokesman said the trouble began Saturday when members of the motorcycle gang converged on the Hotel des Pins near the village of St. André Avellin.

They came from several locations in the province for whtt one policeman described as a weekend festival for bikers.

The spokesman said the gang started wrecking the hotel with axes and crowbars early Sunday morning after cutting the hotel's telephone lines and holding the owner's wife and two daughters as hostages. The owner was away on business at the time.

Many shots were fired and at least one man was injured, by gunfire, the spokesman reported. Several cars were smashed or set on fire before police arrived.

Home Reducing Elderly Trauma

OTTAWA (CP) — The administration of St. Patrick's senior citizen's home is endeavoring to reduce the trauma the elderly have moving from a home environment to such a residence.

Consequently, they are making St. Patrick's a place where residents can match as closely as possible the lifestyle of their own homes.

Two residents, Howard Leahy, 83, and Patrick McLaughlin, 84, have put about half an acre under cultivation behind the home, planting corn, onions, turnips and cucumbers. After a lifetime of farming, they say they are happy to have the opportunity to pursue their interest.

St. Patrick's plans to redevelop about 2½ acres of land around the home into a network of pathways, gardens and game areas.

Tentative plans include a kidney-shaped asphalt walk winding past a bowling green, horseshoe pits, putting green and wishing well.

Also on the list are rock gardens designed with wheelchair gardeners specifically in mind.

Sister Rita, administrator at St. Patrick's said: "We want to make the home more attractive. When our residents go outdoors, we want something that will keep them there and provide a bit of exercise at the same time."

The only major snag is a shortage of funds. Sister Rita said the development will cost about $175,000. The administration is hoping for support from the public and government.

Other measures to reduce the culture shock of a change in environment for residents include a coffee shop-cum-bar so that residents can enjoy a before-dinner drink and have a chance to relax together with their friends.

TRIDENT CLEARING

SEATTLE (AP) — Clear-cutting on a 60-acre tract at the Trident nuclear submarine base has started despite an environmental protest to several federal agencies.

The Navy, confirmed that about 40 per cent of the site had been cleared last week, despite protests over the award of a contact to Morrison Knudsen Inc. of Boise to build house. Navy officials said work began July 20, the day after the contract was awarded.

The protests were filed with te Navy, the Environemntal Protection Agency, the Council on Environmental Quality and the General Accounting Office, claifing Morrison Knudsen's bid was the lowest because it relied on clearcutting and carving a hillside into benches on which the houses would be built.

The protest was filed by several unsuccessful bidders on the project, who claimed the Morrison Knudsen plan violated the Navy's environmental impact statement for the base.

FLAMING DESSERT SCORCHES FOUR

OXNARD, Calif. (UPI) — A flaming dessert flared up and sprayed hot brandy over several persons attending an American Heart Association dinner Saturday night.

Four persons were taken to a hospital with second and third degree burns on the face and neck.

Fire officials said about 400 persons were attending the benefit dinner at the opening of the new $5 million Hilton Inn.

Waiters carried flaming platters of Baked Alaska among the tables, but one of the desserts began to flicker out and a waiter poured on more brandy.

The brandy flared up, showering diners, several of whom dived beneath tables to escape the flames.

Flying Biker Unhurt In Crash Landing

BELLINGHAM, Wash. — "It was pretty strange. I didn't feel like I was flying. I felt like I was floating — more like a parachute," said 22-year-old pedal-power airplane builder Wayne Bliesner after a test flight in the aircraft he fashioned out of balsa wood, aluminum tubing and plastic.

Bliesner's handmade plane became airborne for the first time Saturday during towing tests at an unused airstrip here. The craft rose 12 feet and carried the University of Washington aeronautical engineering student more than 100 yards before crash landing.

Damage was minor, and Bliesner plans to resume tests soon. He hoped to pedal the light craft into the air within a few days.

Bliesner hopes to win the $89,000 prize that Henry Kremer, a British industrialist, has offered to the first person to build and fly a self-powered, heavier-than-air craft. To win, Bliesner must fly the plane on a figure-8 course around pylons, half a mile apart.

HAMBURG, West Germany — Gen. Alexander Haig, commander in chief of American and allied forces in Europe, says the Western alliance is taking steps to increase its preparedness for a surprise Soviet attack.

NATO hopes to commission radar-equipped aircraft capable of responding quickly to such an attack, he said in an interview published Sunday in Der Spiegel magazine.

TOKYO — Emperor Hirohito bowed before a wooden tablet honoring Japan's 3 million war dead and expressed personal sorrow for their survivors at a ceremony Sunday marking the 31st anniversary of Japan's Second World War defeat.

"I still feel deep regret for the many people who were killed in the Second World War 31 years ago and when I attend this memorial service I have to express my sorrow for their survivors," Hirohito said in a brief statement at Tokyo's Budokan Hall.

MALIBU, Calif. — Actor Rod Steiger, making a faster recovery than normal from heart surgery, is back at his beachfront home just 11 days after entering Daniel Freeman Hospital.

HITCHHIKERS HANG DRIVER TO SIGN

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — A man who was left hanging from a roadside sign by two hitchhikers after he refused to buy them a drink, says he is undecided if he will continue to give rides to strangers.

"I've always felt for the need for other people. It would depend on what shape they were in. It's kind of hard to say. I've been doing this ever since I was able to drive a car—since I was about 14 years old."

John Henry Young, 40, was strung up with a nylon rope with his toes touching the ground. A police chief rescued him Thursday night after he had been hanging for about 20 minutes. Motorists passed the man, but none stopped to give aid.

"Only God could have done this . . . to help me get through and keep going that long," Young said Sunday in a telephone interview from his hospital bed here.

He was being treated for neck injuries and from being roughed up by his assailants. His condition was listed as satisfactory.

An unemployed mechanic-truck driver from Tyronza, a northeast Arkansas community of 500, Young said he was about five miles from home when he picked up two hitchhikers.

Young told authorities the two were smoking something that "didn't smell quite right."

"They got in the car and I just told them I was going up the road a piece," Young said.

"They asked for a rope. They said could they have it to tie their bags up. I guess they were sleeping bags or what have you."

Young said the two asked him to buy them a drink. When he said he didn't have any money, "one pulled a knife and said this was it."

"I didn't realize what they were going to do until I got out of the car and they took the rope out," he said. "They laid me down on the side of the highway, but so many cars were passing . . . they would lay down when cars were passing by so they couldn't be seen. They had my arm twisted behind me so I couldn't move."

Young said he stood on his tiptoes as long as he could with his arms and legs bound and the nylon rope around his neck. He said he was hung from a highway sign giving the direction to Tyronza and Lepanto.

Young was freed by Tyronza Police Chief Chester Ford who was called to the scene. Ford said at least 150 vehicles normally pass the spot during 20 minutes, the time he said he thinks Young was hanging.

One motorist who drove past Young was Da M. Shepherd, a part-time minister of the Church of Christ. He said he just got a glimpse of the hanging man and thought it was a effigy hanging from the sign placed there as a prank.

He drove back to the sign, but said it was dark and he feared for the safety of his family and did not get out of the car. Shepherd drove to a home and called police.

HIGH AND DRY sailboat lies stranded by receding waters of drought-stricken reservoir at Datchet, England. The reservoir was almost full to its capacity of 83,000 million gallons when Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, opened it on July 9. Sunday it was down to 5,000 million gallons.

Royal Gardens Must Die—Queen

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth has decided to let all her royal gardens die.

Throughout the English countryside, autumn colors are already appearing on trees in what one forestry expert called "a preview of Armageddon." The playing fields of Eton are deserted, and on the south coast an Englishman donned Mohawk Indian feathers and did a rain dance.

Britain's searing drought, the worst since records began in 1727, seared onward Saturday, with no real break in sight. The country has had no rain worthy of the name in 14 months.

The government this week authorized standby plans to ban a whole catalogue of water uses — watering parks, public or private gardens, filling swimming pools, mechanical car washers, public fountains.

Queen Elizabeth didn't wait for orders. She issued her own to stop watering all the gardens and lawns of royal palaces, including the cricket ground and bowling greens at Windsor Castle. Teams which play there cancelled scheduled matches.

John Morley, 39, not only did a feathered rain dance in Bournemouth reservoir, pounding deep footprints in its dry bed. He called for a "national rain dance day," with the BBC playing rain dance tapes he made in five years spent with American Indians.

A million people in Wales were told they were not saving enough water, despite overnight cuts in supplies to their homes. The local water authority said it might cut water supplies to only 12 hours every other day, or water on weekends only, or for three hours each morning.

The drought was making thousands of miles of roads dangerous, highway authorities said. Some road surfaces were said to be "like glass." On others, heavy traffic wore deep grooves into softened asphalt. On still others, wide cracks appeared because of drying in the subsoil.

But perhaps the costliest damage was to the British countryside.

"Thousands upon thousands of trees are doomed," one forestry expert said.

London Parks Manager J. Kennedy visited a tree nursery and came away in tears.

"I was crying when I left," he said. "So many dead and dying, running into thousands. Next year will come as a shock, when people realize the extent of the damage. They will see gaping gaps and dead trees and realize what has been lost."

'Cactus Curtain' Charge Rejected by Mexicans

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Luis Echeverria and other Mexican leaders have rejected a reported accusation by 76 United States congressmen that Mexico is going Communist and will create a "cactus curtain" along the U.S.-Mexican border.

"There is no curtain which in any way hides our rality, either from within or from without," Echeverria said in reaction to the letter he said was sent to U.S. President Ford.

No copies of the letter could be located in Washington. But U.S. Representative Bo Ginn (Dem. Ga.) said Representative Larry mcDonald (Dem. Ga.) had circulated a letter on the floor of the House of Representatives about three weeks ago "having to do with his deep concern over the possibility of an increase of communism in Mexico."

Representative Charles Grassley (Rep. Iowa) said he had signed two such letters, the first about four months ago. He said when Ford received the first letter, he told the congressman not to worry. Grassley said a second letter then was sent asking Ford for confirmation that there is no problem.

The Mexico City newspaper Excelsior published Friday what it identified as the text of the letter, which urged Ford to assure that "the political situation which is developing in Mexico is receivng the profound atenton it merits."

GYPSY FAMILY FIGHTS TO STAY IN CANADA

QUEBEC (CP) — A gypsy family of 10 adults and 12 children facing deportation from Canada has begun its last effort to remain in the country with a public appeal to the Canadian people's humanitarianism and "spirit of freedom."

Andre Bussieres, lawyer for the Petrov family, said in an interview published Saturday that the immigration appeal board has declined to review the family's case. The family is currently being held at the Port of Quebec pending deportation.

Bussieres said the family is charged with having entered Canada illegally — without valid passports or visas.

Immigration authorities said the Petrovs left their home in Yugoslavia last month and apparently made their way to Switzerland, where they allegedly obtained stolen Italian passports to continue their trip to Paris and then to Canada.

The family was detained when it arrived at Mirabel International Airport in Montreal last week.

Bussieres said the gypsies — considered stateless in Yugoslavia — want only to find "a country that's really theirs."

The family is led by two grandparents aged about 70, both born in Russia. Accompanying them are their three adult sons, the wives of two of the sons and the widow of another son.

With the widow are her adult son and his wife, who is six months pregnant.

Great Tom Replaces Big Ben

LONDON (AP) — Great Tom made a successful global debut Sunday as stand-in for Big Ben— temporarily indisposed after a breakdown Aug. 5 — to chime the time on the world service of the British Broadcasting Corp., the BBC said.

Great Tom, the clock in London's St. Paul's Cathedral, went into action on the world service at 9:15 a.m., 2:15 a.m. PST.

Big Ben — the 117-year old clock atop the Houses of Parliament — was Britain's recognized time signal to millions of BBC world service listeners around the globe until big chunks of metal broke away without warning from a bearing housing and smashed other parts of the mechanism.

The BBC used a live microphone inside the Big Ben tower to broadcast its chimes.

The clock was ticking again within hours of the breakdown but mechanics said it will be months before all the chimes are repaired.

Rather than use recordings of Big Ben, which would have destroyed the sense of actuality for listeners, the BBC turned to Great Tom. "We decided that if we couldn't have Big Ben we'd have the next best thing," said a BBC spokesman.

Consequently, Great Tom was adjusted — it was nine seconds fast — and the BBC installed a microphone in St. Paul's.

Big Ben is scheduled to be stopped at noon today for four days of repairs and engineers hope the striking of the chimes on the hour will resume when it is restarted Friday. The quarter-hour chimes, however, will take months to repair.

Smoking. What are you going to do about it?

If you've given up smoking more times than you'd like to remember, the chances are you enjoy it so much you don't want to give it up at all.

The question is, what are you going to do about it?

You've probably tried cigarettes that promise extra mildness and found yourself checking every once in a while to see if they were still lit. Which brought you right back to your regular brand.

Now, there is Vantage.

Vantage gives you the taste you want. The full, rich flavour of Virginia tobaccos. But here's the big difference. Only Vantage has the specially designed filter that gives you so much of what you want in a cigarette with a lot less of what you don't want.

Vantage is not a heavy drag cigarette. You don't have to work hard getting the smoke through so that all the joy of smoking is lost.

Rich taste and easy draw. Good reasons for any thoughtful smoker to consider the new cigarette called Vantage.

Game Helps Employers Understand Jobless Cons' Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new board game called "Pros and Cons" is as hard to beat as it is for an ex-convict to get a job and go straight.

Field representatives of the National Alliance of Businessmen invite industry officials to play this game instead of making arguments about why they should hire ex-cons.

The game, adapted from Monopoly, puts the player in the role of an ex-offender on probation. He faces temptations and bad luck that almost force him to commit "crimes."

A reporter who played a round of Pros and Cons with three NAB officials found the game so realistic that he, like the other players, was tempted to lie about his record or steal to pay the rent.

That's the point, according to NAB president William G. Murphy. He said a round of Pro and Con is more persuasive than arguments in inducing businessmen to hire ex-offenders who admit they have served time and are on probation.

The game odds match real statistics, Murphy said. They show ex-offenders are most likely to return to crime if they cannot get jobs, but few get jobs without lying about their records. Three out of every four land back in jail.

John Armore, former prosecuting attorney who now directs NAB's ex-offender program after serving time himself in California, said the prison parolee is being forced to "serve a life sentence on the installment plan."

Armore does not yet know how many jobs Pros and Cons has gained for ex-offenders.

NAB got permission to use the game non-commercially from its inventors, who used it to help ex-offenders deal with their problems.

The program is one of several which NAB believes has helped 3.5 million disadvantaged or chronically unemployed persons and Vietnam veterans since it was formed in 1968. NAB, with 70,000 companies participating, is financed with a $13 million U.S. labor department grant, Murphy said.

Whites 'Uncivilized'

ALTO GARCAS, Brazil (Reuter)—Brazil's Indian tribes, barely out of the stone age, have sampled white civilization and found it wanting.

Although appreciative of the technical advantages of the 20th century, the pure-blooded descendants of the country's original inhabitants are highly critical of what they see as the moral bankruptcy of modern society.

They reject the subterfuges and bureaucracy of modern government and cannot understand the white person's propensity to lie.

In a recent meeting of tribal chieftains near this western Brazilian town, as well as in other contacts with civilization, they have put their views with a pungency that shows a blend of philosophy, sagacity and poetry.

Chief Juruna of the Kavante tribe summed up his opinion of the whites after 30 years of contact with civilization:

"I have fought to learn the life of the white person," he told the assembled chiefs. "The life of the Indian is simple. The life of the Indian is more civilized than the white. The white lives in the city, but is not civilized."

The question of white deceit seems to be a recurring theme, even among Indians who have had little contact with civilization.

The Surui Indians had their first proper contact with modern people only about six years ago, but it did not take them long to learn.

In a jungle village in the western Amazon, a Surui wished to exchange his bow and arrows for a visitor's handbag.

When told it was impossible today but that the visitors would return tomorrow for the exchange, the tribesman chuckled and rightly predicted, in the little Portuguese he could muster, "Return, white man, lie."

"Indians are not beasts; they are human beings," Chief Juruna declared. Another Xavante chief, Noziu, added, "White man think only he intelligent; we too intelligent."

Chief Uruna had harsh words for the white form of government:

"The government gets tired of helping the Indian because the Indian never votes for a deputy in the elections (tribal Indians, under Brazilian law, are treated as minors and do not vote).

"The Indian does not pay taxes, so the government is not interested in the Indian. The government should look more at the Indian, but it looks more at the Indian's womenfolk."

Condemning delays in answering the Indians' requests, Chief Aidji of the Bororo tribe said, "By the time any measure is taken we have already died five or six times."

Showing their growing political awareness and their attempts at unity, forged out of a common suffering, Chief Sonpre of the Xerente tribe said: "My brothers, I call you brothers because I am an Insame color, of the same masdian, I am a brother of the sacre."

Bororo Chief Txibaibou added: "We are all Brazilians, more Brazilian than the civilized white. We are the legitimate sons of this land."

The chiefs usually use the word white generically to define a non-Indian, white or black.

But they sometimes make a distinction. Chief Geraldo of the Galibi tribe, criticizing the dispossession of the Indians, said, "Even the black slave from Africa is rich with our wealth."

On a visit to Brasilia to seek a tractor, a truck and a rice harvester from Gen. Ismarta de Oliveria Araujo, president of the government's National Indian Foundation (FUNAI), Chief Juruna had a ready reply when told he would have to pay.

"You are our chief," he told the general. "So you can only get the money in 200 years or at the end of the world."

HIGH WIRE PAIR CLAIM RECORD

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) — Two high wire aerialists claim to have taken the world distance record from Karl Wallenda, who set the mark of 800 feet last year at age 79.

McPeak, an ex-logger from Olympia, Wash., walked a wire 2,265 feet above Yosemite Falls on July 12, for which he received a $500 fine and a 10-day jail term.

Engraved wing window on Model A

Surely Henry Ford would be impressed by the attention his Depression-era Model A has received from North America's hotrodders.

Seventy cars, and their owners, from B.C., Ontario, Alberta, Washington, Oregon and California gathered out at the Saanichton fairgrounds over the weekend.

Sponsored by the Vancouver Island Street Rod Association, and billed as the Second Annual Low Bucks Rod Run, the owners admired each other's handiwork.

Photography By John McKay

They start with the car's basic shell — usually a pre-war model — and from there turn it into a work of mechanical art.

Association president Tony Love reported that Jim Woodry of Oregon won the Best Open Car competition with his 1931 Chevrolet roadster, and Phil Mattoon of Yakima, Wash., won the Best Closed Car class with his 1936 Chevrolet pickup. Mattoon was also winner for doing the best restoration work.

$60,000 DAMAGE

TV Blamed for Blaze

A malfunction in an instanton television set is suspected of causing a fire Saturday night that destroyed a newly-renovated home at 9606 Ardmore Drive in North Saanich.

Chief Ron Evans said today structural damage to the house owned by Lowell Hodges could run as high as $50,000 to $60,000.

Evans said an investigation of the ruins indicated a "hot spot" near the TV.

"But it could have been caused by any number of things. I doubt if we'll ever know for sure."

Evans said Hodges had just finished renovating the waterfront home and had recently increased his insurance.

Hodges and his family were visiting relatives when the fire was spotted at 9:40 p.m. by 16-year-old neighbor Brock Parrott.

He had heard an explosion and his dog barking. He looked through the trees towards the Hodges house and saw flames coming through a living room window.

Evans said by the time he and the volunteer fire department's truck arrived 10 minutes later, the house was engulfed.

The chief said there was little the firemen could do because the closest hydrant was 1½ miles away.

"But even if there'd been a hydrant right in front of the house I doubt if we'd have been able to save much," Evans said.

$4,500 RAISED FOR BIKEWAY

Saanich Ald. Joe Bourque said today four developers have pledged $4,500 toward employing students to work on Greater Victoria's first bikeway.

Earlier this month Bourque appealed to "good corporate citizens" to contribute money to employ students to finish the bikeway. It is estimated $20,000 is needed.

Bourque said he will wait two more days in the hope donations will climb to $10,000. If they do he will ask council to match them so the bikeway can be completed this year.

"We have to have at least two weeks (of work on the bikeway) before school starts," Bourque explained.

He said the regional committee for the bikeway project will contact Highways Minister Alex Fraser, probably in September, to ask the provincial government to help pay for the bikeways.

FIREMEN'S DISPUTE

Council to Act

Victoria city council will consider asking the Labor Relations Board for an order to head off a strike of firefighters slated for Thursday.

Acting mayor Ald. Alf Hood said today the subject will be on the agenda for council's caucus meeting Tuesday. He stressed it would be a council decision based on advice from the city solicitor.

Firefighters served 72-hour notice on the city today, allowing them to strike as early as Thursday in support of their contention the city has failed to abide by an arbitration award giving them parity with most other firefighters in the province.

Hood said council may defer a decision on the question until Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association has met Wednesday to discuss the situation. The association bargains on behalf of the core municipalities, regional district and school board.

Meanwhile, city solicitor Jakob de Villiers said "there is no question that it would be illegal for the firemen to go on strike" since they elected arbitration.

He said there has been erroneous reports published and broadcast regarding the city's position on the arbitration award last month by lawer John Davies.

De Villiers said the city will argue when the case comes up in B.C. Appeal Court that it never agreed to arbitration as a binding means of settling the contract dispute.

The was no question about the city reneging on anything, de Villiers said.

"It's the union, not the employer, which decides if there will be arbitration. They have three choices:

"To go on bargaining, go on strike or go to arbitration."

He said it is the city's position that there had been no settlement through arbitration because a primary part of the award puts firefighters here in a dependent position of accepting the same wage as Lower Mainland firemen. A final settlement has not been reached on the mainland.

But It Turns Out They Were Thistles

ONE MORNING IN THIS apology for a summer, I was lost in contemplation of our globe flowers when a plaintive whistling reached my ears. Shore birds, I decided, and resumed my speculations about those majestic plants.

The whistling continued. Finally it was supplemented by a hail.

A smart outboard cruiser rode at anchor off the home beach, and the couple wading ashore had a familiar look. Most of our visitors arrive by the highway, but Sharon and Gary had come calling in their new boat with an invitation we couldn't refuse.

How about taking a day off for a run to the farther islands? We could land on a beach for lunch. Fish for a while if we were so inclined. Perhaps call in at one of the outposts for fuel and look-around.

Win and I have our own boat, the same plywood 12-footer that has served us faithfully these many years. But its range is limited by its size to close-to-home waters. It would be fun to make a longer reach on a larger, faster craft.

With that settled, we walked Gary and Sharon around our wind-pummeled garden, where growth is slow and only the toughest of our hopeful plantings survive. The stand of globe flowers was our triumph. They stood sturdy and tall, immune to the elements.

Gary studied our pets. Then he said, "First time I've heard of anyone planting Scotch thistles!"

Except for their silver-grey leaves, the globe flowers did bear a striking resemblance to thistles. Their prickles were the same, and so were the royal blue flower heads that were beginning to reward out careful cultivation.

"Not thistles," I insisted. "They just look kind of like them."

There's no point in arguing with a hard-nosed sceptic who can't tell a globe flower from a Scotch thistle. Anyway, Gary was eager to test the new boat on its first long open water run.

With Sharon's fried chicken and Win's potato salad for cruise stores, we boarded and got under way. The inshore shallows fled astern. We skirted the kelp beds, hustled along by a motor that dwarfed the useful six-horse which hangs on our 12-footer's scarred transom.

There was something to be said for a larger boat. It gave room to move around. It carried conveniences that small-craft lacked. It widened the cruising range and opened new vistas.

All in all, it was a trip to remember. We whipped through Baker Passage, one of the gateways to the island archipelago that trails along the British Columbia mainland. We shared the channels with American sport cruisers on the summer invasion, and loafed along shorelines we hadn't seen for years.

Later, we took the potato salad and fried chicken ashore on little Mitlenatch Island, the bird sanctuary that rises golden and alone from the streaming tides near the top of the Strait of Georgia.

The sun was warm. A coho salmon swirled among bait-minnows in blue water. The chicken and salad were good.

"Remember the pigweed?" Gary said. "The one you transplanted and staked and fussed over all summer?"

I remembered. It was a noble pigweed, even if nurtured in error, and it grew almost as high as our globe flowers.

When we got home, I gave the pride of our garden a long, close inspection. Encouraged by sunshine, several more of the lordly stalks had opened blue turfts.

Win joined me.

"I've been thinking," she said. "Maybe it's time we had a bigger boat."

"It'd be fun," I agreed. "We could cover a lot more territory."

"But we couldn't run it on a spoonful of fuel," Win said, "or yank it up on the beach or stow it in the carport."

"I was thinking that too," I told her.

We both studied the thistle-like plants.

"I just looked up globe flowers in a garden book," Win said. "They have yellow blossoms, not blue."

"Looks like we made a little mistake," I said.

"Then I looked up globe thistles," Win said. "That's what we have. But the book lists them as suitable for a herbaceous border."

Beauty, we're assured, is in the eye of the beholder. Thistles they may be, but high-class ones, and to our eyes a splendid sight!

Coroner Orders Inquest

Victoria coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has ordered an inquest into the death of city fireman Jack Barnes.

Barnes, 60, of 41 Dock, died Friday afternoon after he was knocked into the water when a barge struck his boat while he was fishing off Trial Island.

A spokesman for St. Jorre's office said the inquest will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at McCall Bros., 1400 Vancouver.

Ask The Times

Q. Ask the Times said the Astoria Bridge over the Columbia River is 1,232 feet long. I've driven over it and I'm sure it's much longer. Can you check? N.A.

A. You're right. The centre span is 1,232 feet but the overall length is 4.1 miles.

8-CENT LETTER ENDS SEPT. 1

A Post Office spokesman today reminded Victorians the eight-cent letter will disappear Sept. 1 when the rate goes to 10 cents.

And, effective March 1, it will cost 12 cents to mail a letter in Canada.

Mailing a letter to the United States will remain at 10 cents, but only until March 1 when it will also go to 12 cents.

The rate to the United Kingdom, now 20 cents will climb to 25 cents effective Jan. 1.

Also on Sept. 1, rates will increase — and in some cases double — for rental of letter boxes at post offices.

The small box rental of $4 to $8 per year will increase to $5 to $10. Large box rental will go to $50 from $25 while bag service for large-volume customers will increase to $75 from $35.

You Can Save by Cutting Hidden Waste

Montague BRIDGMAN Ltd.
China Crystal Gifts
811 Government St 383-0821

hilda beastall

Probably the most painless way to lower the total cost of the enjoyment of good food is to avoid waste.

Before rising to our own defence on this score with the statement that nothing is ever wasted, let us think about some of the hidden wastes we commit almost daily without knowing of them.

Leftovers in such small quantities as a spoonful, or a half cup of liquid, are as much an item of waste if not used, as larger quantities. Their use later in another kind of food will sometimes add just the right flavor or finish to create a new dish.

Prevention of spoilage of food is a form of avoiding waste just as is the preservation of nutritional value of food once we have bought it, or brought it into the home from garden or allotment.

So let us first take a look at our habits in dealing with fruits and vegetables.

Fresh fruits when ripe and ready to eat, are easily bruised, and bruises allow rapid breakdown of tissue. When this occurs, one damaged fruit in a bag or bowl will quickly contaminate the sound fruit, for the disease, or bruise, is fungous in nature, and contagious to other fruits especially of the same kind.

Most unripened fruits will ripen at room temperature if they have already reached a certain point of maturity on the plant; but they tend to rot in the refrigerator if put there before ripening. Refrigerating will keep many fruits such as apricots, peaches, bananas and avocados up to five days. Berries in covered bowls will keep no more than about 48 hours. Do not wash berries before storing or they will rot much master.

Berries which are too ripe for serving fresh and whole can be mashed with a teaspoon of sugar, pushed with a wooden spoon through a strainer to remove the seeds and used as a sauce for pancakes, crepes, or homemade hot sweet bread or over a bowl of plain homemade yogurt.

Leafy vegetables — beet green, lettuce, swiss chard, spinach, chinese cabbage, ordinary cabbage and kale — should be stored dry in closed plastic bags in refrigerator. Remove quantity needed; then wash and prepare. Those remaining will keep from three to seven days according to leaf texture. If these are washed and stored wet or even damp, rot soon sets in when stored in refrigerator.

From garden and allotment, remove mud and visible insects from all vegetables, but delay washing if possible, until using. Sometimes root vegetables — carrots, beets, radishes — must be washed before storing, but dry them on old dish towel before storing in dry plastic bags.

Potatoes must never be washed before storing or they will quickly be lost by rotting. When lifting them fresh from the garden soil, handle with care to avoid bruising; then let them dry in moving air without sunlight for a while. Lifting potatoes while soil is dry is one way to avoid having them caked in mud.

All these small points in the care of food are indirect ways to avoid waste.

Do we always use every lettuce leaf, every piece of celery including the thick bottom stump, and the outer cabbage leaves and stumps?

Lettuce leaves add a fine fresh taste to frozen peas when used as a liner to the pan when cooking. Serve with the peas. They have the same good effect with frozen green beans.

There is often more flavor to a cabbage stump than to the leafy parts especially when bought. Slice the stump thinly, cook in a little margarine with a slice of onion before adding other vegetables to be pan fried quickly, Chinese style. Celery stump is very good when cooked the same way.

Any of these good vegetable pieces add extra flavor and nutrition to every kind of soup. Spoonful of cooked rice, macaroni, potato, or any cooked vegetable and its cooking liquid will make an unusual sauce if heated and mashed through a strainer. A light touch of herb seasoning may be in order as a refresher.

When using leftover cooked foods, make a habit of adding some fresh item to the dish or serve freshly prepared vegetables or fruits in addition to compensate for lost values in reheated foods.

Still smaller ways of saving instead of wasting is the putting aside of a cup of coffee leftover at the end of a meal. This perhaps seldom happens but it can be quite useful.

Apart from flavoring a sauce for a dessert, coffee, especially when reasonably strong, is a great meat tenderizer. Rub a little into beef roasts before adding the garlic slivers; or use it as the liquid when mixing meat loaf or beef patties or even bean patties. Leftover coffee can be used to mix coffee cake doughs or to add a mild coffee flavor to fillings for coffee cakes.

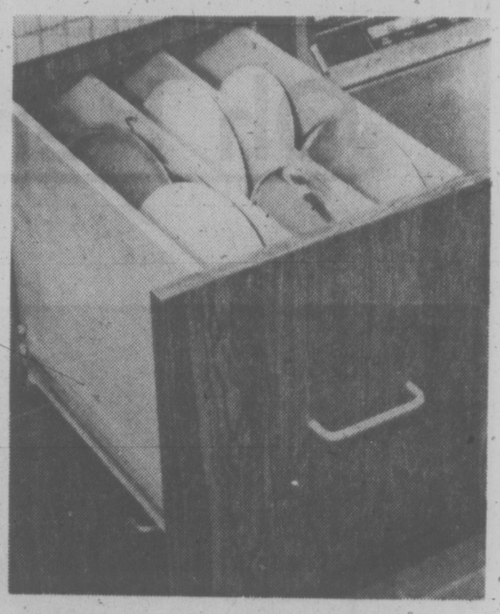
If iced coffee is liked on hot days, have a few cubes frozen in a tray from leftovers; use them in place of plain ice in the fresh brewed hot coffee; or as a mocha flavor for iced chocolate.

Dairy foods lose their quality rapidly when exposed to light and room temperature on the meal table. It is not being "faddy" to return these products to the refrigerator promptly.

Included are yogurt in glass jars (homemade), cottage cheese when put into open bowls on the table, butter, margarine, cheese, and liquid milk. All kinds of milk are adversely affected by light and warmth; when re constituted with water, milk powder has the same storage requirements as whole liquid milk and the powder itself. And it is a good idea not to mix the milk which has been on the table for a meal with that remaining in the "stock" container.

Cheddar-type cheese is known to improve its flavor when served at room temperature, but overnight it should be refrigerated. And a large block should be cut so that only a chunk for a couple of days is on the cheese dish (under a cover) for daily use.

Little ways of saving the freshness of food and its quality; but each homemaker will think of other ways to save and use, thus keeping food costs partially at least under our control.



Two Good Ways To Save Steps

By PAULINE GRAVES

Because women spend so much time in the kitchen, every convenience and step-saver idea contributes to her well being. Many of these ideas are developed by the homemaker as her work habits evolve, even though she might have just moved into a new home with all of the latest equipment.

Two such ideas are shown here. One stems from a tray storage cupboard in which trays stand on end in three-inch slots. In every home are bulbous and hard to store items. When you nest these, you wrestle with the whole stack to get the one you want. One woman's answer to this was to widen the tray storage slots and use perforated board for the dividers. With hooks inserted into the perforations, the awkward items can hang singly, and because the dividers slide into the room, each item can be reached easily. Two 1 x ¼-inch strips nailed ⅜-inch apart in the top and bottom of the cupboard create tracks for the sliding dividers which are 8-inches apart.

Because this homeowner is a tall woman, the cupboard above the refrigerator proved to be handy for this use. Shorter women would have to find space in lower cupboards.

The second idea has basically the same slot storage in a drawer, the slots 4-inches wide and the dividers immovable. Pot and pan lids are stored on end so that each is right at hand. A far better storage idea than to heap the lids together indiscriminately in a cupboard or wide drawer.

Today we'd like to talk about Bromeliads, an exotic, exciting and hardy breed of plants. To begin, all pineapples are Bromeliads. In fact, all Bromeliads are pineapples. Confusing? Maybe, but let's simplify it down to this: Bromeliads are as different from green plants as are cacti or succulents. Bromeliads are really beautiful and fun-to-raise plants, although frankly you'll have much better luck in getting them to produce their spectacular blooms if you culture them outside. There are literally thousands of different species and hybrids, and, all of they will grow and bloom for anyone, providing they have good drainage, lots of air and water — not in the soil but in the natural cups of the plants. Generally speaking, don't overpamper your Bromeliad; they thrive on partial neglect. Another bonus: You can grow Bromeliads by affixing them — roots covered by sphagnum moss — to practically anything. For instance, right on a coat hanger! So give away that outdated outfit and hang up a Bromeliad instead. The best part? Your Bromeliad will never go out of style!

ASK JENNIFER

Picking Right Hair Conditioner

By JENNIFER ANDERSON

Do hair conditioners really work? What type is best for your hair? Can they really make a difference?

Yes, they can make a difference, but only if they are of superior quality and only if they suit your hair.

Dear Jennifer: Everyone knows you are supposed to condition your hair after each shampoo; but since everyone's hair is different, how do you know what product to buy? I condition my hair after shampooing, but I can't honestly say it does much. It may be a waste of time and money.

What do you think?—Carol T., Ottawa.

Dear Carol: If you can't see what your conditioner is doing for you, it's likely the wrong one. It there's no difference before and after in the texture, sheen and manageability of your hair, then you are wasting time aand money.

Choosing the right conditioner for your hair type is easy if you read the information on the bottle to see if you fit into the categories of dry, damaged, brittle, tinted, overprocessed. Or maybe you fall into the fine, naturally curly, untinted, hard-to-comb type.

The first group needs a heavy-duty conditioner with real guts that can repair some of the damage, put the shine back in and make it feel like hair again.

A current creamy favorite that offers deep conditioning is applied to dry hair, worked in well and left for 10 minutes. It can be wrapped in a plastic bag and ducked under the hair dryer for 30 minutes for even better results. Shampoo it out and rinse like mad and you'll feel that your hair has been conditioned. This conditioner can also be applied to wet, freshly shampooed rair, left orr for a few minutes and rinsed out.

The advantage of being able to apply this conditioner to dry hair is that it makes it idea for wrapping it up in a scarf and going along with your life if you are not one to sit still for beauty's sake.

Another conditioner promises to give a salon-type oil treatment to damaged hair at home quickly and inexpensively. By heating up the plastic container in a cup of hot water a few minutes, the contents will be warm to massage thoroughly into dry hair. Leave it on a few minutes and shampoo it out. It works.

Funding Finished, Expansion Next at YM-YWCA

elizabeth forbes

Now that the funding campaign is concluded, Bill Skinner, executive director of the YM-YWCA, is looking ahead to actual expansion of the present building at Courtenay and Quadra Street, and to the many activities that will follow.

During the campaign he worked closely with the building fund committee and with 500 volunteers who were an important part of that campaign.

Speaking of those volunteers today he says "don't tell me you cannot get people enthusiastic over a cause. Just give them something they believe in and they are right there.

"We know . . . we saw it happen . . . and we are very proud of those volunteers."

Now Skinner is involved with the building committee, architects and the board of directors, all of whom are co-operating to produce plans for the needed expansion.

"I'm watching very carefully," he says, "not only to see the money is used to the best advantage but also to make sure those plans, when finalized, give us the maximum space we need now and well into the future."

Skinner, who has held his present position a little over four years, has a wealth of experience in all phases of "Y" work.

He came to Victoria from the national YMCA in Toronto after seven years in charge of staff training, a position that included travelling back and forth across Canada, and visiting "Y" establishments from coast to coast.

Prior to that he spent three years in Newfoundland where he re-organized the YMCA in St. John's.

Before that he was seven years on the lower mainland, working out of the Vancouver YMCA.

In connection with the Newfoundland assignment, he explains there had been a YMCA as well as a YWCA in St. John's "but somehow, while the women's organization continued, the men's organization folded."

He re-activated it "in an old rented house and with one man in charge."

Today he has the satisfaction of knowing the "Y" movement is on firm ground in Newfoundand.

Recently the two groups — men's and women's — amalgamated and "right now they are in the midst of a funding campaign for a brand new building."

As executive director of the YM-YWCA here, he works with 40 full-time employees (including those in the coffee shop).

There is also a corps of part-time instructors and at least 300 regular volunteers — men, women and teen-agers — in the various programs.

He is responsible for co-ordinating all activities and in keeping the board of directors informed of those activities.

At present two of his "particular interests" are taking the "Y" out into the community and giving leadership in different ways, as well as developing a fast growing year-round outdoor education project for young people.

"We are using our Camp Thunderbird in Sooke as a base for the outdoor program," he explains.

There, wilderness trips are organized throughout the year.

All last winter, week-end camping that featured nature crafts, hunting with a camera, hiking, canoeing and kyaking was arranged. (Kyaking started in the "Y" pool and was only taken out-of-doors when deemed perfectly safe.)

This winter, the program will be enlarged to involve public schools where curricula include some days in the open.

"We will help by supplementing what the teachers are already doing," Skinner says.

As he sees it, the outdoor living program "opens new fields of adventure in an exciting way and in a wholesome environment."

There are still many young people of all ages, he points out, who have never had the experience of this type of living.

"So, we are expanding the program to give all those youngsters that opportunity."

One full-time staff member is in charge of the program, assisted by "many volunteers and part-time workers . . . all fine people."

Taking the "Y" out into the community is also described by Skinner as an exciting experience.

"We are not duplicating what municipal recreation centres are doing," he points out. "Rather, we are co-operating with them on various ventures where we can be of help."

Here he speaks of programs for pre-school children and for mothers, where leadership is provided in communities as far away as Cowichan Valley; of a gymnastic program in co-operation with the recreation commission out at Sidney and an adult fitness program in conjunction with View Royal Community Association.

There is also an Outreach program in which the "Y" works with young people on the streets.

"At present five 'Y' workers are concerned in that program," the executive director tells you. "They co-operate with the police, with social workers and various organizations."

Funding for this project comes from the provincial department of human resources, with certain basic costs accepted by the "Y" through money it receives from the United Way.

Skinner sees one of the principle roles of the YM-YWCA as the training of leaders and sending those leaders out into the community to use that training to the best advantage.

He also sees the role of volunteers in "Y" programs as of tremendous importance.

"To me it is the volunteers that make the difference between our programs and those of other recreation centres," he says.

Some Tips to Make Light Of Fluorescent Troubles

By A. J. HAND
(c) 1976, Popular Science.

Watt for watt, a fluorescent lamp puts out three times as much light as an incandescent bulb. It will last four times as long before it needs replacement. And it will run much cooler, a real benefit during the summer.

But these advantages come at a price. Fluorescents are more complicated than incandescents. And they're prone to a wider variety of ills. Examples of these ills, and their cures, follow.

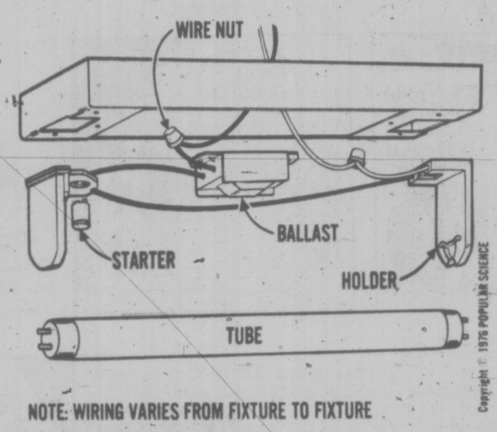
Lamp won't start. Sometimes the problem is just bad contact between the tube and its solder. Twist and jiggle the tube. If that doesn't work, try a new tube. If the fixture has two tubes, replace them both.

Still no luck? Replace the starter, which is that little silver can usually mounted just above the tube. Be sure to replace it with a starter of the same type. Note: some fluorescent fixtures (rapid-start and instant-start types) have no starters.

If the new starter doesn't solve the problem, turn off all power to the fixture, open up the fixture and remove the ballast. The ballast is the box-like device with the wires coming out of it. To remove it, unscrew the plastic wire nuts securing the wiring, and remove the mounting screws. Take the ballast to an electrical supply house and get another to match it. When you install the new ballast, be sure to follow the wiring diagram on the ballast. It may differ from the way the old ballast was wired.

Lamp flickers or shivers. This is common with new tubes. They have to break in or about 100 hours before they work properly. If the problem persists, try new tubes and starters as above. Last, try a new ballast. Note: Fluorescents may flicker or swirl if operated at temperatures below 60 degrees or so. Special low-temperature starters and ballasts may solve the problem. If not, you'll need a protected fixture or all-weather tube.

Short lamp life. Frequent switching on and off can cause this problem. Fluorescents last longest if left on at least three hours at a time. Other causes of short life are bad contact, bad starter, bad ballast.



NOTE: WIRING VARIES FROM FIXTURE TO FIXTURE

Slow starting. Again, check for proper contact, then check starter and tubes. With rapid-start fluorescents, spacing between the tube and reflector is critical and must not be changed. Check to see if the spacing has been altered. Poor starting may also be due to abnormal temperatures. Use special fixtures outdoors or in unheated rooms and areas near air-conditioning ducts.

Humming. Often this problem is caused by lose parts. Check to see that the fixture is tightly assembled. Be sure the ballast is firmly mounted. No help? Replace the ballast.

Lamp discoloration. If the tube has grey rings near its ends, don't worry. This is normal. If you see greyish streaks along the lower part of the tube, rotate the tube to a new position in its holder. The streaks are mercury accumulation.

Again, no problem. Other forms of discoloration can be caused by our now-familiar trio: bad tube, bad starter, bad ballast.

Final note: Mismatched components can cause any or all of the problems listed above. So can improper wiring of the fixture. If you have trouble correcting a problem write to the manufacturer of the fixture to be sure you are using the right combination of tube, starter and balltast.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Through the years, many bridge players have stated to me that they just never pass partner's opening one-club bid (no matter how poor a hand they might have) if they possess either a void in clubs, or a singleton. They fear that partner's opening bid may be the "short club"; and so they look for a better parking place.

The problem that can be created by responding to an opening one-club bid on subminium values can be observed in today's deal. The hand arose in a recent team-of-four match.

NORTH
♠ 8532
♡ 9764
◇ QJ52

WEST	EAST
♠ J96	♠ 7
♡ KQ83	♡ AJ1052
◇ K74	◇ 983
♣ 862	♣ J1054

SOUTH
♠ AKQ104
◇ A106
♣ AKQ93

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ◇	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♡.

When North made his one-diamond response, it was with the wishful thinking that South would rebid either one heart or one spade. North could now pass, secure in the knowledge that his partnership had found a better parking place than one club.

South's jump rebid of two spades was absolutely forcing—but North felt that he had bid enough. So he passed. By ruffing out a club, South established his club suit. His only loser was a diamond to West's king.

It might be argued that North was right: that it was better to play at two spades, making six, than at one club, making four or five. Materially speaking, this argument would be valid. But from the viewpoint of future partnership morale, North's position could prove costly, for South will now be scared to death every time he makes a jump-shift rebid, fearing that North might pass.

When the deal was replayed, South felt that his hand was too good for a mere one-club opening bid. So he made the game-forcing opening bid of two spades, to which North responded with the negative two notrump response. When South then rebid three clubs, North felt (and properly so) that his distributional assets warranted a jump to four spades. South now barged right into the small slam in spades.

As was pointed out, there was no problem in coming home with 12 tricks, as his counterpart had done. But, unlike his counterpart, he received the bonus for a small slam.

Starfighters Hitting Birds

OTTAWA (CP) — In the last eight years the Canadian Armed Forces lost a dozen CF104 Starfighters worth $1.5 million each. In every case the jets were lost because they collided with birds in flight.

Multi-engine jetliners are not as vulnerable to collisions with birds but the hazard is great enough to keep a group of experts in Ottawa busy looking for ways to keep the birds away from airports and planes in flight.

The group, called the National Research Council Associate Committee on Bird Hazards to Aircraft, has tested flashing strobe lights, mechanical falcons and computerized tracking of avian flight patterns in an effort to find a solution to the problem.

Dr. Victor Solman, a staff specialist of the Canadian Wildlife Service and chairman of the group, says research now is focused on two particular areas— the effects of light on birds and bird densities.

"We've always been looking for the ultimate weapon that would make birds get out of the way of planes," he said. "We tried to get a color using strobe lights to gain the bird's attention, and we found it—red."

Early statistics suggest that strike rates are lower on aircraft with landing lights on. Many aircraft pilots have adopted this practice of see-and-be-seen, said Dr. Solman.

Research is also being conducted to determine the density and shape of certain bird flocks through the use of three-dimensional photography.

This line of research will help engine manufacturers simulate the worst possible cases of bird collisions so they will know the maximum number of birds that can enter the engine intake.

The work of the committee has attracted international attention. In 1933 an European group known as Bird Strike Committee Europe was formed with the aid of Canadian researchers and scientists.

Canada was the first nation to institute a bird-activity forecast program. This was pioneered at the Canadian Forces Base at Cold Lake, Alta., in 1966.

Since then, many countries have adapted Canadian techniques at their airports, several with good results. Meanwhile, progress is being made at home and abroad towards a better bird-warning system.

In the Netherlands the Canadian Forces have set up a system based on radar. When birdflight intensities rise above a certain level on an eight-point scale, nearby military airports are warned.

At a meeting in 1972, military officials reported that before the development of the system, their bird-strike rate was 22 for every 10,000 hours of flying. After the system began, the strike rate dropped to seven birds.

Since 1910 more than 200 human lives have been lost by bird strikes on aircraft and property damage has exceeded $100 million.

Birds began destroying jet engines on Air Canada's DC-8s in 1958. The first engine stopped by a bird cost the company more than $100,000 in replacement parts.

In the next five years the total cost of replacement parts exceeded $1 million and the average annual cost to Air Canada was $283,000. During 1964-68, when research into the problem began, Air Canada's average replacement costs dropped to $125,000.

In 1962 the National Research Council began to study the problem birds create for airplanes and to recommend ways of dealing with them.

A year later NRC organized the associate committee on bird hazards. Membership includes the wildlife service, the defence department, commercial airline companies, aerospace manufacturers and the Canadian Airline Pilots Association.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By SYDNEY OMARR
Astrological Forecast for Tuesday, August 17

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on money, possessions, changes collections, locating of lost articles. You get to heart of matters, discuss basic issues, learn truth, overcome obstacles and deal with Taurus, Aquarius persons.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Make changes, ask questions, express yourself — piece together bits of information for complete story. Cycle continues high — you can successfully take initiative. Member of opposite sex figures prominently.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What occurs in "confined area," such as hospital or theatre is more important than usual. Be observant—and discreet. Lunar position emphasizes restriction, organization, illusion, fears, dreams and inner feelings, beauty.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on desire, what to do about career situation. Key now is to mould policy, to form viable alliances, to win friends and influence people. Pisces, Virgo individuals are likely to be in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You get results. Promotion, advancement, more responsibility and greater rewards are featured. Capricorn, Cancer persons are in picture. Older individual actually looks up to you. Be aware of it. Views are vindicated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasize potential, communications, ability to get message across. Refuse to be intimidated by one who expounds esoteric philosophy. Your own views, principles are important. Know it and stick by them! Aries, Libra could figure prominently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What you seek may be "buried deep." Obviously, this means "digging" is necessary. Finances of partner, mate must be considered. Be more-than-ordinarily aware of tax setup, leases, promisory notes, credits, deficits and assets. Involvement with opposite sex could be in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Intuitive intellect could work overtime. Emphasis on public relations, contacts, contracts, commitments. Be alert for signals, clues. Let others show their hands — play your own cards close to chest. Message should become crystal-clear. Aquarian may be in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Avoid direct confrontations. Maintain balance and humor. Health, employment, unique services come into focus. Take nothing for granted. Praise individual who has gone out of way to smooth path for you. Gesture of good will can mean a lot—and create benefits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be willing to review, revise, even to tear down for ultimate purposes of rebuilding. Activity indicated in connection with Leo, Scorpio persons. Accent on romance, creativity, children, significant changes. Element of luck or timing rides with you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You come up with information that could lead to a "windfall." Build on solid structure. Finish transaction. Deal with those who have a "track record." Steer clear of the flimsy—insist on quality and experience. Get valid appraisal, especially where property is concerned.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Short trip, involving relative or special message, might command attention. Taurus, Libra persons figure prominently. Home, domestic situation comes into focus. Reconciliation might be featured. Be diplomatic. Gift, the remembering of anniversary could "work wonders."

IF AUGUST 17th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are capable of organizing, of running a business, of handling responsibility and money. You are creative, controversial, considered "sexy." Travel and much social activity featured this year. May was significant. In September, you have burden lifted — you'll be active, social, happy. Capricorn, Cancer persons play important roles in your life. What you "planted" or started two years ago . . . now is beginning to bear fruit.

Soviet Craft Circles Moon

MOSCOW (Reuter) — An unmanned Soviet space station, Luna 24, went into orbit around the moon Wednesday, the official Tass news agency reported. It said the station, launched Aug. 9, was orbiting the moon every two hours at an altitude of 70 miles. Tass has said the main aim of Luna 24's flight was "to continue scientific exploration of the moon and near moon space."

dear abby

Should Children Know 'Real' Parents?

DEAR ABBY: Many parents are disturbed because in some places it is now possible for adult adopted children to "unseal" their records and find out who their biological parents are.

This is an answer to my prayers because somewhere in the world is a 21-year-old girl I gave up for adoption because I was an unwed mother who wanted my child to have a better life than I could give her at the time.

I hope my daughter wants to know her "real" mother. I want her to know that I have no desire to replace the woman who raised her. I just want my daughter to accept me as her "other mother." I wonder if she realizes that I could have done what many other girls in my position have done — had an abortion. Instead I chose to risk my own life in childbirth in order to give her life.

Perhaps my daughter would like to meet me just to say, "Thank you." — HER OTHER MOTHER.

DEAR OTHER: Please read on for a letter from a mother who has been on both sides of the adoption table.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 40 years, and all the years of my married life my husband has had other women. He never had the same one for very long, but it has been one after the other.

He has always been a loving and generous husband and a wonderful father to our children, and I know he loves me. He has never embarrassed me by going out in public with another woman, but as discreet as he was, somehow I always found out. I have asked him several times why he needs other women, because I am by nature a very affectionate person. He gets defensive and has no answer.

I love him dearly and would never consider leaving him, but the older I get, the more it hurts. I am 60 and he is 63.

Can you advise me? — TROUBLED AT 60.

DEAR TROUBLED: You say you love him, and I believe you do. To "love" a person is to accept him with all his faults, weaknesses and imperfections.

Don't dwell on his infidelity. (Who can know the most intimate needs of another?) No one has everything.

IT'S ABOUT TIME!
Someone really took a close look at this choice Rockland area property. It's old, and as such has a uniquely charming character about it! It's big, so it won't suit everybody, but it does have potential for redevelopment. It needs some redecorating, but not everybody likes your taste either! The Vendor will assist with financing — asking price only $120,000, well below replacement. Call me to view:

HORNBY ISLAND
Robin Fells, founder-builder-manager of Wickaninnish Inn at Long Beach until expropriated two years ago, travelled 35,000 miles in 1974 looking for a new homesite. He found it on this beautiful Gulf Island, but had to purchase the upper 100 acres of the Knieful farm, much more than needed. He has now built his new home and divided the land into 10 lots from 5 to 15 acres in size, all selling for $30,000. So take a leisurely walk along the private access road through first-growth firs and Garry Oaks and if you like what you see, get in touch. You'll find them past the co-op, first left turn off Strachan Road. Have a nice walk.

RUXTON ISLAND—two acres of forest, privacy and security just a short walk from the protected bay. Sacrifice at $7,500. Waterfront in the bay with good well $20,900.
MUDGE ISLAND — Almost one full acre of treed waterfront land, unexpected salmon fishing, good deep anchorage, you'll fall in love with this one at $18,900.
PROTECTION ISLAND — camping tenting or refirement lot 80x120 ft. backing on natural park, electricity and phone. $5,900 cash or $595.00 down and $65.00 per month at $6,950. To view any of the above phone or write Glen Galloway, personally, at Nanaimo Realty Co. Ltd., Box 518, Nanaimo, B.C. at 754-2311 or eves. 758-5537 collect.

309 IN MEMORIAMS

THOMAS—In loving memory of our dear three year old granddaughter Dianna Maria Thomas, who passed away August 16, 1975.
Someone remembers, someone cares.
Your name is whispered in all our prayers,
A smile, a tear, a thought sincere
How often we wish that you were here.
Sadly missed by parents (Tom and Deb.) grandparents (Mr. and Mrs. C. Thomas, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Jowett) great-grandparents, aunts and uncles.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD, AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD. AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS.

Handicapped House Planned

A $750,000 boarding house for handicapped people will be built on Nigel Avenue next to the Greater Victoria Activity Centre for the Handicapped.
Project of the Vancouver Island Association for the Physically Disabled, the home will have nine double rooms, 17 single and a two-bedroom apartment for staff.
John Di Castri is the architect for the two-storey building which will be built under a land-use contract with Saanich.
"This is for people who live in or have to make use of wheelchairs," Andrew Hazeland, chairman of the association's board, said today.
He said the units will be equipped with special toilets and other facilities needed by the handicapped. Occupancy is expected next spring.
"These people live on the margin. They can only do so much physically. When they have to do cooking, cleaning and other chores it makes it pretty tough for them to hold a job," Hazeland said.
"This will give them an opportunity to live as normal a life as possible and obtain greater independence in the community."
Hazeland said no age limits have been set by the association.
"We're hoping, however, they will be young people. We are drawing up criteria and the applicants will be screened by a committee."
Capital costs will be met by a loan from the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, with 10 per cent foregiveness.
Rents will be scaled to incomes. Those whose incomes are low enough will receive federal and provincial assistance.
"We're hoping we'll be able to hold these people in jobs," Hazeland said, "so many handicapped people are simply shut away . . . go downhill and end up in hospitals."

Researcher Dies

BOSTON (AP) — Luigi Gorini, 72, a former Harvard microbiologist known for his research in genetics and resistance of fascism in his Italian homeland, died Friday at Beth Israel Hospital. Gorini joined the Harvard Medical School faculty in 1957. Harvard awarded him the Ledlie Prize in 1965 for his discoveries concerning effects of drugs on heredity.

No Leads On Escape

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The FBI said it was without new leads today as it searches for Susan Murphy, a fringe member of the Charles Manson clan who escaped from a federal prison.

Murphy escaped Saturday from the Terminal Island prison with another woman. They overpowered a female prison guard, beat her and escaped in her car, which they later abandoned, authorities said.

MURPHY
. . . Manson "fringe"

An FBI spokesman said Sunday night: "We don't have any indication as to the whereabouts of either of them."

The spokesman said the search for Murphy, 34, and Diane Ellis, 33, still was centred in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area, but no further details were available.

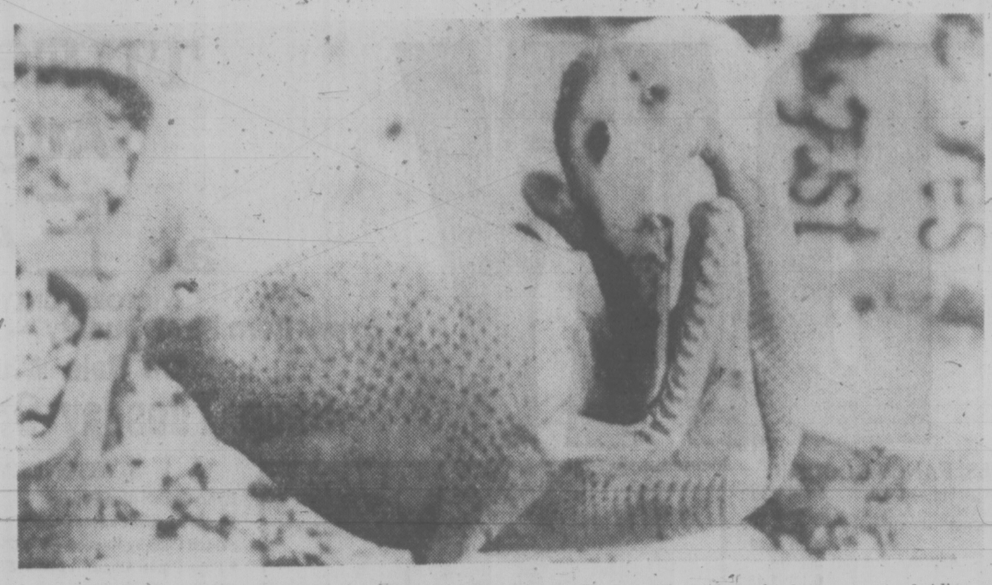
Prison officials said the two apparently acted without outside assistance.

The FBI has described Murphy as a fringe member of the Manson clan. She was serving a five-year sentence for conspiring with another Manson clan member, Sandra Good, to send threatening letters to business executives, accusing them of polluting the environment.

Murphy lived in Sacramento, Calif., with Manson family member Lynette (Squeaky) Fromm at the time Fromme pointed a loaded gun at President Ford Sept. 5. Froome now is in prison, convicted of attempting to kill the president.

Manson also is in prison, convicted with three of his women followers in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six others in 1969.

Authorities said they know of no connection between Ellis and the Manson group. She was serving time for parole violation on a bank-robbery conviction.



FEATHERLESS FRIEND is Soupy, a duck born without feathers in Sligo, Ky. Fearing Soupy might freeze to death in the winter, researchers shipped him to Tampa, Fla., where he became pet of Alice Darling.

$10,000 to 'Keep America High'

WASHINGTON (WP) — An unidentified man carrying a black attache case strolled into the Washington office of the U.S. National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) Sunday. He made small talk for a couple of minutes and asked a few questions of the group's director. Then he walked out the door, — and left behind a $10,000 cash contribution.

"I'll tell you the truth," said NORML director Keith Stroup, as his fingers fumbled with nervous excitement through the piles of well-worn $10 and $20 bills on his desk. "It's one of the few real fine natural highs I've ever experienced."

The gift was accompanied by a cryptic typewritten "STATE-MENT" that explained:

"The Confederation (an association of independent marijuana, hashish and hashish oil smugglers, ton dealers, growers, transporters and workers) donates this $10,000 to NORML to hasten the day when our contributions to the betterment of society will be legalized.

"We regret the small amount — last year we could have given 100 times this — but since then the molecular totalitarianism of the ruling class has seriously depleted our resources. Nevertheless, we will attempt to continue to keep America high."

"Now, if I were guessing," Stroup said, "based on the nature of that note, I think it was a liberal supporter who agrees with what he's doing but doesn't want to be identified because of his job or family or something. So he gave it to us anonymously and conjured up the note to give it a little character."

BABY'S HOME FROM PRISON

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — Jessica Evers is home with relatives, after spending the first 15 months of life as a diaperless, blue-eyed queen in the women's section of a Mexican prison.

The mother of the baby remains in prison, still awaiting sentencing on drug charges. She was arrested in Mexico City July 12, 1974, while changing planes from Bogota, Colombia to the United States.

Jessica was born in prison March 14, 1975, and had spent little time outside until brought to live with relatives in this suburb of Seattle in June.

"Jessica was a queen down there from the day she was born," said her grandfather, Gene Evers.

"Actually, she had 40 mothers down there, you might say—all the other American girls in jail on drug charges."

He said his daughter, Julie, 23, conferred with the family and decided it would be best to move Jessica to Bellevue.

"But it was a very hard situation for us to determine what to do, for Julie to determine what to do. The circumstances in the prison—there was no hot water and it was very cold in the winter. They both stayed in one bed and there was no room. When Jessica began walking, Julie became apprehensive she might wander around or fall."

Parting was not easy.

"Julie was leaning over a balcony sobbing into a blanket," said Evers.

Despite a rugged first 15 months, Jessica is a healthy child and had had little illness. She is also a charmer, says her grandfather.

"She is a very beautiful little girl. She has been great. Julie did a wonderful job of training her, or raising her under the circumstances. We're very happy we got her back."

Meanwhile, the Evers family is, with other families, continuing legal efforts that might free their daughter, or at least provide a light sentence. But Evers says a minimum sentence is eight years, without parole.

Fewer Jobs, Fewer Births

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (WP) — The highly educated young people of this little island have suddenly stopped having babies, a development that has population experts expressing new hopes for free education and literacy as an antidote to Asia's population problem.

Several Asian nations are reporting some progress in curbing population growth, but the speed of Sri Lanka's success has been startling. In 10 years, its growth rate has plummeted from 2.5 to 1.8 per cent a year. In five years, the rate of live births has dropped nearly 10 per cent.

The turnabout in what was once a tremendous baby boom here is the result of individual decisions by millions of young beneficiaries of Sri Lanka's tuition-free primary-through-university school system.

"In Sri Lanka the rate of literacy is very high, 86 per cent, said Ratnasiri Fernando, marketing director of a major private birth control program here. "We have a lot of mass media and quite a high degree of radio listening, so people concerned with population can get their message through."

This socialist-style democracy, which changed its name from Ceylon in 1972, has also benefited from its small size and good road system, which have made it easy to distribute birth control information and materials.

But what has probably dampened baby-making ardor most severely is the terrible job market, which has left 20 per cent of the population unemployed. Among young people with university educations, who usually refuse to accept menial work, the unemployed rate is thought to be more than 50 per cent.

"In my family, say we have me and my brother with fairly good jobs and we scrape up money to pay living costs for a nephew to go to college," said an influential businessman. "When people see how hard it is for even that one to get a job, there isn't much incentive to produce more children."

Garden Winners In James Bay

Winning gardeners in James Bay were presented with prizes by members of the James Bay New Horizons Society as part of the third annual garden competition Saturday.

A total of 26 gardens and 16 apartments were entered in the contest for gardens contributing the most pleasure and beauty to the district.

Gardens receiving certificates were at 63 Boyd, 28 San Jose, 24 San Jose, 651 Toronto, 228 St. Andrews and 555 Niagara.

Other entries of merit and two non-competing gardens were noted at 422 Kingston, 232 St. Andrews, 204 Government and 559 Niagara.

10 Die in Rain

SEOUL (Reuter) — Heavy rains that lashed central and eastern parts of South Korea last week left at least 10 persons dead, nine injured and more than 780 homeless, the government announced Sunday. More than 40 persons are missing, disaster prevention headquarters said.

HARE KRISHNA TO BE BOUNCED?

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — The controversial Hare Krishna sect may soon be thrown out of Evanston if the city council's planning and development committee gets its way.

The six-member committee plans to submit a proposal to the full council Aug. 23, which would deny the Hare Krishnas a special-use permit they need to continue living and working in a converted YMCA building in the North Chicago suburb.

Some 40 members of the sect have been inhabiting the building for more than four years without the permit. But those days are numbered.

"The Krishnas are now illegally in Evanston," city manager Ed Martin said Saturday. Though the city zoning board has recommended the sect be allowed to stay in the Evanston temple, the planning committee thinks there are reasons why not.

"The big problem," planning committee member Arnold Winfield said, "is that across from the temple is a home for the elderly with 107 apartments. The temple is a seven-day thing and they conduct business out of it. There's a traffic impact . . . and over the past year and a half I have received a number of complaints about noise at hours of the night when the elderly should be asleep."

B.C. Ferry Strike Called Off

A threatened strike by 750 deck officers and engineers aboard B.C. Ferries for this Thursday midnight is off, union officials said today.

Peter Marshall, representative for the marine services (licensed) component of the B.C. Government Employees Union, said the BCGEU executive asked the officers to stay at work and refrain from striking.

The component executive was to have been informed at a meeting Sunday.

One union source said the BCGEU made a commitment to the government there would be no job action while the entire union is voting on a general wage increase.

Tallying of votes will not be done until Sept. 20, he said.

The officers component had said it was unaware of this commitment, he added.

The dispute began last May when B.C. Ferries announced layoffs. Officers voted for strike action and that original strike notice was to have taken effect June 1.

Marshall said that notice was cancelled when Hugh Ladner was named as industrial inquiry commissioner in the dispute, but he claimed the notice was still valid.

Marshall apparently didn't discuss the new strike threat with either the BCGEU executive or the executive of the 2,500-member unlicensed group of ferry workers.

Norm Thornber, business agent for the unlicensed group who earlier called the officers move premature, has said he has been assured there will be no more layoffs, other than the 240 announced in June.

Transport Minister Jack Davis, meanwhile, said the officers fear of massive layoffs is unfounded and that anyone with more than two years service cannot be laid off.

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Army, fearing bubonic plague on three of its bases, has declared war on the ground squirrel population of California.

72,000 Leave Homes As Volcano Threatens

Times News Services

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe — La Soufriere volcano, spewing smoke and volcanic dust, will explode in a "catastrophic" eruption in the next week to 15 days, a French scientist said today. But because of a mass evecuation no loss of life is expected.

The scientist, Charles Brousse of the University of Paris, said a warning Sunday that the eruption would occur in a matter of hours was issued to ensure that all 72,000 residents left the area around the 4,813-foot peak.

A 650-foot high cloud of fine volcanic ash rose over La Soufriere as islanders fought their way through traffic jams and highway accidents, many of them in private cars hastily loaded with household possessions and others on buses sent by Guadeloupean authorities from the sister island of Grande Terre.

The evacuation of the entire southern half of Bassse Terre was ordered Sunday.

The volcano has been active since July 8, when an explosion split open a fault on one of its slopes. One expert said the current volcanic crisis was the longest that has ever occurred in the Antilles, and predicted that the plug of rock holding lava inside La Soufriere would blow off within days if not hours.

Only ash has sifted through the plug and rained onto neighboring villages so far.

Some 200 Fench firemen were expected to arrive here from Paris Sunday. Authorities said they were also awaiting tents and other supplies with which to care for evacuees.

Officials reported a few stray cats and dogs were the only living creatures seen in a tour of almost a dozen towns nestled on the slopes of the cloud-enshrouded volcano.

The panicky exodus by foot, cart, horse and car clogged the narrow roads and lanes twisting away from the 4,785-foot La Soufriere.

The refugees, lugging goats, chickens and bundled possessions, crowded into homes of friends or relatives in outlying areas or took temporary shelter in vast tent camps set up by the French armed forces.

Volcano experts said the main danger was not an eruption of rocks and lava but the explosion of a cloud of burning gas that could pack the force of several atomic bombs and asphyxiate every living thing within its range.

Meanwhile, four British members of a scientific expedition to scale an active South American volcano were missing today after an eruption showered their party with molten lava and rocks as they were climbing within yards of the snowcapped summit.

NEW 'QUAKE HITS CHINA

Times News Services

A massive earthquake struck just off the southernmost coast of the Philippine Islands today, two hours after a strong tremor hit deep inside the Chinese mainland.

There were no immediate reports from the area of the larger quake, which measured 8.0 on the open-ended Richter scale of intensity. But the National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said "local damage is probable."

Israel, U.S. Blasted

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — To a trumpeting of conch shells, leaders of 85 nations representing more than half the world's population opened a summit meeting with an attack on Western financial institutions and the governments of the United States, Israel, South Africa and Rhodesia.

Keynoting the fifth summit conference of nonaligned nations, Sri Lanka Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike urged the leaders to create a "commercial bank for the Third World" so "the financial centres of the world will no longer be limited to New York, London, Zurich and Paris."

The prime minister said the bank would allow developing nations, many of which are deeply in debt to Western banks, to undertake international economic activity "which has so far remained a monopoly of a few multinational private banks in the developed nations."

Asia's first summit conference of nonaligned nations opened with pomp and pageantry. Conch shells were blown as the traditional oil lamp was lighted. Some of the Arab delegates to the four-day session were dressed in flowing robes and headdresses.

NEWS BRIEFS

More Diptheria?

TORONTO (CP) — Three new suspected cases of diphtheria are in isolation in two hospitals here following the death from the disease Thursday of a woman who had been a patient at the Queen Street mental health centre.

Crash Crew's 'Fault'

fatal crash of a Boeing 747 jumbo jetliner, in which 59 persons died, was the fault of the flight crew, an official inquiry reported today. It said the crash of the Lufthansa plane at Nairobi's Ambakasi airport Nov. 20, 1974, "was caused by the crew initiating takeoff with the leading edge flaps retracted because the pneumatic system which operates them had not been switched on."

Opening Picketed

KELOWNA (CP) — Invitations to B.C. Senator Ray Perrault and Premier Bill Bennett to attend the opening of a city museum expansion Sunday were withdrawn when a picket line appeared at the building. The picket line was set up by a member of the Canadian Union of Public Employees local bargaining unit who was joined by two other CUPE officials. The invitations were withdrawn so neither official guest would have to decide about crossing the picket line, a museum spokesman said.

Tanaka Indicted

TOKYO (UPI) — Former premier Kakuei Tanaka, the rags-to-riches politician who headed Japan's government from 1972 to 1974, was indicted today on a charge of accepting a $1.67 million bribe from the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. He is the first premier in Japan's history to be indicted for corruption while he was in office.

Two Rhodesian Police Die in Rocket Attack

Times News Services

SALISBURY — Mozambique gunners fired mortars and rockets across the border at a Rhodesian police post Sunday, killing two policemen, security forces said.

The communique on the attack — reported at Nyamapanda, a few hundred yards from the Mozambique frontier — was the first confirmation that regular Mozambican troops had killed Rhodesian forces.

The communique said a white 19-year-old patrolman and a black 20-year-old constable were killed. Two other policemen were wounded.

On Tuesday, Rhodesian troops launched a raid into Mozambique on a military camp and killed more than 300 black nationalist guerrillas.

Meanwhile in South Africa, black leaders warned the government Sunday that the violence of recent weeks would spread unless blacks and whites meet to talk peace and the government introduces basic policy changes.

Mxolisi Mvovo, acting president of the Black Peoples Convention, which promotes a greater political awareness among blacks, said in a newspaper interview the government had shown it could not deal with black unrest.

"Not only has the country seen extensive violence and great threat to property, life and limb in the past few weeks, it appears that the disturbances are going to be a chronic feature of the black man's resistance to subjugation and that wanton violence will increase rather than abate."

In another development the South Africa government bowed to protests and removed restrictions on blacks who want to buy or build their own homes in black townships.

PENINSULA WATER: FIRST STEP TAKEN

Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis today announced "the first step towards the solution" of the chronic summer water shortage on the Saanich Peninsula.

The Deep Cove, Sidney and Brentwood water districts will be dissolved and the responsibility for water supply on the peninsula turned over to the Capital Region District, he said.

The minister said he plans to establish a peninsula water commission made up of representatives of the three municipalities and the existing water districts.

Christian Troops Open New Attack

BEIRUT (AP) — Christian forces opened a new campaign today to drive the Palestinians from the Meten area of the mountains overlooking Beirut.

"Unless the Palestinians pull out of the Meten area immediately, we will have to evict them by force," said a leader of the right-wing Phalange party, which has the largest militia on the Christian side of the Lebanese civil war.

Reports from the combatants said the Palestinians shelled Christian positions with missiles and anti-aircraft guns during the night, and that Christian militiamen backed by tanks and half-tracks assaulted Palestinian positions at the mountain village of Aintoura.

Fighting also continued in Beirut's devastated commercial sector and the neighboring Chiyah and Ein Rumaneh suburbs, the former Moslem, the latter Christian. Hospital and security sources reported that about 90 persons were killed and 135 wounded during the night.

Phalangist leaders told the commander of the Arab League peace force, Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Hassan Gheneim, that they consider Meten part of their territory in the de-facto partition of Lebanon that is taking shape.

Palestinian sources said their forces will not give up their positions unless they get concessions in return, such as a Syrian withdrawal from eastern Lebanon.

Second Cement Walkout Imminent

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of the Cement Masons Union said Sunday members of his union will be off the job Tuesday or Wednesday, shutting down the province's construction industry.

Frank Stevens had said Thursday the cement masons were prepared to walk off the job on Monday, but said Sunday unless a miracle happens today, his members will be off the job Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest.

Stevens said the union will not accept the Kinnaird report, which ended a 37-day strike-lockout a week ago.

He said his union is upset over a proposed wage discrepancy between ironworkers and cement masons.

The Kinnaird report, brought down by Jim Kinnaird, a former construction union negotiator and associate deputy labor minister, would see construction workers get wage increases of 11.2 per cent to 13.6 per cent on base rates ranging from $9.50 to $12.19 an hour. (See also page 2.)

CLC Head Vows Work Stoppage

Times News Services

Joe Morris, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, says threats of disciplinary action will not stop workers from taking part in the Oct. 14 general work stoppage.

"The decision has been made by the delegates and it will be carried out," Morris said in a telephone interview from Toronto Sunday.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association last week urged its members to seek injunctions, sue unions for damages resulting from loss of production and take disciplinary action against individual workers.

Association president Rodrigue Bilodeau has said the planned stoppage to protest the federal anti-inflation program is an illegal strike.

But Morris said the action is not a strike but a day of protest. "And there is nothing in our laws about protesting against laws. That's what I thought democracy was all about."

Asked if the congress was aware that damage suits might be filed for losses due of the stoppage, Morris said, "the delegates knew what they were doing."

Morris added that he has no intention of turning the protest into a children's crusade.

Morris was responding to a request by Joe Stangl, president of the Canadian School Trustees' Association, that the CLC clarify what it meant by its call for student participation in the Oct. 14 protest against federal wage controls.

Stangl said he was concerned the call might have been directed at children but Morris said it referred to post-secondary students.

Kissinger, MacEachern Try Fence Mending

Times Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Amid signs of strain between the two countries, U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Canadian External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen will attempt to smooth the relationship at meetings here this week.

The meetings were arranged suddenly, and recently, when Kissinger telephoned MacEachen to invite him to dinner on Tuesday and talks the following day.

High on the agenda for the talks will be discussion of disputed Maritime boundaries and how best the two countries can co-ordinate the implementation of their 200-mile fishing zones next year.

Another topic will be the ongoing dispute about Canadian broadcasting policies.

Probably the most public abrasive criticism of Canada came at the start of the Olympic Games in Montreal, when the Trudeau government refused to allow athletes from banner of the Republic of Taiwan to compete under the banner of the Republic of China.

Shortly after this the Canadian-American committee of business, labor and professional leaders issued a lengthy paper which described Canada-U.S. relations as "tense" and warned that if Canada tried to push too hard and too fast for perceived independence from U.S. influences, bilateral co-operation could be in jeopardy.

The Maritime boundaries issue has simmered quietly, without attracting much public attention, for a long time. There have been disputed boundary lines in several regions but the one the U.S. regards as most important is in the Gulf of Maine where jurisdiction over fisheries and mineral rights in the George's Bank area is in contention.

Canada will extend its fishing limit from 12 to 200 miles next Jan. 1, the U.S. has set March 1 as the date for its new fishing zone, whatever the outcome of negotiations at the Law of the Sea conference for an international treaty. The two countries hope to co-ordinate plans for establishing fishing rights and conservation rules within the new zones.

The broadcasting issue has aroused especially strong feelings in the U.S. Congress and among U.S. broadcasters. The dispute involves Canada's legislation wiping out tax concessions to Canadian advertisers on U.S. border television stations and the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission's orders to cable companies to delete the commercials from programs originating in the U.S.

Just two weeks ago, 19 senators sent a stiff letter to Kissinger, enclosing a draft bill which they indicated could be introduced in Congress, retaliating against the Canadian policies.

Engraved wing window on Model A

Surely Henry Ford would be impressed by the attention his Depression-era Model A has received from North America's hotrodders.

Seventy cars, and their owners, from B.C., Ontario, Alberta, Washington, Oregon and California gathered out at the Saanichton fairgrounds over the weekend.

Sponsored by the Vancouver Island Street Rod Association, and billed as the Second Annual Low Bucks Rod Run, the owners admired each other's handiwork.

They start with the car's basic shell — usually a pre-war model — and from there turn it into a work of mechanical art.

Association president Tony Love reported that Jim Woodry of Oregon won the Best Open Car competition with his 1931 Chevrolet roadster, and Phil Mattoon of Yakima, Wash., won the Best Closed Car class with his 1936 Chevrolet pickup. Mattoon was also winner for doing the best restoration work.

$60,000 DAMAGE

TV Blamed for Blaze

A malfunction in an instant-on television set is suspected of causing a fire Saturday night that destroyed a newly-renovated home at 9606 Ardmore Drive in North Saanich.

Chief Ron Evans said today structural damage to the house owned by Lowell Hodges could run as high as $50,000 to $60,000.

Evans said an investigation of the ruins indicated a "hot spot" near the TV.

"But it could have been caused by any number of things. I doubt if we'll ever know for sure."

Evans said Hodges had just finished renovating the waterfront home and had recently increased his insurance.

Hodges and his family were visiting relatives when the fire was spotted at 9:40 p.m. by 16-year-old neighbor Brock Parrott.

He had heard an explosion and his dog barking. He looked through the trees towards the Hodges house and saw flames coming through a living room window.

Evans said by the time he and the volunteer fire department's truck arrived 10 minutes later, the house was engulfed.

The chief said there was little the firemen could do because the closest hydrant was 1½ miles away.

"But even if there'd been a hydrant right in front of the house I doubt if we'd have been able to save much," Evans said.

$4,500 RAISED FOR BIKEWAY

Saanich Ald. Joe Bourque said today four developers have pledged $4,500 toward employing students to work on Greater Victoria's first bikeway.

Earlier this month Bourque appealed to "good corporate citizens" to contribute money to employ students to finish the bikeway. It is estimated $20,000 is needed.

Bourque said he will wait two more days in the hope donations will climb to $10,000. If they do he will ask council to match them so the bikeway can be completed this year.

"We have to have at least two weeks (of work on the bikeway) before school starts," Bourque explained.

He said the regional committee for the bikeway project will contact Highways Minister Alex Fraser, probably in September, to ask the provincial government to help pay for the bikeways.

FIREMEN'S DISPUTE

Council to Act

Victoria city council will consider asking the Labor Relations Board for an order to head off a strike of firefighters slated for Thursday.

Acting mayor Ald. Alf Hood said today the subject will be on the agenda for council's caucus meeting Tuesday. He stressed it would be a council decision based on advice from the city solicitor.

Firefighters served 72-hour notice on the city today, allowing them to strike as early as Thursday in support of their contention the city has failed to abide by an arbitration award giving them parity with most other firefighters in the province.

Hood said council may defer a decision on the question until Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association has met Wednesday to discuss the situation. The association bargains on behalf of the core municipalities, regional district and school board.

Meanwhile, city solicitor Jakob de Villiers said "there is no question that it would be illegal for the firemen to go on strike" since they elected arbitration.

He said there has been erroneous reports published and broadcast regarding the city's position on the arbitration award last month by lawer John Davies.

De Villiers said the city will argue when the case comes up in B.C. Appeal Court that it never agreed to arbitration as a binding means of settling the contract dispute.

The was no question about the city reneging on anything, de Villiers said.

"It's the union, not the employer, which decides if there will be arbitration. They have three choices:

"To go on bargaining, go on strike or go to arbitration."

He said it is the city's position that there had been no settlement through arbitration because a primary part of the award puts firefighters here in a dependent position of accepting the same wage as Lower Mainland firemen. A final settlement has not been reached on the mainland.

But It Turns Out They Were Thistles

ONE MORNING IN THIS apology for a summer, I was lost in contemplation of our globe flowers when a plaintive whistling reached my ears. Shore birds, I decided, and resumed my speculations about those majestic plants.

The whistling continued. Finally it was supplemented by a hail.

A smart outboard cruiser rode at anchor off the home beach, and the couple wading ashore had a familiar look. Most of our visitors arrive by the highway, but Sharon and Gary had come calling in their new boat with an invitation we couldn't refuse.

How about taking a day off for a run to the farther islands? We could land on a beach for lunch. Fish for a while if we were so inclined. Perhaps call in at one of the outposts for fuel and look-around.

Win and I have our own boat, the same plywood 12-footer that has served us faithfully these many years. But its range is limited by its size to close-to-home waters. it would be fun to make a longer reach on a larger, faster craft.

With that settled, we walked Gary and Sharon around our wind-pummeled garden, where growth is slow and only the toughest of our hopeful plantings survive. The stand of globe flowers was our triumph. They stood sturdy and tall, immune to the elements.

Gary studied our pets. Then he said, "First time I've heard of anyone planting Scotch thistles!"

Except for their silver-grwy leaves, the globe flowers did bear a striking resemblance to thistles. Their prickles were the same, and so were the royal blue flower heads that were beginning to reward out careful cultivation.

"Not thistles," I insisted. "They just look kind of like them."

With Sharon's fried chicken and Win's potato salad for cruise stores, we boarded and got under way. The inshore shallows fled astern. We skirted the kelp beds, hustled along by a motor that dwarfed the useful six-horse which hangs on our 12-footer's scarred transom.

There was something to be said for a larger boat. It gave room to move around. It carried conveniences that small-craft lacked. It widened the cruising range and opened new vistas.

All in all, it was a trip to remember. We whipped through Baker Passage, one of the gateways to the island archipelago that trails along the British Columbia mainland. We shared the channels with American sport cruisers of the summer invasion, and loafed along shorelines we hadn't seen for years.

Later, we took the potato salad and fried chicken ashore on little Mitlenatch Island, the bird sanctuary that rises golden and alone from the streaming tides near the top of the Strait of Georgia.

The sun was warm. A coho salmon swirled among bait-minnows in blue water. The chicken and salad were good.

"Remember the pigweed?" Gary said. "The one you transplanted and staked and fussed over all summer?"

I remembered. It was a noble pigweed, even if nurtured in error, and it grew almost as high as our globe flowers.

When we got home, I gave the pride of our garden a long, close inspection. Encouraged by sunshine, several more of the lordly stalks had opened blue to-tufts.

Win joined me.

"I've been thinking," she said. "Maybe it's time we had a bigger boat."

"It'd be fun," I agreed. territory."

"We could cover a lot more

"But we couldn't run it on a spoonful of fuel," Win said, "or yank it up on the beach or stow it in the carport."

"I was thinking that too," I told her.

We both studied the thistle-like plants.

"I just looked up globe flowers in a garden book," Win said. "They have yellow blossoms, not blue."

"Looks like we made a little mistake," I said.

"Then I looked up globe thistles," Win said. "That's what we have. But the book lists them as suitable for a herbaceous border."

Beauty, we're assured, is in the eye of the beholder. Thistles they may be, but high-class ones, and to our eyes a splendid sight!

Coroner Orders Inquest

Victoria coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has ordered an inquest into the death of city fireman Jack Barnes.

Barnes, 60, of 41 Dock, died Friday afternoon after he was knocked into the water when a barge struck his boat while he was fishing off Trial Island.

A spokesman for St. Jorre's office said the inquest will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at McCall Bros., 1400 Vancouver.

Ask The Times

Q. Ask the Times said the Astoria Bridge over the Columbia River is 1,232 feet long. I've driven over it and I'm sure it's much longer. Can you check? N.A.

A. You're right. The centre span is 1,232 feet but the overall length is 4.1 miles.

8-CENT LETTER ENDS SEPT. 1

A Post Office spokesman today reminded Victorians the eight-cent letter will disappear Sept. 1 when the rate goes to 10 cents.

And, effective March 1, it will cost 12 cents to mail a letter in Canada.

Mailing a letter to the United States will remain at 10 cents, but only until March 1 when it will also go to 12 cents.

The rate to the United Kingdom, now 20 cents, will climb to 25 cents effective Jan. 1.

Also on Sept. 1, rates will increase — and in some cases double — for rental of letter boxes at post offices.

The small box rental of $4 to $8 per year will increase to $5 to $10. Large box rental will go to $50 from $25 while bag service for large-volume customers will increase to $75 from $35.

B.C. Ferry Strike Called Off

A threatened strike by 750 deck officers and engineers aboard B.C. Ferries for this Thursday midnight is off, union officials said today.

Peter Marshall, representative for the marine services (licensed) component of the B.C. Government Employees Union, said the BCGEU executive asked the officers to stay at work and refrain from striking.

The component executive was to have been informed at a meeting Sunday.

One union source said the BCGEU made a commitment to the government there would be no job action while the entire union is voting on a general wage increase.

Tallying of votes will not be done until Sept. 20, he said.

The officers component had said it was unaware of this commitment, he added.

The dispute began last May when B.C. Ferries announced layoffs. Officers voted for strike action and that original strike notice was to have taken effect June 1.

Marshall said that notice was cancelled when Hugh Ladner was named as industrial inquiry commissioner in the dispute, but he claimed the notice was still valid.

Marshall apparently didn't discuss the new strike threat with either the BCGEU executive or the executive of the 2,500-member unlicensed group of ferry workers.

Norm Thornber, business agent for the unlicensed group who earlier called the officers move premature, has said he has been assured there will be no more layoffs, other than the 240 announced in June.

Transport Minister Jack Davis, meanwhile, said the officers fear of massive layoffs is unfounded and that anyone with more than two years service cannot be laid off.

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Army, fearing bubonic plague on three of its bases, has declared war on the ground squirrel population of California.

72,000 Leave Homes As Volcano Threatens

Times News Services

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe — La Soufriere volcano, spewing smoke and volcanic dust, will explode in a "catastrophic" eruption in the next week to 15 days, a French scientist said today. But because of a mass evecuation no loss of life is expected.

The scientist, Charles Brousse of the University of Paris, said a warning Sunday that the eruption would occur in a matter of hours was issued to ensure that all 72,000 residents left the area around the 4,813-foot peak.

A 650-foot high cloud of fine volcanic ash rose over La Soufriere as islanders fought their way through traffic jams and highway accidents, many of them in private cars hastily loaded with household possessions and others on buses sent by Guadeloupean authorities from the sister island of Grande Terre.

The evacuation of the entire southern half of Bassse Terre was ordered Sunday.

The volcano has been active since July 8, when an explosion split open a fault on one of its slopes. One expert said the current volcanic crisis was the longest that has ever occurred in the Antilles, and predicted that the plug of rock holding lava inside La Soufriere would blow off within days if not hours.

Only ash has sifted through the plug and rained onto neighboring villages so far.

Some 200 French firemen were expected to arrive here from Paris Sunday. Authorities said they were also awaiting tents and other supplies with which to care for evacuees.

Officials reported a few stray cats and dogs were the only living creatures seen in a tour of almost a dozen towns nestled on the slopes of the cloud-enshrouded volcano.

The panicky exodus by foot, cart, horse and car clogged the narrow roads and lanes twisting away from La Soufriere.

The refugees, lugging goats, chickens and bundled possessions, crowded into homes of friends or relatives in outlying areas or took temporary shelter in vast tent camps set up by the French armed forces.

Volcano experts said the main danger was not an eruption of rocks and lava but the explosion of a cloud of burning gas that could pack the force of several atomic bombs and asphyxiate every living thing within its range.

Meanwhile, four British members of a scientific expedition to scale an active South American volcano were missing today after an eruption showered their party with molten lava and rocks as they were climbing within yards of the snowcapped summit.

NEW 'QUAKE HITS CHINA

Times News Services

A massive earthquake struck just off the southernmost coast of the Philippine Islands today, two hours after a strong tremor hit deep inside the Chinese mainland.

There were no immediate reports from the area of the larger quake, which measured 8.0 on the open-ended Richter scale of intensity. But the National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said "local damage is probable."

Israel, U.S. Blasted

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — To a trumpeting of conch shells, leaders of 85 nations representing more than half the world's population opened a summit meeting with an attack on Western financial institutions and the governments of the United States, Israel, South Africa and Rhodesia.

Keynoting the fifth summit conference of nonaligned nations, Sri Lanka Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike urged the leaders to create a "commercial bank for the Third World" so "the financial centres of the world will no longer be limited to New York, London, Zurich and Paris."

The prime minister said the bank would allow developing nations, many of which are deeply in debt to Western banks, to undertake international economic activity "which has so far remained a monopoly of a few multinational private banks in the developed nations."

Asia's first summit conference of nonaligned nations opened with pomp and pageantry. Conch shells were blown as the traditional oil lamp was lighted. Some of the Arab delegates to the four-day session were dressed in flowing robes and headdresses.

More Diphtheria?

TORONTO (CP) — Three new suspected cases of diphtheria are in isolation in two hospitals here following the death from the disease Thursday of a woman who had been a patient at the Queen Street mental health centre.

Opening Picketed

KELOWNA (CP) — Invitations to B.C. Senator Ray Perrault and Premier Bill Bennett to attend the opening of a city museum expansion Sunday were withdrawn when a picket line appeared at the building. The picket line was set up by a member of the Canadian Union of Public Employees local bargaining unit who was joined by two other CUPE officials. The invitations were withdrawn so neither official guest would have to decide about crossing the picket line, a museum spokesman said.

Alcan Talks Sett

ARVIDA, Que. (Cp) — Alcan Aluminium Ltd. and union leaders for 7,800 striking workers at three of the company's Quebec smelters have agreed to ground rules which would allow for a resumption of talks. An exact date has yet to be set for a resumption of formal neogtiations, suspended since the workers launched their strike June 1.

Tanaka Indicted

TOKYO (UPI) — Former premier Kakuei Tanaka, the rags-to-riches politician who headed Japan's government from 1972 to 1974, was indicted today on a charge of accepting a $1.67 million bribe from the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. He is the first premier in Japan's history to be indicted for corruption while he was in office.

Two Rhodesian Police Die in Rocket Attack

Times News Services

SALISBURY — Mozambique gunners fired mortars and rockets across the border at a Rhodesian police post Sunday, killing two policemen, security forces said.

The communique on the attack — reported at Nyamapanda, a few hundred yards from the Mozambique frontier — was the first confirmation that regular Mozambican troops had killed Rhodesian forces.

The communique said a white 19-year-old patrolman and a black 20-year-old constable were killed. Two other policemen were wounded.

On Tuesday, Rhodesian troops launched a raid into Mozambique on a military camp and killed more than 300 black nationalist guerrillas.

Meanwhile in South Africa, black leaders warned the government Sunday that the violence of recent weeks would spread unless blacks and whites meet to talk peace and the government introduces basic policy changes.

Mxolisi Mvovo, acting president of the Black Peoples Convention, which promotes a greater political awareness among blacks, said in a newspaper interview the government had shown it could not deal with black unrest.

"Not only has the country seen extensive violence and great threat to property, life and limb in the past few weeks, it appears that the disturbances are going to be a chronic feature of the black man's resistance to subjugation and that wanton violence will increase rather than abate."

In another development the South Africa government bowed to protests and removed restrictions on blacks who want to buy or build their own homes in black townships.

PENINSULA WATER: FIRST STEP TAKEN

Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis today announced "the first step towards the solution" of the chronic summer water shortage on the Saanich Peninsula.

The Deep Cove, Sidney and Brentwood water districts will be dissolved and the responsibility for water supply on the peninsula turned over to the Capital Region District, he said.

The minister said he plans to establish a peninsula water commission made up of representatives of the three municipalities and the existing water districts.

Christian Troops Open New Attack

BEIRUT (AP) — Christian forces opened a new campaign today to drive the Palestinians from the Meten area of the mountains overlooking Beirut.

"Unless the Palestinians pull out of the Meten area immediately, we will have to evict them by force," said a leader of the right-wing Phalange party, which has the largest militia on the Christian side of the Lebanese civil war.

Reports from the combatants said the Palestinians shelled Christian positions with missiles and anti-aircraft guns during the night, and that Christian militiamen backed by tanks and half-tracks assaulted Palestinian positions at the mountain village of Aintoura.

Fighting also continued in Beirut's devastated commercial sector and the neighboring Chiyah and Ein Rummaneh suburbs, the former Moslem, the latter Christian. Hospital and security sources reported that about 90 persons were killed and 135 wounded during the night.

Phalangist leaders told the commander of the Arab League peace force, Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Hassan Gheneim, that they consider Meten part of their territory in the de-facto partition of Lebanon that is taking shape.

Palestinian sources said their forces will not give up their positions unless they get concessions in return, such as a Syrian withdrawal from eastern Lebanon.

Cement Walkout Averted

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Construction Labor Relations Association and the cement masons union Monday signed a memorandum of agreement, averting another possible disruption in the province's construction industry.

Frank Stevens, head of the union, had said cement masons would be off the job Tuesday or Wednesday, at the latest.

He said Monday, after meeting with CLRA, that an agreement was reached following a couple of breakthroughs, but he would not disclose what those breakthroughs were.

Stevens said he will recommend that the union accept the memorandum as soon as a meeting is arranged.

He said the memorandum basically embraces the Kinnaird report, which ended a 37-day strike-lockout in the construction industry just over a week ago.

The Kinnaird report, brought down by Jim Kinmaird, a former construction union negotiator and associate deputy labor minister, recommended wage increases of 11.2 per cent to 13.6 per cent on base rates ranging from $9.50 to $12.19 an hour.

CLC Head Vows Work Stoppage

Times News Services

Joe Morris, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, says threats of disciplinary action will not stop workers from taking part in the Oct. 14 general work stoppage.

"The decision has been made by the delegates and it will be carried out," Morris said in a telephone interview from Toronto Sunday.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association last week urged its members to seek injunctions, sue unions for damages resulting from loss of production and take disciplinary action against individual workers.

Association president Rodrigue Bilodeau has said the planned stoppage to protest the federal anti-inflation program is an illegal strike.

But Morris said the action is not a strike but a day of protest. "And there is nothing in our laws about protesting against laws. That's what I thought democracy was all about."

Asked if the congress was aware that damage suits might be filed for losses due ot the stoppage, Morris said, "the delegates knew what they were doing."

Morris added that he has no intention of turning the protest into a children's crusade.

Morris was responding to a request by Joe Stangl, president of the Canadian School Trustees' Association, that the CLC clarify what it meant by its call for student participation in the Oct. 14 protest against federal wage controls.

Stangl said he was concerned the call might have been directed at children but Morris said it referred to post-secondary students.

Kissinger, MacEachen Try Fence Mending

Times Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Amid signs of strain between the two countries, U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Canadian External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen will attempt to smooth the relationship at meetings here this week.

The meetings were arranged suddenly, and recently, when Kissinger telephoned MacEachen to invite him to dinner on Tuesday and talks the following day.

High on the agenda for the talks will be discussion of disputed Maritime boundaries and how best the two countries can co-ordinate the implementation of their 200-mile fishing zones next year.

Another topic will be the ongoing dispute about Canadian broadcasting policies.

Probably the most public abrasive criticism of Canada came at the start of the Olympic Games in Montreal, when the Trudeau government refused to allow athletes from banner of the Republic of Taiwan to compete under the banner of the Republic of China.

Shortly after this the Canadian-American committee of business, labor and professional leaders issued a lengthy paper which described Canada-U.S. relations as "tense" and warned that if Canada tried to push too hard and too fast for perceived independence from U.S. influences, bilateral co-operation could be in jeopardy.

The Maritime boundaries issue has simmered quietly, without attracting much public attention, for a long time. There have been disputed boundary lines in several regions but the one the U.S. regards as most important is in the Gulf of Maine where jurisdiction over fisheries and mineral rights in the George's Bank area is in contention.

Canada will extend its fishing limit from 12 to 200 miles next Jan. 1, the U.S. has set March 1 as the date for its new fishing zone, whatever the outcome of negotiations at the Law of the Sea conference for an international treaty. The two countries hope to co-ordinate plans for establishing fishing rights and conservation rules within the new zones.

The broadcasting issue has aroused especially strong feelings in the U.S. Congress and among U.S. broadcasters. The dispute involves Canada's legislation wiping out tax concessions to Canadian advertissers on U.S. border television stations and the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission's orders to cable companies to delete the commercials from programs originating in the U.S.

Just two weeks ago, 19 senators sent a stiff letter to Kissinger, enclosing a draft bill which they indicated could be introduced in Congress, retaliating against the Canadian policies.
